Governor Herter Undersecretary; Succeeds Hoover

President Accepts Resignation Of Hoover With Regret: Change Will Take Effect About Feb. 1

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Herbert Hoover Jr. resigned today as undersecretary of state, effective about Feb. 1. President Eisenhower accepted Hoover's resignation with deep regret and heaped praise upon the son of the former president.

Young Hoover wrote Eisenhower he intends to resume his career as an engineer. He has been in government service the last three years.

Herter will be formally nomtnated about Feb. 1 when Hoover steps aside, White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said.

Hagerty said Herter's term as governor of Massachusetts will expire about Jan. 14 and that he then plans a short vacation. After that he will go to Washington to work with Hoover for awhile before taking over.

Herter, a Republican, is a former member of the House where he served on the Foreign Affairs Committee.

He was one of the early backers of Eisenhower for President. Harold E. Stassen, the president's disarmament aide, tried unsuccessfully last summer to ditch Vice President Nixon from the GOP ticket and win the nomination for Herter.

Herter said at the time he did not want the nomination. And he placed Nixon's name in nomination.

During the last month Hoover served as acting head of the State Department during the illness of Secretary of State Dulles. Much of the handling of the Middle East crisis was in Hoover's hands.

In a "Dear Herbert" letter to Hoover, Eisenhower said it was a matter of "deep regret" for him to accept the resignation. The president added:

"For more than three years, first as special representative in relation to the Iranian oil problem and then as undersecretary of state, you have served your nation.

"You have done so with outstanding ability and dedication."

Rejects Bid For Drought Area Listing

Special Committee Claims Missouri Does Not Need Aid

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8 (AP)—The Agriculture Department has turned down a request that parts of Missouri be designated a drought area eligible to participate in an emergency hay and feed program.

A department spokesman said the drought committee held that conditions in the state were not acute enough to warrant federal assistance. The committee's recommendation was approved by Under Secretary True D. Morse, the spokesman said.

Gov. Phil M. Donnelly, who had made the original request, said at Jefferson City he had no comment. L. C. Carpenter, state commissioner of agriculture, who made the inspection tour with federal officials, said at Kansas City he would have no comment until he returned to Jefferson City Monday.

Harvey Dahl, an assistant to Secretary Benson and other federal and state agriculture officials toured southwestern and central Missouri last week, interviewing farmers and checking effects of the prolonged drought.

Many farmers contacted said an unfavorable season for winter pasture was one reason the hay and feed program was needed. Some reported they would have to have help within 60 days or they would be forced to sell out.

The Agriculture Department pointed out that Missouri raised corn and soybean crops this year in excess of normal for Missouri. It said the state's hay crop was 82 per cent of normal.

As a result, the department spokesman said, the committee did not believe it could justify recommending the emergency feed program.

The request for the program was forwarded by Gov. Phil M. Donnelly.

Thomas Harvey Heads Extension Council

Thomas U. Harvey, of Longwood Township, was elected chairman of the Pettis County Agricultural Extension Council at its annual meeting Friday afternoon in the courthouse assembly room.

Other officers elected by the organziation which sponsors extension work in the county were: Vice-chairman, Willard T. Hall, Elk Fork Township; secretary, Mrs. Ruby Rehmer, Lake Creek Township; and treasurer, W. P. Nicholson, Hughesville Township. Executive committee members elected were: Mrs. John Silsby, Cedar Township; Mrs. Cloyd Leftwich, Heath's Creek Township; and Mrs. G. E. Stevens, Sedalia Township.

The executive committee meets eight times a year, while the Council of 34 people meets the other four months. At each monthly meeting, bills and reports of the previous month are approved, and plans are made for the months ahead.

Back Into the Traces

Okay, Pop, rub on some more liniment and start pulling that sled again. You're not getting off so easy. Or Donder, on Blitzen!

Mostly fair and warmer today and tonight. Partly cloudy Monday. High today in lower 30's.

The temperature Saturday was 21 at 7 a.m., 22 at 1 p.m. and 20 at 5 p.m. The low Friday night was 21, with .67 inch of sleet, rain and snow overnight and during Saturday.

The temperature one year ago today, high 27, low 11; two years ago, high 43, low 32; and three years ago, high 55, low 30.

Will Provide Dairy Lunch At Meeting

The Pettis County dairy committee is making plans to serve a dairy lunch at the noon hour of the dairy meeting this Wednesday, Dec. 12. It will be served in the dining room of the First Methodist Church by the wives of some of the dairy committee members.

The lunch will be free but tickets will be needed to gain entrance. These tickets will be issued to all dairymen who register for the meeting by 11 a.m. The registration will show name, address and number of dairy cattle owned.

The meeting will start at 10 a.m. with a motion picture on brucellosis. The number of tickets given out by 11 o'clock will indicate the amount of dairy foods the committee will buy for the noon lunch. That lunch will consist of cheese and ham sandwiches, potato chips, cottage cheese, ice cream, and chocolate milk.

The dairy committee has been envious of the crowds attending the Soils and Crops Conferences partially because of the free lunch. However, they had no funds to finance a similar activity. The situation is a little different this year, as some funds were left over from the Dairy Festival last June.

The committee hopes the lunch will bring folks in earlier and in larger numbers. Other features of the morning program include a talk on brucellosis by Dr. L. H. Russell, federal veterinarian for this district, and on dairy cattle feeding by Fred Meinershagan, extension dairyman from the University.

The afternoon program will include a report on the value of milk production records by E. C. Stevens, local dairyman who has been production testing for years. Meinershagan will also be back to discuss a new cow testing program, to explain how milk prices are figured on marketing orders and to review present trends of bulk tank cooling and pipe line milkers.

The meeting will be in the assembly room and will be over by 3 p.m.

Will Again Play Yule Carols at Courthouse

The Chamber of Commerce, under the retail division, of which Harry Nauger is director, will again sponsor the carols this year at the courthouse. The music will start on Dec. 17 and Mrs Rodney Shephard a professional organist, will play from 2 to 5 o'clock each afternoon until Saturday, Dec. 22. Mrs. Shephard is giving her services as she did last year.

Mrs. John Gottschamer, of the Jefferson Piano Co., will provide a Baldwin organ free of charge and Cecil's will install the amplifier without charge.

The carols are for the enjoyment and pleasure of the Christmas shopper in the downtown area.

THEY TOOK ADVANTAGE OF EXTRA SHOPPING HOURS—These busy people, hurrying along Ohio Street Friday night to do their Christmas shopping, were glad to have extra shopping hours at their disposal. The stores are remaining open Mondays and Fridays until 8:30 p.m., and on the week of Dec. 16 they will also remain open late on Thursday and Saturday. The stores will close Christmas Eve at the regular hour of 5 p.m.

Carriers Stop Publication By the 'Star'

They Form Picket Lines; Craft Union Members Stay Away

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 8 (AP) — Picketing by some of its contract carriers today prevented the Kansas City Star from publishing its Saturday editions.

In 20 degree temperatures with snow underfoot, the carriers set up a picket line that was observed by members of the newspaper's craft unions.

Some of the pickets are members of the Newspaper Carriers Union, Local 526, while others were said they were not affiliated with the union.

A spokesman for the carriers said they were seeking an equalization of rates each carrier pays for papers he delivers on his route.

"Right now no two Star carriers pays the same rate for their papers, yet the customers pay the same subscription price," said Howard J. Whalen, secretary-treasurer of the union.

Officials of the Star, describing the carriers' action as "illegal, for the reason carriers are independent merchants," went into court and obtained a temporary restraining order.

Papers were served on the pickets, but they continued their demonstration.

Later in the day the placards were taken over by men identified by Star officials as members of the Pressmen's Union at the Star. Their placards simply said: "The Kansas City Star is unfair to carriers."

As the day went on it became almost a certainty that the Star would be unable to publish its scheduled 152-page edition for Sunday.

The Star said each carrier has "an individual contract with the newspaper and they have no legal collective bargaining standing."

The National Labor Relations Board and the Missouri Supreme Court, the newspaper said, have held that the carriers were not employes.

"This illegal picket line was set up in an effort to implant the idea with the public and employees of the Star that a dispute existed between the Star and some of its employees," Star officials said in a statement. "That is definitely not the case. The carriers are independent contractors and in no sense employees with collective bargaining rights. The Star has no dispute of any kind with any of its employes."

Printers arriving before the pickets began walking, continued at work during the morning, but pressmen, stereotypers, engravers and the late morning printers refused to cross the picket line.

Editorial Cartoonist Fred Packer Is Dead

BRIGHTWATERS, N. Y., Dec. 8 (AP)—Fred L. Packer, Pulitzer Prize winning editorial cartoonist of the New York Daily Mirror, died this morning in his sleep at his home here. He would have been 71 Jan. 4.

Packer had been working for the Mirror from his home until his death.

Packer joined the Mirror staff in 1933 after a cartooning career of 27 years on Los Angeles and San Francisco newspapers.

He won the Pulitzer Prize in 1951 for a cartoon showing an irate then President Truman pointing his finger at the Washington press corps and asserting, "Your editors ought to have more sense than to print what I say."

Presents Decoration Ideas---

Garden Clubs' Yule Show Held at Library

The Sedalia Garden Club Christmas Show which will be held on the second floor of the library this afternoon from 2 to 5, has a world of ideas for decorating during the Chirstmas season, and the materials used are of many kinds created into the loveliest of Christmas symbols.

The show was held Saturday afternoon and evening, but the weather, while it was Christmasy enough, kept many from attending who probably would otherwise have gone.

One of the unusual things used in the making of decorations is dried magnolia leaves. On a Christmas table was a large poinsettia made of dried magnolia leaves painted white and centered with a gilted pine cone. The poinsettias formed a centerpiece for a round table covered with a green cloth, and on either side of the arrangement were pine cones and white candles. Little Christmas corsages of evergreen, ribbons, snowmen and a piece of a white magnolia leaf.

Another table represents, and really looks like, a huge Christmas package. The rectanglar table is covered with a green cloth and centered with a huge bow of wide red ribbon. The ends of the ribbon going four ways from the bow go to the bottom of the tablecloth each way. Holly is used in the big bow and branches go down the table, entwining the large red candles, first tall ones on either side and then shorter ones. On this table, too, is a package wrapped in gold paper tied with a red bow and place cards with candles on them.

The third table has a green cloth covered with snow flakes and bordered with pine cones. In the center is a brass container filled with a pine cone arrangement and silver and gold Christmas ornaments, around a big white glow candle. At each place is a little crinoline angel as a favor.

The madonnas are particularly beautiful. A praying madonna is against a background of white transparent leaves with blue Christmas balls and at the side the white candle holder with Christ on the cross. Another madonna in dainty colors has a small angel on either side with blue beneath their wings. Around this madonna is blue angelhair and there are blue and silver balls, and a long string of blue beads. A madonna, standing in prayer, is against a gold background with a silver star. A very beautiful madonna and child in delicate colors is against a white background and in front are white leaves and frosted blue balls. There are many others of various types of madonnas which arranged with holly, gold pods, spruce and other materials.

There are many clever ideas for gift wrapping and among them are packages on which are designs and lettering done with colored cake icings. Little felt designs pasted on are used, too. There are pretty packages stuck in a rural mailbox and against the post a package wrapped in gold paper on which are red and gold ribbon roses. On top of the mail box is a tiny angel music band. Even a lamp chimney made into a Santa Claus is used as a gift wrapping.

For the door is a beautiful green foil sunburst with rays of green ribbon. In the center of the sunburst is a bunch of small Christmas tree balls. Another door ornament is a wreath made from a

Farm Bureau Heads Named At Meet Here

Pancakes and sausage were served to about 125 Pettis County farmers that managed to get through the weather to attend the annual Farm Bureau meeting held in the Convention Hall at Liberty Park Saturday night.

W. C. Corlew, Smithton, was elected the new president of the Bureau. Other officers elected were B. C. Claycomb, Hughesville, vice president; Mrs. Olen Monsees, Smithton, secretary; and Mrs. Grace H. Pack, Sedalia, treasurer.

Directors elected for a two year term were:

W. T. Summerskill, Blackwater; Mrs. Mary Summers, Bowling Green; Lee Dow, Cedar; Charles Snow, Dresden; Mrs. Willard T. Hall, Elkfork; Mrs. Leo Coffey, Flat Creek; Floyd Egbert, Green Ridge; Mrs. Clay Leftwich, Heaths Creek; Forrest Reid, Houstonia; Mrs. Elmer Rhine, Hughesville; Mrs. Frank Van Dyke, Lake Creek; Claude Finley, Sr., LaLonte; T. J. Ream, Longwood; Mrs. Raymond Neitzert, Prairie; Marvin Goodwin, Sedalia; Leroy Ryan, Washington, and Mrs. Olen Monsees Smithton.

The 17 directors that will remain on the board for another year are Mrs. C. A. Staples, Earl Wood, Mrs. Clarence Williams, Mrs. D. E. Edwards, John Harvey, Robert Welliver, Mrs. Ethel Sims, G. R. Raines, Mrs. Wayne Doris, Leonard De Bord, W. C. Corlew, Mrs. J. V. Little, Mrs. B. C. Claycomb, P. S. Read, Mrs. Ernest Schlobohm, Mrs. Glen Short and W. J. Ficken.

Slippery Glaze Covers Most Of Highways

Kirksville Reports Four-Inch Snowfall; Driving Hazardous

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 8 (AP)—Light snow and freezing drizzle put a slippery glaze on most highways in Missouri and Kansas tonight.

Moving in last night, the precipitation continued during the day. Light snow or freezing drizzle was reported in virtually all sections, except in western Kansas.

Later snow began to replace the freezing drizzle. Heaviest snowfall reported was four inches at Kirksville, Mo.

An inch of snow and ice made highways hazardous in both states. Motorists were advised to use extreme caution.

In Kansas, light snow fell during the afternoon at Dodge City, Hill City, Russell, Wichita, Topeka, Chanute, Emporia and Olathe. Temperatures ranged generally around 20.

Light freezing drizzle and light snow were reported from Kansas City, St. Joseph, Butler, Kirksville and Joplin.

Rolla and St. Louis had light freezing rain, while Columbia reported light freezing rain and light sleet.

Missouri temperatures at 3:30 ranged from 19 at Kirksville to 38 at Malden.

However, the Weather Bureau said late today the storm was moving more rapidly and as a result the snowfall would not be heavy. It withdrew its heavy snow warnings, but said accumulations up to inches are possible tonight in extreme northeast Missouri.

The glazing condition with sleet or freezing rain is expected to continue through the night in Southern Missouri.

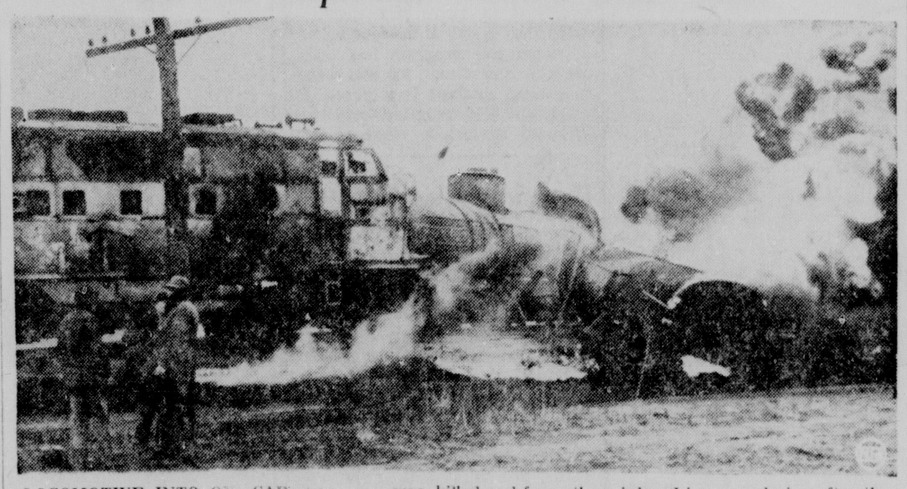

The Missouri Highway Patrol reported highway crews were keeping up with the sleet and snow on most major routes. Traffic generally slowed down to meet the precarious driving conditions.

Opposes Upped Interest Rate on GI Home Loans

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8 (AP)—Rep. Olin Teague (D-Tex), chairman of the House Veterans Committee, today opposed any further increase in the interest rate on government - guaranteed GI home loans.

Of "much greater practical value," he said, would be increased availability of direct government loans to veterans, and a general lowering of down payment requirements under the FHA home loan program.

Oil Car Explosion Costs a Man's Life

LOCOMOTIVE INTO OIL CAR—One man was killed and four others injured in an explosion after the above locomotive struck an oil car during a switching operation near Aulne, Kan. It is believed sparks touched off flames in leaking oil. At least three tank cars and two freight cars were heavily damaged. (NEA Telephoto)

Scores of Hungary Rebels Are Killed As Fights Spread

Indicates Rioting in Budapest Has Moved to Provinces; Labor Leaders Delay General Strike

BUDAPEST, Dec. 8 (AP)—Scores of Hungarians were killed today and many other wounded in clashes with police and Russian troops throughout the countryside, a well informed source reported.

This indicated the rioting earlier this week in Budapest has spread to the provinces.

The informant said 10 persons in a large crowd of demonstrators were killed in a clash with Russian tanks and Hungarian police in the north Hungarian town of Salgotarjan.

The clash occurred when hundreds of Hungarians demonstrated for the release of arrested workers' council leaders.

Leaders of Hungarian workers in Budapest have threatened a general strike unless the Soviet-supported government of Premier Janos Kadar releases the leaders.

The government, bowing to workers' council demands, have freed some of the leaders but an undisclosed number remain in jail.

The informant said many other demonstrators were wounded in the outbreak at Salgotarjan.

Leaders of the workers in Budapest deferred a general strike call in the showdown. But factory workers were told they would receive the latest word tomorrow from their leaders.

The leaders have accused Kadar of policies that threaten to bring down more bloodshed and "a new national tragedy" in Hungary.

Kadar and his minister of state, Gyoergy Marosan, were reported to have told the workers the government considers everyone "counter - revolutionaries" who do not side with them.

The workers believe Kadar intends to use force, if necessary, to break their resistance.

Word was given out that a decision of the Central Workers' Council—the over-all directorate of the workers — would be announced in the district offices of the various factories at 8 a.m. Sunday.

This could be a call for a general strike.

Budapest appeared calm as the city waited word of the next action by the workers. But Russian armored cars and tanks were on ceaseless patrol of the streets—evidence that it was only a surface peace.

There seemed to be no further increase of Russian strength in the capital since early this week when new forces moved in at the time of demonstrations by Hungarian women.

The council has taken up the demands of Hungarian revolutionaries, including free elections and a return to the ousted Imre Nagy. It has protested bitterly arrests of labor leaders and their detention without charges.

Austria Says UN Observers Are Welcome

But Hammarskjold Tells of Continued Refusal by Hungary

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Dec. 8 (AP)—Austria agreed today to admit U. N. observers for an investigation of the situation in neighboring Hungary.

But Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold reported continued failure to get such observers into Hungary itself and into Czechoslovakia, Romania and Yugoslavia.

In a published report to the General Assembly, he also said he had not managed to obtain an invitation to Budapest himself. He expressed doubt that there would be any point in his going unless he could go within 10 days.

Delegates of 17 countries meanwhile scheduled a private meeting here on what to do next to back up the Assembly's unheeded demands upon the Soviet government and Hungarian authorities.

The Assembly has demanded that U. N. observers be let into Hungary, that Soviet troops be pulled out and that deportations from Hungary cease. The resolutions date back to Nov. 4, when Soviet forces poured into Budapest to surpress a rebellion.

Usually well-informed sources said the United States was pushing a plan to blackball the Hungarian delegation to the Assembly by suspending or rejecting its credentials.

They said Belgium had an alternative plan to condemn the Soviet Union and Hungary. They added Peru had a third plan to set up a good offices commission to press the Assembly's recommendations.

Those invited to the private discussion were Britain, France, Peru and the 14 sponsors of the Assembly's last resolution on Hungary adopted early Wednesday.

The 14 were Argentina, Australia, Belgium, Cuba, Denmark, El Salvador, Ireland, Italy, the Netherlands, Norway, Pakistan, Sweden, Thailand and the United States.

That resolution repeating all previous recommendations, also asked the Soviet government and Hungarian authorities to give Hammarskjold not later than yesterday "their consent to receive United Nations observers" in Hungary, to travel freely and report findings to the secretary general.

It also asked that he arrange "for the immediate dispatch to Hungary and other countries as appropriate" of observers appointed by him under an earlier resolution.

Dulles Leaves For Economy Crisis Talks

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8—(AP)—Secretary of State Dulles took off for Paris and a NATO Council meeting today, prepared to discuss the European economic crisis with Allied leaders.

In a brief statement before boarding his plane, he said he was "confident" that next week's North Atlantic Treaty Council meeting "will strengthen the bonds that unite the treaty members."

These bonds have been badly strained in the aftermath of the British-French attack on Egypt six weeks ago. Also, the loss of oil shipments through the Suez Canal and through some Mideast pipelines has hurt the economies of the European countries.

Dulles said it is already apparent that support is needed for the British pound and that "what other needs there are remains to be developed."

He told newsmen that discussions with European governments on their possible needs for American aid will be held primarily in Washington but undoubtedly will "be touched on in my talks" with foreign ministers next week in Paris. He noted that Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey will also attend the Paris meeting.

Humphrey and Secretary of Defense Wilson were traveling several hours behind Dulles, who is due in Paris Sunday at noon, Paris time.

Dulles comments on economic aid capped two days of speculation here over the possibility of some big new American program of financial assistance for Western Europe.

Princess Marie Louise Dies in Britain at 84

LONDON, Dec. 7 (AP)—Princess Marie Louise, 84, granddaughter of Queen Victoria and oldest member of Britain's royal family, died tonight.

Princess Marie Louise was the last surviving granddaughter of Victoria and a cousin of reigning Queen Elizabeth II. The spinster princess lived an adventurous life. Visiting almost every country in the world and wrote several books on her travels.

Her last book—"My Memories of Six Reigns"—came out only a few weeks ago.

Drouth Causes Trouble For Town and Country Factory in Sedalia

The drought of 1956 brought its troubles to the T&C Sedalia factory building as well as to all of those who have water problems on their farms and homes.

The subsoil became so dry that it would not support the main factory building, which settled slightly. The place of greatest damage was where the Sedalia cutting room is now located and where the addition of 1951 joined the original building.

To remedy this, several large holes 15 feet deep were dug, and a sizable reinforced concrete pad was poured underneath the old footings. Then concrete blocks were built up on this footing to fit tight against the under surface of the foundation poured five years ago.

When the building settled some time ago, a crack appeared in the roof which in a driving rain would let water in on the cutting rooms. The roof can now be permanently repaired.

Young Couple Is Helped In Sedalia on Way Home

Recently a young married couple passing through Sedalia had car troubles. They were en-route back to their station at the Air Force Base in Greenville, S. C., from Omaha, Neb., where they had buried their small child but a few days before. But here in Sedalia they found people who believed in them and trusted them.

Sgt. Charles Thomas Chase, 24, and his wife, Patsy Love, 21, had a wreck with a 1947 Dodge car driven by a Kansas Citian. The other car wasn't damaged much but the Chase car was extensively damaged and their trip appeared as if it would have to be delayed several days.

Sgt. Chase tried to drive it back to Sedalia to a garage when the motor steamed up and he had to stop. Trooper Robert Stockdell of the State Highway Patrol who had investigated the accident, got a chain and pulled the car on to the Mike O'Connor Chevrolet - Buick Garage.

The short "skeleton" crew, which works Saturday afternoons, was preparing to leave for their homes. Trooper Stockdell explained the young couples predicament. Rolla Templeton, shop foreman, and George Bryant, service man, checked the car over, then mechanics Albert Breuhel and Jim Holden, heard the story.

The mechanics offered to stay and help if someone could get the radiator fixed. Trooper Stockdell then began calling. He located George Bird of The Radiator Shop who said he'd fix it. The mechanics tore into getting it off the car and ten minutes later Mr. Bird drove off with the radiator. In the meantime the mechanics twisted and bent out the fender so a headlight could be installed. When the radiator was returned it was put in place and all this was done in about an hour and a half, in the garage at 6 p.m. and out at 7:30 p.m. The bill would run $11.89, but Ray Hatfield said for them to go on and when they got the money they could send it back.

This past week Hatfield received a letter from Patsy enclosing a money order for $11.84, but when she got home she found she had cut it five cents short. The next day she mailed in the nickle to Hatfield.

"It's people like Sgt. Charles and Patsy, that make you glad that you can trust most people. They were a nice young couple too," Hatfield said, "and that's what made the fellows want to help them out in their time of real need."

Keystone Club Holds Christmas Party

Members of the Keystone Club of Windsor enjoyed their annual Christmas party Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. C. E. Cline with Mrs. William Odneal as assisting hostess. There were 17 members and one guest, Miss Donna Ruff, present.

Following the short business meeting a program of Christmas music was given by Mrs. Ralph Allen and Mrs. George Stiles.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses.

BaptistChurch Celebrates Its Centennial

The Knob Noster Baptist Church held its centennial celebration Sunday, Dec. 2, with 200 attending. The Rev. Harry Higgins is pastor.

The Rev. Ralph Maness, Springfield, a former pastor, was the morning speaker on "Christ, the Foundation of the Church."

A basket dinner was served at noon.

Mrs. Don Webster gave the history of the church in the afternoon before the Rev. Lloyd Collins, public relations department, Missouri Baptists in Jefferson City, talked on "The Churches Missions of Today."

The Baptist Church of Knob Noster was organized in 1856 by A. P. Williams with the following charter members: Joseph Bowman, Mrs. Joseph Bowland, John Corman, Mrs. Ellen B. Corman, Mrs. Ellen Z. Littlefield, G. C. Reese, Mrs. Mary Reese, William Wortham, George Young, Dr. Atkerson, John Pigg, Mrs. Sarah A. Wyatt, James R. Johnson and E. M. Johnson.

They worshipped in the Cumberland Presbyterian Church in the "Old Town" of Knob Noster. During the Civil War the church records were lost, and after the Civil War, the church was re-organized in 1867.

In 1868, they began a new building on the present site, which was 33x60 feet with a 12 foot vestibule in front. It was well carpeted, and had two chandeliers, side lamps, a good organ, a blackboard, maps and charts. The building which cost $4,000, was completed in 1869 and dedicated the following year by the Rev. Charles Whiting.

The church records were again lost between 1867 and 1889, during which time something happened to the first building. The second building was built during this period, and was like the first, except a steeple and bell were added.

The church began to see the need of a larger building and tore down the old building. The present building was built on the same site and was dedicated Oct. 24, 1926. At this service, a bronze tablet in memory of Mrs. Jane Mock was unveiled. Mrs. Mock had bequeathed the church money and property to the extent of several thousand dollars.

The baptistry, with the painting, was presented to the church by Edwin C .Littlefield, in memory of his mother, Mrs. Ellen Z. Littlefield.

In 1952, a parsonage was built on property willed to the church by Mrs. C. V. Huff, Sr. Money left to the church by Mrs. William Shoemaker was used to help erect the building.

In March, 1956, the church purchased the property west of the church for Sunday school rooms, including the nursery.

At present the membership of the church is 298. Mrs. Margaret Hocker, the oldest member, was baptized 70 years ago, and still attends regularly.

The following have served as pastors of the church: Charles Whiting, J. L. Cole, J. L. Carmichael, Rev. Hudson, W. R. Green, S M. Victor, F. M. Wodley, William Tipton, B. L. Mitchell, Edward James, J. S. Denton, J. W. Bevelle, C. F. D. Arnold, H. C. Barton, W. G. Patterson, Thomas Potter, S P. Stafford, Raymond Palmer, T. W. Henshaw, John E. Turner, F. C. Neeley, W. A. Ferrell, Earl Clausen, A. S. Gwinn, H. H. Martin, D. H. Howerton, O. A. Blaylock, J. L Thorup, Ralph Maness and Harry Higgins

Red Cross Presents Warsaw School Books

The American Red Cross has presented the Warsaw Elementary School a set of 42 books known as the American Junior Red Cross Book Box, an International Library Program for the promotion of international understanding and good will.

The sponsorship of this program by the American Junior Red Cross is an outgrowth of programs in the field of international relations that have been a constant part of the Junior Red Cross activity since the beginning of junior membership in 1917.

This aim of promoting international understanding and of improving internation relations is not only one of the general purposes of the American National Red Cross, but is also a part of the purpose of the League of Red Cross Societies, in which our own society is an active participant.

Missouri is one of the four states in which this program has been put into operation, 1,500 sets were distributed in these four states. If successful the program will be extended to include other states.

Harmony Class Meets

The Harmony Class of the Warsaw Methodist Church held its regular class party, held every fifth Thursday of a month, in the church basement, Nov. 29. The program and entertainment were in charge of Blanche Grissom, Mrs. Minnie Hart and Mrs. Ethel Riddle.

The Junior class rings have arrived, but will not be given out until all have paid for them.

Report cards were given out Friday morning at 10:30 by Father Brunswick.

The Glee Club made a public appearance Thursday afternoon for the Mother's Club in the school cafeteria. The group will appear on television Dec. 30 instead of Dec. 23 as was previously announced.

Pictures of the Mizpah, cheerleaders and the Glee Club were taken for the annual recently by Lee Redmond, Spectrum photographer, assisted by Sister M. Rosita, photography supervisor.

Warsaw Homemakers Hear Home Agent Talk

Mrs. Robert Drake entertained at her home 15 members of the Warsaw Homemakers Club Nov. 27. Josephine Johnson was a visitor. Roll call was answered with "What I am the Most Thankful For."

Mrs. Bernice Stamm, Benton County Home Agent, gave a very interesting talk on flower arrangements.

The club members planned a day of needle work and a contributed dinner for the month of December. The meeting will be Dec. 18 in the home of Mrs. Herman Hosmann.

The hostess and co-hostess, Mrs. Orla Crudginton, served refreshments.

Blend butter or margarine with brown sugar and cinnamon and use as a spread for toast. Nice for an after-school snack.

Actor Makes First Film In Six Years

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Note to Broadway theater goers: If Burgess Meredith reads his Shavian lines in "Major Barbara" with a Japanese accent, excuse it, please.

The confusion will be natural. For this week Meredith is on a merry-go-round that might even throw such a craftsman as he.

Here's his schedule for the week: On Sunday he was in Boston, helping with the rewrite of "Speaking of Murder," his first effort as a stage producer. Sunday night he flew to New York, where he caught an overnight plane to Los Angeles.

Monday and Tuesday he was dubbing dialogue for "Joe Butterfly," a film he made last summer in Japan and in which he plays a native black marketeer. Then he flew back to New York, arriving in time for the Wednesday matinee of "Major Barbara." After the evening performance he had the rest of the week off to whip his own production into shape in Boston.

I somehow managed to catch up with him out here between recording sessions at Universal-International. He was affable, if somewhat frenzied. "Joe Butterfly" is his first film in six years, and I asked him about his absence.

"A lot of things have intervened," he explained. "I thought I should go back to the theater and re-establish myself as a stage performer. I would get myself involved in shows and couldn't accept film roles. For instance, I was touring two years in 'Teahouse of the August Moon.'

"Also, I worked for a year for the Ford Foundation in 'Excursion' on TV. Meanwhile, I was raising a family; I have two children now."

But when "Joe Butterfly" came along, he couldn't resist the chance to see Japan.

Darrell Wilson Will Complete Training

Army Pvt. Darrell D. Willson, Versailles, is scheduled to complete six months of active military training Dec. 15 under the Reserve Forces Act program at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo.

Willson will now be permitted to finish his military service with a local Army Reserve or National Guard unit.

The son of Mrs. Ruth Willson, 400 South Monroe, he was graduated from Versailles High School in 1956.

Mohammedan Faith Is Strong—

Dr. Collins Says Religion Will Solve Middle East Feud

"I am very optimistic of the whole situation in the Middle East" Dr. Earle Collins, president of Missouri Valley College, Marshall, told members of the Business and Professional Women's Club and their guests at the dinner meeting Thursday night at Bothwell Hotel. Dr. Collins went on to explain that not since the birth of the Christ child, 1,956 years ago, had the eyes of the world been so focused upon the place, geographically, where Christ was born until now.

The Middle East, said Dr. Collins, is the birthplace of three great religions. First, he pointed out, there was Judaism, the religion of the Jews, who believe in one living God whom they called then, and still call, Jehovah. They lived in the land that was all of the Middle East. It was the land of Abraham, of Jacob, of Isaac, he said.

Then, here in the Middle East, he said, the Christ child and Christianity were born. The Christians believe, also, in one living God, whom they call God.

Then in this same area was born Mohammed and, through him, Mohammedanism was born. The Mohammedan religion, too, has one living God called Allah. The Mohammedans recognize Christ only as a great teacher. Five times a day they are called to prayer, the first time when it is light enough to distinguish a white thread from a black thread, and the last time when it is too dark to distinguish the color of the thread. When it is time to pray, the Mohammedans fall to their knees and bow forward, repeating the prayer and always facing Mecca, the birthplace of Mohammed. It is the place where all Mohammedans hope some day to go. That would be their greatest accomplishment in life and many have died trying to get there, Dr. Collins said.

Other religions have many gods, Dr. Collins told the group, but these three religions have no idols; they have living Gods.

Egypt, Dr. Collins said, has no minerals or resources. It has but the fertile valley of the Nile. In that country there are only two classes of people, the very rich and the very poor. The very poor farm with the ancient implements used in the time of Christ and, on the average, three people must live off of one acre of land. They are hungry and discouraged, so it is promises of better things from the Communists that have made them wonder.

About a year ago, Dr. Collins explained, the United Nations and the United States saw that Egypt was having a terrible time keeping its people alive, so they offered a loan to Egypt for the construction of the Aswan Dam, the biggest man-made structure in the world at that time, so that the water of the Nile could give more fertile land to Egypt, and for this they were to be repaid by Egypt's cotton. Then came President Abdul Nasser, who mortgaged the cotton crop for 20 years to pay for planes from a Communist country. When the United Nations objected, he said "Very well, keep your money. We will get rich by taking over the Suez Canal." So, said Dr. Collins, he stole what belongs to France.

"You can't operate the canal," Nasser was told, because it had taken the English and French, with 20 years experience, to operate it, but he said he could and he did.

It was John Foster Dulles, Dr. Collins said, who kept the British and French from jumping on Egypt right then and, when they did, it was too late. But Dr. Collins felt it was even so a wise thing. So, that was how the conflict started, he explained.

But he does not think there is danger, because the Mohammedans believe in one living God, and all people in that area belive in a living God, whereas the people behind the Iron Curtain believe in no god. You cannot release a Mohammedan from his religion, Dr. Collins said, and so he believes that the solution will be religion.

Miss Hazel Palmer, national president of the Business and Professional Women's Club, said that she felt very hopeful as we approach the horizons of the new year. Out of Hngary, she believes, has come the opening of the eyes of the people of the world who might have gone with the Soviet. She was glad, too, that America had opened its heart in trying to give help to the Hungarian refugees. Bad as the suffering is, she said, something good will come of it, but she stressed, "Keep your eyes on America, to keep it free."

The meeting was opened by Mrs. Anna Bagby, president, and invocation was given by Miss Eugenia Arnold.

The program was turned over to Mrs. Kenneth Middleton, legislative chairman, who introduced the speaker.

She also presented Miss Mary Jo Case, who sang three numbers, the lively "Santa Claus Is Coming To Town" and two Christmas carols, "O, Holy Night" and "Silent Night." Mrs. Duane Ewing was the accompanist.

The group singing was led by Miss Eugenia Arnold.

Guests introduced were Miss Wain Brosing, Mrs. Frank Armstrong, Mrs. Ivan Berry, Mrs. Ralph Morris, Miss Barbara Armstrong, Mrs. Aubrey Case and Mrs. Hannah Anderson.

Miss Doris Stott, membership chairman, announced that the club now has 175 members.

Mrs. Bagby told of "Know Your America Week" activities, sponsored by the Business and Professional Womens Club at the request of Miss Palmer and carried through by Mrs. Marjorie Garansson. She also told of the float the club had in the parade which won second place in the civic clubs division.

Mrs. Albert Dirck presented the scrapbook to the club.

Members of Mrs. Middleton's committee were Miss Alma Adams, Mrs. Lottie Burford, Miss Freda Mueller, Mrs. Cecil Peoples, Mrs. Floyd Priddy, Mrs. P. V. Scotten, Mrs. Myrtle Snyder, Mrs. F. W. Tennyson and Mrs. Frank Zahringer.

The decorations were in keeping with Christmas, with large poinsettas of pink, blue, silver and white, with white lighted tapers in star candleholders on each table and an arrangement of cut flowers as a centerpiece for the speaker's table, and poinsettas, candles and little Santas on either end.

Tipton Woman Visits Her Home in Germany

After a four month's stay in her homeland, Germany, Mrs. Leon Fry and her children, Norman 6, and Shirley, 4, have returned to their home in Tipton.

Mrs. Fry, the former Miss Louise Franz of Nurnberg, married Mr. Fry while he was stationed in Germany. This was her first trip back since 1948.

Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. John Franz. Her father is a civil engineer. They have two other daughters, Sigelind, who is a student at the University in Wurzberg, Germany, and Gudrun, a high school student.

The flight home required exactly two days from Frankfurt, there being eight hours' difference in time.

You get better looking in a '57 Chevrolet!

Chevy gives you a whole new outlook behind the wheel. And isn't that new instrument panel a honey!

You feel for all the world like you're viewing one of these new wide-screen movies when you first look through that '57 Chevrolet windshield. Its new, deeper design gives you better, safer seeing. The whole outdoors seems to surround you in its crystal curve.

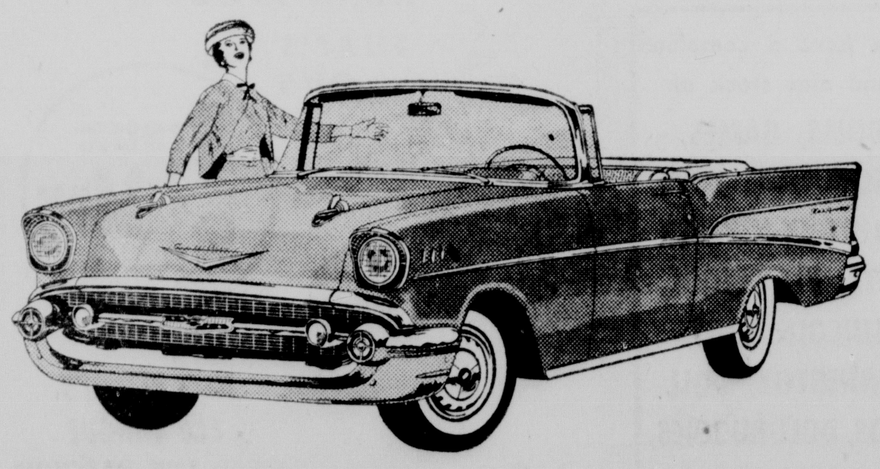

Glance down—just a bit—and your eyes rest on the sweetest instrument panel a car ever had. Gauges are shielded against sunglare in a deeply hooded cove.

You have an exciting sense of full command—an urge to curl your fingers around that slimly sculptured steering wheel and find out if the going's as good as the looking.

It's even better. You make that happy discovery in a few smooth-flowing miles. Chevy's full of vinegar (horsepower ranges up to 245*), and so well behaved that it gives you a whole new outlook on driving. Come in and see.

First Parachute Jump—

'Show-Me State' Has Long List of Historical Firsts

By Leslie G. Kennon
Missouri Division of Resources And Development

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo.—Did you know that Missouri had the first lead shot tower west of the Alleghenies? How about the first parachute jump from an airplane—that was also made in the Show-Me State!

The Missouri Division of Resources and Development, a "store house" for information and data of all kinds about the state, has come up with a long list of "firsts" varied enough to interest any Missourian — or outstater, for that matter.

For example, probably almost everyone knows that when Charles A. Lindbergh, a St. Louisan, was, lifted from his "Spirit of St. Louis" cockpit before a crowd of 25,000, the first non-stop flight from the United States to Europe had been completed.

But did you know that on May 28, 1819 another new transportation "first" came into being in Missouri? That was the date the Independence arrived at Franklin. It was the first steamboat to ascend the Missouri River and marked the beginning of a colorful period of river steamboat traffic.

The first regular monthly mail stagecoach between Independence, Mo. and Santa Fe began its initial trip July 1, 1850 and nine years later to the day, four men set out from St. Louis to begin a milestone flight in the history of aeronautics—in a balloon. When they climbed to the ground at Henderson, New York, they had gone 804 miles from St. Louis, a record not surpassed until 1900.

The first postal car in the history of the U. S. mails was constructed in Hannibal and, in fact, it began operations here, too— on cars of the Hannibal and St. Joseph railroad.

The Baron DeKalb, first ironclad gunboat, was launched on the Mississippi River at Carondelet in 1861; the first journalism school with a separate faculty and laboratory equipment was originated in 1908 at the University of Missouri in Columbia and the first osteopathy school was begun in Kirksville in 1892.

The first parachute jump we talked about was made in March, 1912 by Capt. Bert Berry from a Benoist Pusher plane piloted by Tony Jannus at Jefferson Barracks, Mo. and the first president to fly — Theodore Roosevelt — was piloted by Archie Hoxsey of St. Louis.

The first international fight with bare knuckles was fought on the outskirts of St. Louis in 1869 with Mike McCoole, the American, fighting Tom Aller of England. McCoole won on a "questionable foul" in the ninth round.

Here are some more "firsts" among the dozens to be found: the first and only federal cemetery in the nation to contain graves of both Union and Confederate soldiers was opened in 1911 at Springfield (it's still a tourist attraction); the first diesel engine built for commercial service was completed in 1898 at St. Louis, and the first university law school to admit women was the Washington University School of Law (1869).

The first systematic removal of a lung carried out according to pre-operative plans was performed July 24, 1933 by Dr. William F. Reinhoff in Maryland — but a Missouri Doctor, Dr. Everts Graham, of St. Louis at Barnes hospital on April 5, 1933, successfully removed a lung in a one-stage operation.

The first postage stamp bearing the name of a living American was in 1927, when a 10-cent blue stamp pictured Col. Lindbergh, the Missourian. And the first adding machine successfully marketed was invented by William Seward, a St. Louisan.

It's a small list, compared to the file of "firsts", but it shows again what a big place Missouri has had in the overall picture of things.

Extend Vacation Time

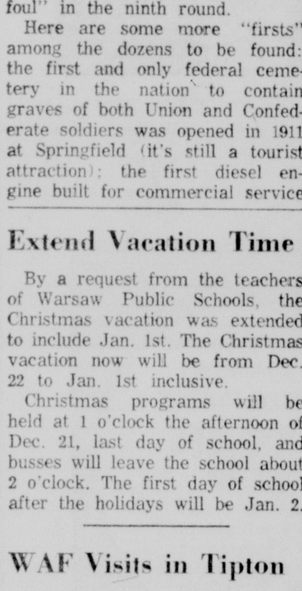

By a request from the teachers of Warsaw Public Schools, the Christmas vacation was extended to include Jan. 1st. The Christmas vacation now will be from Dec. 22 to Jan. 1st inclusive.

Christmas programs will be held at 1 o'clock the afternoon of Dec. 21, last day of school, and busses will leave the school about 2 o'clock. The first day of school after the holidays will be Jan. 2.

WAF Visits in Tipton

Miss Monica Wolf, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Wolf, of Greenwood, formerly of Tipton, spent several days in Tipton visiting relatives. A member of the WAF, she recently finished her basic training at San Antonio, Tex. After her leave she will be stationed at Scott Field Ill.

Ever serve canned figs and fresh orange segments together for a fruit compote? For company, top with whipped cream.

FUR WHAT?—Those are not albino caterpillars attacking this model's face but pieces of white mink on an unusual hat by Svend of Paris. Rhinestone-dotted brown net drawn tightly about the head with a big bow comprises the rest of it.

Moose Club Toy Drive Receives Good Support

This is most certainly going to be a "toy-ful" Christmas for the needy boys and girls in Sedalia, if the public continues to support the Moose "Operation Santa Claus" campaign as they have in these first two weeks.

According to Walter McMellen, chairman of the Moose lodge's civic affairs committee, the people of this area are responding wonderfully in this effort to make sure that Santa doesn't forget any boy or girl in this community.

In addition to the many toys, there have also been letters to the Moose committee, complimenting them on this project and endorsing the Toys for Needy Children campaign.

Here are the locations of the toy collection depots where either new or undamaged used toys may be deposited: R and H Market, 16th and Park; Bing's United Supers (both stores); Anderson's Grocery, Grand and Cooper; East End Drug Store, Fifth and Engineer; Safeway, Inc.; Moose Lodge, 114 East Second, or phone 3229 after 4 p.m. for pickup of toys.

Many Moose volunteers, in addition to the members of the civic affairs committee, are busy sorting, classifying and wrapping the toys already contributed. The names of needy boys and girls in this area are being obtained from local welfare agencies.

As in 1954 and 1955 the Moose Toys for Needy Children campaign is being conducted throughout the United States, Canada and Alaska by the Loyal Order of Moose with the wholehearted cooperation of Dave Garroway, popular star of NBC's television program, "Today." Thousands of communities are cooperating in the drive to make this a "toy-ful" Christmas for every needy boy and girl.

Regional Library Notes—

Plastic Model of Heart With Manual Is Available

The Pettis County Heart Council has presented the library with a large plastic heart model mounted on a stand and constructed with three hinged sections for study of the organ's interior. This model is accompanied by a teacher's manual which will prove most helpful. The manual and the mounted model may be borrowed from the library and should be valuable to extension clubs, PTA health chairmen, and school classes in physiology and biology.

Interest in the heart and in various cardiac ailments has resulted in a goodly number of excellent magazine articles within recent months. Additionally many fine and practical books on the subject have been published over the past few years. These books vary in scope from Charles Yale Harrison's "Thank God for My Heart Attack"—a book many doctors recommend — to Florence Field's "Gourmet Cooking for Cardiac Diets." If you have a need or interest in the subject consult your library for further suggestions.

The Christmas season brings a rush of requests for holiday program aids. This is a long standing problem with libraries, since it is impossible without unlimted funds to build up sufficient materials to serve everyone. Films, filmstrips and records are expensive items, and become even more expensive in the special fields which have only seasonal use and which for the majority of the year have no particular market. Boonslick Regional Library has a limited number of filmstrips and records on Christmas subjects and music. These are available for use on a "first-come—first - served" basis. No mail service is possible during December because of the lengthy tie-up this occasions; but if you can come into the library with your request there may be something of benefit for your group in the field of audio-visual helps.

Monday, Dec. 17: Prairie Home School, 9:00-2:00; Prairie Home downtown, 2:00 - 2:30; Roy Edward's, 2:45-3:30; Cliff Hunt's, 3:40-4:00.

Sedalia Listed In Wall Street Advertisement

Thirty-six Missouri cities and towns are listed in the latest industrial advertisement issued by the Missouri Division of Resources and Development, Richard M. Kinne, industrial director, announced today.

The advertisement, announcing availability of a new booklet, "available industrial tracts in Missouri," first appeared in the Dec. 3rd issue of the Wall Street Journal. It is scheduled for future appearances in the New York Times and other newspapers and magazines.

The 170-page illustrated booklet is issued free to industrial prospects.

"It contains a complete digest of Missouri's 'tailor-made' industrial opportunities, including air photos of available industrial locations with complete nformation on power, water, transportation, topography, business, labor and markets of these cities," Kinne said.

Those named in the ad are Brookfield, Cape Girardeau, Carrollton, Carthage, Chillicothe, Clinton, Columbia, Excelsior Springs, Hannibal, Independence, Jefferson City, Joplin, Kansas City, Kennett, Kirksville, Lee's Summit, Lexington, Marshall, Maryville, Mexico, Moberly, Monett, Nevada, North Kansas City, Palmyra, Poplar Bluff, Rolla, St. Charles, St. Joseph, St. Louis, Sedalia, Sikeston, Springfield, Webb City and West Quincy, Missouri.

Try Oriental Simplicity For Restful, Pretty Home

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

If you'd furnish a pretty, restful home, take a tip from the Orient and avoid clutter says pretty decorator - designer Yuki Nason. She explains:

"A sofa and a couple of chairs are all a living room needs for comfort. Yet the pattern in America is to buy enormous pieces of furniture that may dwarf a room and the occupants."

Mrs. Nason, born in this country and educated in Japan, says her decorating style has been influenced by studying traditional Japanese rituals of the tea ceremony and flower arrangement.

She'd suggest that American women take the cue to give their homes a gentle, cozy look. .. lots of flowers . . . one big clutter drawer in every room for paraphanalia to be emptied perhaps once a week . . . a sofa and as few chairs as possible in the living room, cushions stacked in the corner to be used on coffee tables, benches or even on the floor for guests . . . prettier handles for sliding doors . . . floor rugs that show off the beauty of the wood grains that border them . . . subdued background ,wall colors with dramatic accessories . . . ceilings in contrasting colorful hues rather than pasty white . . . umbrella stands for dripping umbrellas.

Home is a place for children too, says Mrs. Nason, mother of a two-year-old. Instead of banning them from every room or expecting them to fly over precious furnishings, choose the furnishings that will endure. Plastic table tops are her favorites, she says. She chooses rounded styles, safer than sharp - corner types. She hooks the standing screen that might topple on a toddler otherwise. And please, she advises, "never make a child sleep on a cheap mattress if you want to keep it healthy and happy."

At one home Mrs. Nason decorated, she consulted a small boy about his decor preferences. He replied:

"All I'd like is a floor that could have ink spilled on it without causing too much trouble." Children need space for books, toys and lots of things parents never consider, she reminds us, so give them room to spread out.

She's all for changing room accessories several times a year to avoid boredom. Or move them from room to room or store them in a closet, she advises.

The trend to Oriental furnishings is keeping Mrs. Nason busy, and while she adores integrating American modern, French, Italian and Swedish styles with Japanese furnishings, she laments the sad use of some of the Eastern home fashions.

"It is wonderful to have a good piece, a handsome vase or table or figurine of the type shown at the Japanese Trade Center in New York, but the cheap Oriental things, some of the bamboo blinds and knick-knacks that people buy can do no more than ruin the look of their other furnishings."

Lacquered Oriental pieces are very popular in American homes she says, but difficult to have manufactured here because of the strenuous refinishing job — at least four sprayings of lacquer.

"All Japanese furniture requires tedious refinishing" she says, "much of it is done by rubbing soy bean flakes (made from bean curd) in a bag over fresh wood every day. It may be washed with soap and water between times and still maintain its lovely sheen. Japanese use this method on floors also."

The most intriguing and practical home furnishing style in America now is the bed that is pulled out of the wall like a drawer in a filing cabinet, Mrs. Nason says, adding:

"That's the way all furniture should be, serving from the utilitarian viewpoint. Artistic pieces such as paintings, wall hangings, lamps should dominate the room."

Sfc. Lloyd E. Banty Attends NCO School

Army Sfc. Lloyd E. Banty is attending the 2d Armored Division's Non-Commissioned Officer Academy in Baumholder, Germany.

Sgt. Banty, regularly assigned as a tank commander in Company C of the 66th Tank Battalion, is receiving a four - week refresher course in various phases of troop instruction.

Banty, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Banty, 114½ East Main, Sedalia, entered the Army in March, 1948. He has been overseas since March, 1953.

In civilian life, the 31-year-old soldier was employed by Cramer-Schrader Construction Co. in Sedalia.

Sgt. William Trout In Landing Exercise

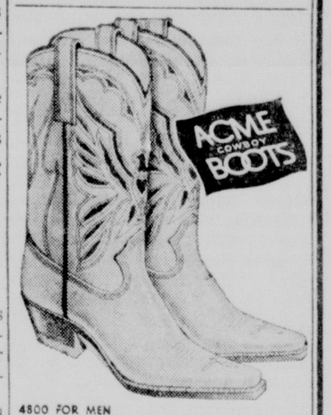

Sgt. William M. Trout, son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Trout of 508 South Summit, Sedalia, participated in a major amphibious landing exercise (AGLEX - 57G) during Nov. 28-Dec. 6 at Camp Pendleton, Calif.

Highlight of "AGLEX" was the first use of large seaplanes by combat forces in regular training maneuvers. The seaplane, known as the R3Y, loads combat troops and equipment from the bow.

It was used to transport Leathernecks from the 1st Marine Division's 5th Regiment in a raid and destruction mission against "enemy" installations on the Salton Sea, located in the Imperial Valley near Brawley, Calif.

Other features of the exercise included a combined land, sea and air assault on "aggressor" territory at Camp Pendleton on D-Day, Dec. 3.

The attack was accomplished through a conventional amphibious landing, a helicopter - borne troop assault launched from aircraft carriers, and Marine jets flying close air support.

Accidents

Ten persons escaped with minor hurts in an accident which could have been a tragedy about 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon when a pickup truck overturned on County Highway HH about a mile west of Highway 135.

Mr. and Mrs John Scott were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. John Peters, and their six children when the accident occurred. Mrs. Scott suffered an injury to her left leg and Francis Peters, 13, a gash on the right side of his forehead and slight abrasions and bruises.

Mrs. Scott and the Peters boy were brought to Sedalia in the Ewing ambulance and taken to the Bothwell Hospital where Dr. Carl Siegel rendered medical treatment.

Scott was driving the 1939 Chevrolet pickup truck and was starting up a hill when the car failed to make the grade and began slipping backwards It slid back down the hill into a ditch and rolled completely over once, landing on its wheels.

A framework on the body of the truck which was covered by canvass protected the six children and Mr. Peters, who were riding in the back. As the truck rolled over they were dropped out on the ground and the truck continued rolling over, missing them completely.

Mrs. Scott and Mrs. Peters were riding in the cab of the truck with Scott.

The Peters family lives in Clifton City while Mr. and Mrs. Scott live on the Gordon Callis farm north of Sedalia on the Beaman road.

Fires

The fire companies were called at 9:55 p.m. Friday to the residence of Harry Walch, 711 West Broadway, where a flue was burning out. No damage resulted.

Other Fires

Slight damage resulted in a car fire on West Main Street near the 50 Drive-in Theatre Friday evening after the Pettis County Fire Department sped to the scene. The blaze was quickly extinguished.

Police Reports

The front door to the Trading Post, Broadway and Marshall, was found open by the police at 7:35 p.m. Friday. The owner was notified and asked the officers to lock the door.

The back door of the Foster Grocery was found open by the police but the screen was locked. The owner was notified.

Marshall Lee Crose, Jefferson City, notified the Sedalia police that he lost his brown leather billfold at the Brown's Service Station on U.S. Highway 50, west of Sedalia Saturday afternoon.

Crose told the police he took it out and laid it down when he got a bottle of pop When he started to get it, it had disappeared. He said it contained $300 in cash and some scale bills for his truck.

A check at the service station revealed it was not found there by any employees

Police are endeavoring to locate a man giving the name of C. R. and C. H Parker who, it was alleged, passed several worthless checks in Sedalia. According to the police a warrant has been issued for his arrest.

It was reported he passed a check at the Patterson's Bros. clothing store, one at the Friendly Tavern, and several others.

The checks being used have been made out with the name J. H. Bothwell Hospital on them.

The man was described as being 155 to 160 pounds, well dressed, in gray overcoat and is in his late thirties.

Library Staff Member Gives Talk on Books

A fascinating talk on "The Story Behind the Story," of best sellers in the book world, was given by Mrs. E. Frank Wilson, member of the Sedalia Public Library staff, before the Kiwanis Club meeting in Bothwell Hotel.

Russell Maag, program chairman, introduced the speaker who gave a background sketch on great books which have become classics in the world's literature. These included the fables of Aesop, Greek writer who become the greatest story teller of ancient times in about 600 B. C.; from Switzerland the "Story of Heidi" by Johanna Spyri; from England, "Pilgrim's Progress," by John Bunyan, and "Black Beauty," by Mrs. Anna Sewell; from America, "Ben Hur" by General Hugh Wallace, and "Cry, The Beloved Country," by Alan Paton; and others.

Maag also introduced as guests Miss Mary K. English, librarian, of the Sedalia Public Library, and Miss Jane Younger, new director of Boonslick Regional Library.

President Shoemaker reminded members of the annual Christmas party and Ladies Night at 7 p.m. Monday night, Dec. 10, in the Bothwell Hotel. The program will be presented by members of the department of music of Missouri Valley College, Marshall, under direction of Louis Hansen, head of the department of music. This will include a group of ten singers and a folk song singer who accompanies himself on the guitar.

The Madrigal Singers will sing several groups of unfamiliar Christmas carols in addition to others. Included in the personnel of this group are Judy Case, Sedalia, Amy Martin, Eldon, and Charles Riley, Marshall.

Phillip McLaughlin made an appeal for funds for Hungarian relief under sponsorship of the American Red Cross chapter. After the meeting members contributed $100 to the fund.

Invocation was by the Rev. Arthur Schmidt, who also led the singing accompanied by Miss Lillian Fox.

Patrol to Ask Higher Penalties For Violations

The time must soon come when a Missouri drivers license will be much more difficult to get, and still harder to keep, according to Highway Patrol superintendent, Col. Hugh H. Waggoner.

"Too many drivers for too many years have had the hazy notion that a drivers license is something you go through a few motions for, and then get for the asking," Waggoner said. "Actually it's nothing of the kind. A drivers license represents a privilege granted by the state allowing a citizen to use our highways only so long as he does so consistent with his own safety, and the safety and welfare of others."

The Missouri Highway Patrol will ask the Legislature for a strengthening of the drivers license law with respect to license suspensions and revocations. Among other things, they will seek mandatory jail sentences for convictions of driving while license is under suspension. They also seek possible license suspensions on first convictions of serious careless and reckless driving charges. Under the present law a driver must be convicted of careless driving twice in two years before his license can be suspended regardless of the flagrancy of the violation.

Waggoner said, "At the present timee too many drivers are abus- time too many drivers are abus- streets and highways. We need laws so stiff that their only choice will be to drive with courtesy and common sense, or not drive at all."

Many things are made of plastic foam, an organ as the background for choir boys, a harp combined with silver leaves and many other things. Sleighs of all kinds, wooden metal and paper, are filled with evergreens, Christmas balls or holly.

An owl is cleverly made from a big pine cone and a little one. There are little yarn doll favors, Christmas corsages of bright balls, ribbon and evergreen, chicken wire is made into bells hung with little Christmas balls, and there are tiny Christmas balls all over it. There is a big piece of chicken wire made into a cone and filled with big Christmas balls.

The Girl Scouts have a nice display. one of the most interesting things being a Christmas tree on which are little strings of cranberries, orange peel cups holding bird feed and pieces of apples. On the tree is a note not to throw the Christmas trees away but to trim them and put them out for the birds.

The Garden Center has many ideas that may be copied, too, and details of how to make them are available.

Kansas City U. Choir Sings Here Monday

The University of Kansas City Choir, making its second annual Christmas tour of northeast Missouri, will appear here on Monday, Dec. 10, at 1:15 p.m. in a concert at Smith-Cotton High School.

The 68-voice choral group is under the direction of Dr. W. Everett Hendricks. Dr. Hendricks, chairman of the University of Kansas City music department, was director of the famed Bluejacket Choir at the Great Lakes Naval Base during the war.

A program of noted choral works on the Christmas theme as well as traditional carols of different countries will be presented. The concert here will be one of nearly 20 concerts that the Choir will give during the holiday season. A popular broadcast group, the KCU Choir was the featured choral ensemble on last year's NBC Monitor program during the Christmas weekend and will make numerous broadcasts this season.

Delinquent Taxpayers Relieved for Yuletide

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8 (AP) — Merry Christmas, you delinquent taxpayers from tough old Uncle Sam.

For the next couple of weeks, the Internal Revenue Service is going to stop tapping payrolls and salaries as a means of collecting taxes from some 10,000 delinquent individuals. The government has been getting around $50 to $100 a week from most of them.

But over the Yuletide, Internal Revenue Commissioner Russell Harrington has ordered a halt on this process. The idea is that some of the people may need a little extra cash to buy toys for their kids.

Museum Cases Will Get New 'Perking Up'

To conform to the beautiful appearance of the redecorated and lighted first floor lobby of the Pettis County courthouse, the museum cases full of relics and curios will undergo another cleaning job, supplementing the one done recently.

Arrangement to keep the cases "perked up" was the result of a meeting of the Pettis County Historical Society in the offices of Judge Frank Armstrong, who is also arranging decoration of another case of war relics which he is supplying.

Other subjects discussed related to preservation of the old covered bridge over Flat Creek near the water works; the erection on Broadway of directional signs to the museum; planning for a program of showing historic slides by J. O. Jenkins; acquisition of a briefcase and desk of Sen. George Graham Vest, Sedalian, who was author of the famous "Tribute to a Dog;" establishment of a roadside park near the old Red School building on East Highway 50; plans for observing the centennial year in Sedalia in 1960; and stimulation of a membership drive.

Attending the meeting were: President George H. Scruton, First Vice-President Mrs. E. F. Yancey, Councilor Judge Dimmitt Hoffman, Curator Dr. C. F. Scotten, Historian Miss Mamie McCormick, Secretary Mrs. T. H. Yount and Director Judge Frank Armstrong.

Stockholm on First Voyage Since Crash

NEW YORK, Dec. 8 (AP)—The Swedish liner Stockholm sailed today on her first trans-Atlantic voyage since she and the Italian liner Andrea Doria collided July 25 off Nantucket.

She followed the same course she did the night of the crash that sank the Andrea Doria, badly damaged the bow of the Stockholm and cost 50 lives.

"I can see no reason to make any change in the route," Capt. Sjunne Olsson, master of the ship, told newsmen.

Olsson has replaced Capt. Gunnar Nordenson, who commanded the Stockholm the night of the collision. Nordenson has not yet completed his testimony in a federal court pre-trial hearing into damage suits arising from the accident.

Each steamship line blames the other for the crash.

Will Place New School Sign in Knob Noster

A new school stop sign will be installed the first of the week in Knob Noster on Highway 50 and Bagby Street, two blocks east of where the present school stop is now located, for the safety of the children.

Area Legislative Clinic Is Held Here on Friday

Sponsored jointly by the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce and the Missouri State Chamber of Commerce, an area Legislative Clinic, was held in Bothwell Hotel Friday noon.

After luncheon, Attorney William K. Gibson, chairman of the State and National Affairs division of the local Chamber, presided, and introduced the clinic speakers: Ross Anderson, Jr., director of the service department and assistant to the executive vice-president, of the Missouri Chamber; Reuben Tapperson, legislative director; and William R. Brown, research director.

The meeting which was well attended lasted two hours during which the speakers with the assistance of charts discussed major legislative issues that affect the business and economic development of the State of Missouri. These included Taxes and Government Spending; Social Legislation and Industrial Development.

Attention was centered on ways and means to change old and obtain new legislation which will encourage industry to locate in Missouri.

It's Fun to Sew Christmas Tree Skirt

TREE FASHION — A skirt for the Christmas tree is made of gay red felt trimmed in gold ri ckrack, easy to make.

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

The Christmas tree gets a touch of fashion this year with a felt skirt which hides the base and keeps pine needles off the rug. It's a breeze to make in red or green felt, trimmed with metallic rickrack.

Local swing center experts give simple directions for making this gay holiday accessory. You will need about one square yard of felt. Make a paper pattern of the shape and use it to guide you in cutting the felt. Baste gold or silver rickrack in a Christmas tree outline at intervals around the skirt, and use a zigzag stitch on the sewing machine to secure braid to felt. Trim with sequins, selecting star-shaped sequins for the top of the trees.

Edge the felt in wider metallic rickrack. Slit skirt from one edge to center and cut hole in center big enough to go around trunk of tree. A hole four inches in diameter usually is about right. Edge hole and slit with metallic rickrack.

If you have felt left over, make a small version for a tiny centerpiece tree for your Christmas table. And you may have enough to make a gay holiday apron to match.

Hold Council Meeting

The Bethel Sunday School Council, Concordia, met Monday night at Bethel Hall. Rev. Kasper led in prayer. Mrs. Erma Walkenhorst presided over the business meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Delmar Stiegemeyer furnished a tree for the Christmas holidays. Treats for the Sunday School children will again be given out Dec. 23.

The meeting closed by singing the "Lord's Prayer."

For a really good-tasting plain muffin, use four tablespoons each of butter (or margarine) and sugar for two cups of flour.

ITALIAN FIESTA—Italian children pile into a donkey cart to go to a festival. This is one of five holiday greeting cards designed and donated by noted American artist Joseph Low, on the theme of "Festive Times Around the World." The cards are sold for the benefit of the United Nations Children's Fund.

'It's Christmas' Is Music Club Theme Wednesday

"It's Christmas!" will be the theme of the Helen G. Steele Music Club House with Mrs. William B. Rich, Mrs. James Atkinson and Mrs. William Ward as co-hostesses.

The program will feature carolers from Horace Mann School, Christmas music and readings. The carolers will sing at 1:45 p.m. and the main part of the program will begin at 2 p.m.

A Christmas tea, for members only, will follow the program.

The reception committee will be composed of Mrs. R. M. Overstreet, Mrs. Lawrence Barnett, Mrs. E. W. Jones, Mrs. Roy Kirchhofer, Mrs. Frank Leach, Mrs. Russell Rhoads, Mrs. David Routszong, Mrs. Ira M. White, Mrs. R. L. Wiske and Miss Helen Bapple.

Richard Amos 500th Man to Be Inducted Since Korea Start

Richard A. Amos, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Amos, 1010 West Fourth, was the 500th man to be inducted into service from Pettis County since the beginning of the Korean conflict in 1950, according to Mrs. Verna Williams, selective service clerk.

Amos left Wednesday for Kansas City for induction and Thursday night passed through Sedalia en route to Ft. Leonard Wood where he will receive his basic training. At the time of his induction he was assistant director at KDRO-TV and several years ago was employed on the news staff of The Sedalia Democrat-Capital.

The first induction call after the start of the Korean conflict was on Sept. 14, 1950 at which time eight men left for induction. Since that time induction calls decreased, Mrs. Williams said, and some months there were no calls at all. The largest number called during this period of time was in February, 1952, when 40 men were sent. During the entire year of 1956 there have been only 30 men inducted.

Mrs. Bessie Gribschaw, left, and her sister, Mrs. Margaret Slagle, mix their emotional feelings into an unusual hobby—baking cakes that tell the story.

Sisters' Hobby Is Baking Cakes That Tell a Story

PITTSBURGH — Have your cake and eat it, too. This twisted saying might well be applied to a pair of Pennsylvania sisters, who find that their ingeniously decorated cakes make those special events of others more memorable.

Mrs. Bessie Gribschaw, of Mt. Lebanon, and Mrs. Margaret Slagle, of Elizabeth Township, say that present-day mixes make baking so easy there's plenty of time left over for decorating ingenuity.

And ingenuity these gals have, for their cakes have been in such shapes as clowns, butterflies, log cabins, Humpty-Dumptys, lambs and cowboys.

Margaret inaugurated the "super cake" tradition on the occasion of their parents' 40th wedding anniversary. She baked cake layers to give the illusion of an open book.

Younger sister Bessie was so impressed that she took up the cake spoon. She added a new ingredient, hoewver — psychology. Her daughter Georgia had an allergy to eggs, traced primarily to a distaste for them. Using drained eggshells, Bessie was able to get "eggshell" cakes. Georgia's fondness for the sweet-tasting "eggs" produced a healthy effect on her allergy.

Mrs. Gribschaw once had to bake a "schoolhouse" cake for her son Jimmie so he would agree to attend school on his birthday. The three-layer "red brick schoolhouse" had window frames of solid icing, roof shingles of crumbled ice cream cones, and a belfry with an aluminum foil bell.

One of Mrs. Gribschaw's favorite tricks is baking cakes with real flowers growing out of the middle. She merely inserts a baby food jar filled with water within the hollow portion of a tube cake, then places her favorite posies in the water. Covering it with icing gives the appearance that flowers are growing out of the cake.

Not all of Mrs. Gribschaw's endeavors have met with lip-smacking success, however. Shortly after her marriage, she began baking special devil's food cakes for her husband's co-workers.

One employe opened his lunch pail, and, after short hesitation, threw Bessie's carefully prepared delicacy into the pile of expendable rubbish. He thought the cake was spoiled — it had purple icing.

Methodist Fellowship Honors Two Guests

The monthly fellowship supper was held at the Houstonia Methodist Church Wednesday night with a large attendance. Two boys were honored guests for the evening. Pepper Dean Messer, who is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Messer, who is in the Marines, and Milton Wiley, who recently received his discharge from the Navy.

After supper the group assembled in the sanctuary where group singing was held. Broaddus Wiley had charge of the devotional after which Milton Wiley showed slides of views he took during the time he spent in the Navy.

Annual Archives Christmas Ball Held at School

By Beverly Long

Last Friday, Nov. 30, the gala Archives Christmas Ball was held at the Smith-Cotton cafeteria. Miss Linda Momberg, the Archives Queen reigned over the dance with her attendants, Miss Barbara Freund and Miss Mary Ruth Mittlehauser.

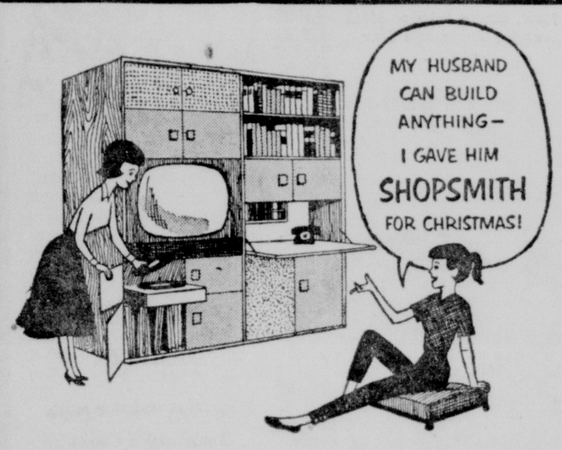

Linda wore a white formal and carried a fan-shaped bouquet of 30 red roses. Mary Ruth wore a light aqua formal, and Barbara wore a white formal. They each carried a bouquet of chrysanthemums and roses mixed.

The dance floor was decorated in the theme of "Winter Wonderland." Linda's throne was in the middle of a large picture frame, with her attendants sitting at her sides. It was a picturesque scene of snow with a blue background and snowflakes falling upon a snowman and lighted Christmas trees.

The grand procession began with Linda and her escort, Kristian Kolberg, followed by her attendants, Barbara, escorted by Tony Walch, and Mary Ruth, escorted by Ray Combs. Linda was crowned by Tony Walch and the dance began with Linda reigning over the first dance.

The dance was well attended.

Former Professional Model Works as Aircraft Engineer

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Correspondent

HARTFORD, Conn. — (NEA)— Elaine Bordua was a whiz at mathematics and graduated with honors from Cathedral High School in Springfield, Mass., when she was only 16.

So it's hardly a surprise to find her working as an engineering staff assistant at the Hamilton Standard Division of the United Aircraft Corp. in Hartford.

She works closely with some 40 to 50 engineers each day on manpower requirements, statistics, appropriations and schedules.

Elaine was so young when she was graduated from high school that she was forced to wait until her 17th birthday before she could be hired for a full-time job in the statistical department of an insurance company.

That was in 1952. A year later, after having completed several engineering math courses at Hillyer College, she went to work at Pratt & Whitney as a cartographer. She later was promoted to engineering aide and did analytical and blueprint work.

Still later she was transferred to the P & W Atomic Research plant where she worked as a computist.

In June, 1954, she went to work at Hamilton Standard as an engineering aide in the aerodynamics department, analyzing test data from engineers. She did such an efficient job that a year later she was promoted to her present job.

How does it feel to work around so many male engineers?

"Just fine," says Elaine. "I enjoy my work, and like engineers, so I get along quite nicely."

Elaine's lovely blonde hair was a natural for shampoo advertisements when she was 13, and some of the ads for which she posed still are being used today. She did some other modeling, too, and even had a turn at singing professionally.

She is quick to point out that she wasn't much of a singer. "I just like to sing a bit," she says with a smile.

Skiing is her No. 1 hobby, says Elaine. "We ski mostly at Mount Mansfield up at Stowe, Vt. This year I'm planning a ski vacation in Switzerland and Austria, and I'm really looking forward to it."

"I also enjoy water skiing and tennis, and when I'm at home for an evening without a good book, I like to knit. I also love all spectator sports."

How about romance?

"I don't have a steady boy friend, but I do have a few dates — with engineers, of course," she says. "I like engineers."

And how does she like her work?

"Why haven't you guessed? I love it!"

When you add giner ale to a fruit drink, do so just before serving and stir lightly so as not to dissipate the carbonation.

A good diplomat should be disarming even if his country isn't.

Tipton Captures Tourney

Beats Osage 54-51 For Championship; Jamestown Defeats California for 3rd

Tipton High scored a repeat performance Saturday night in winning its own invitational tournament with a 54-51 conquest of School of the Osage for the championship, the second straight year the Tiptonites have dominated their own tourney.

Third place was captured by Jamestown with a 51-43 romp over California.

Bunceton swept consolation honors by beating Climax Springs at a 65-56 clip.

Friday night's play in the Tipton Invitational basketball tournament developed into a show of strength by three of the top contenders, Bunceton, School of the Osage, and Tipton, followed in the victory column by Climax Springs. The four teams advanced to the semi-finals which, along with the championship game, were scheduled to be played Saturday night.

Bunceton opened the evening by slapping at Houstonia with a 63-40 crushing, outscoring the Houstonians in each quarter usually by wide margins.

A powerful School of the Osage team followed a similar pattern in the second game by running roughshod over California by a 69-51 tally.

The third contest went to the classy Tipton five who played to a meticulous but dominating 68-55 victory over a strong Jamestown squad.

Climax Springs rounded out the four-game slate by holding undisputed command over New Bloomfield for three quarters, then coasting through a sputtering fourth quarter rally by N.B. to cop a 65-60 decision.

'Stilt' Leads Jayhawks Past Marquette, 78-61

LAWRENCE, Kan., Dec. 8 (AP)—Wilt Chamberlain, 7-foot sophomore center, found the range for 39 points in leading the Kansas Jayhawks to a 78-61 non-conference basketball victory over Marquette tonight.

Purdue Shades Mizzou In 71-69 Cage Opener

COLUMBIA, Mo., Dec. 8—(AP)—Stocky Joe Campbell sank a field goal with forty seconds remaining to give Purdue Boilermakers a 71-69 basketball victory over the Missouri Tigers tonight. It was Missouri's season inaugural.

The American Bowling Congress membership department processed 269,049 teams through Oct. 31. The figure represents a gain of almost 48,000 teams over the same date in 1955.

1-Man Arlington Team Cops Junior Rose Bowl

PASADENA, Calif., Dec. 8 (AP)—A one-man football gang named Calvin Lee, weighing only 147 pounds, scored all the points for Arlington State as the Texans beat Compton College of California 20-13 in the 11th annual Junior Rose Bowl game today.

Halfback Lee accounted for three touchdowns and two conversions. Sports writers covering the game named him as the outstanding player on the field.

A crowd of 37,142 saw the game.

Grem Varsity Whips Alumni 67-62 Friday

Sacred Heart's Varsity cagers, relaxing through the first quarter to study an Alumni squad's tactics, assumed the offensive in the second period to pound out a 67-62 win over the Alums in a substitute game here Friday night. An originally scheduled Gremlin game with Smithton was postponed until Jan. 2.

Don Ressel spearheaded the delayed Varsity attack while banging in 11 goals and six free throws for 28 points. The Mettler twosome of Mark and Marvin, bolstered with 19 and 10 points respectively.

Alumni scoring was led by Jim Fall with 20 points while Larry Racunas, 1956 graduate, accounted for 13.

The Alums drove to a 15-7 first quarter lead but became stalled in the second period under a 26-10 Varsity barrage. Varsity cagers continued their dominance in the third frame, 18-12, sufficient for the victory despite a fourth quarter 25-16 Alumni rally.

Varsity volleyballers also emerged victorious by dumping an Alumni girls' team 32-20. Mergen led the Varsity netters with 19 points while Seifner, Twenter and B. Dick scored five apiece for the Alums.

Merle Harman

Tom Gorman

Announcer, Pitcher of A's Will Be Optimist Speakers

Merle Harmon, Kansas City Athletics' announcer, and Tom Gorman, Kansas City Athletics' pitcher, will be speakers on the Optimist Club program Tuesday noon at Bothwell Hotel.

"I was just a frustrated 'would be' ball player who decided if I ever got to the major leagues it wouldn't be as a player," says Merle Harmon, radio broadcaster for the Kansas City Athletics.

"Like every kid, I had visions of being a big leaguer some day but when I found I couldn't hit the curve ball in the schoolboy leagues, I knew I would have to try something else, so I changed my boyhood dream to that of becoming a major league baseball announcer."

That dream came true when Harmon was signed, along with Larry Ray, to announce the Kansas City A's games over a 40-station network.

Upon being discharged from the Navy, Harmon went on to major in radio at the University of Denver. He previously had attended Graceland College in Lamoni, Ia., in 1943 and again in 1946.

After graduation at Denver, he went to Trinidad, Colo., as sports director of KSFT in 1948 and moved on to Topeka in 1949 to broadcast the Owls baseball games in the Western Association for KJAY and KTOP. He also carried a lengthy football and basketball schedule.

Harmon became director of the K.U. Sports Network in 1952, broadcasting all football and basketball games played by the Kansas Jayhawkers for the 24-station chain.

He joined Larry Ray on the Kansas City Blues broadcasts and telecasts in 1954 and both were moved up to the Athletics aircasts when the team was moved to Kansas City in 1955.

Tom Gorman was born in New York on Jan. 4, 1926, and attended Central High School, Valley Stream, Long Island, New York. He was active in baseball, basketball and football during high school.

From July, 1943, to March, 1946, he served in the Navy, with 18 months overseas.

He started his pro-ball career in 1946 at Norfolk, Va., and since that time has been with the following clubs: 1946, Norfolk and Radford; 1947, Norfolk; 1948, Binghamton; 1949, Newark and Binghamton; 1950 and 1951, Kansas City; 1951, Beaumont; 1952, Kansas City; 1952, 1953 and 1954, New York; 1954, Kansas City; and 1955, Kansas City.

In 1951 while in Beaumont, Tex., with their club he pitched 42⅔ scoreless innings, breaking the record which had stood since 1907. He also led the league in earned run average.

In 1952 when he went to New York in his first major league game, he pitched against Cleveland in relief, entering the game in the seventh inning with the bases loaded, nobody out with the score 3 to 2 in New York's favor; he struck out two and got the third out on an infield fly and went on to win.

Gorman played one game each in the World Series of 1952 and 1953.

Bill Russell Rejects Cage Offer of $30,000

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 8 (AP)—Big Bill Russell, University of San Francisco's All-America basketball star just back from the Olympic games, today rejected a pro offer from the Harlem Globetrotters. The offer was reported to be $30,000 a year.

"Thanks, but no dice," the 6-foot-10 center told Bill Miller, Trotter agent.

Russell, outstanding on defense with the undefeated U. S. team in the Olympics, arrived home last night. He is understood to be considering a professional offer by the Boston Celtics.

Russell is to be married tomorrow afternoon to Miss Rose Swisher, of Oakland, Russell's home town.

Giambri, Castellani In Middle Bout Monday

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 8 (AP)—Joey Giambra and Rocky Castellani hook up in a 10-round rematch Monday night that could produce a challenger for the middleweight boxing title.

Giambra, by virtue of a close Square Garden over his Atlantic City opponent, should go into the non-televised Cicic Auditorium scrap the decided favorite. The Buffalo, N. Y., boxer-puncher, 25, is rated No. 6 in the middleweight class by the National Boxing Assn. and 10th by Ring Magazine. Castellani, 29, is unrated.

Sports Scraps

By D. KELLY SCRUTON

RETURNING to Sedalia next year is Grand Circuit harness racing, as you already know. But what makes it better is the fact the Circuit has established the Preview of the Hamiltonian at the Missouri track, the $100,000 Hamiltonian which will race the following week at DuQuoin, Ill.

Few people realized the importance of the Grand Circuit to the Missouri fair until after it was lost for 1955-'56. For many years efforts were made to get the racing Circuit, considered the Major League of racing, to the Missouri fair. Everyone agreed it was important, but after it was scheduled in for several seasons they became unware of its importance—that is, until after the Circuit drew out.

Very few people knew of the interest being so widely known throughout the state until 1955 when fairgoers who attended the racing events were surprised that they were not seeing the top horses of the nation. It was fairly well known that a good number of these people remarked about it to Lt. Gov. James T. Blair Jr., who had previously expressed alarm over the withdrawal.

Then there were those who are in the family of the Grand Circuit who remarked about its withdrawal to their friend, United States Senator Stuart Symington.

What wasn't known was that in the past four months Governor-Elect Blair took it upon himself quietly—and not for political gain—to start a campaign to get racing circuit to return the Sedalia track to its schedule. Gov.-Elect Blair never brought out the fact he was trying to do something about it during his campaign for Governor, and not until the announcement was made was it generally known he had made personal appeal to his friends in the Grand Circuit family to come back to Missouri.

Senator Symington, a close friend and school mate of Octave Blake, president of the Grand Circuit, begun urging his support for Sedalia. He too had others in the racing family who he contacted for the winter meeting when the decision was to be made.

Gov.-Elect Blair contacted several persons to lead the campaign at the meeting, Representative Milton Overstreet of Pettis County; M. C. "Coley" Ervin, of Sedalia; A. A. Eilerman, field man for the U. S. Trotting Association from St. Louis; Mr. and Mrs. George W. Hackley, Jr., of Waverly; E. A. Duensing, superintendent of the Speed of the Fair, and an official of the Trotting Association, were there.

During the discussion it was brought out in the meeting the personal pleas of both the Gov.-Elect and the Senator. After much discussion over facts the announcement came with the Stewards voting to restore Sedalia to the circuit and giving them the dates during the Missouri State Fair.

The return of the Grand Circuit is wonderful, but what is most pleasing is the manner in which it returns—returning to Missouri without being used for a political gain in an election year. The work of Gov.-Elect Blair and Senator Symington was so quiet, that not even those closely connected with the State Fair were aware of the possibilities until the announcement at Columbus, Ohio.

—o—

FOLLOWING the announcement the only official comment which came was not in a bragging tone, but one of real sportsman who loves good horse racing. Gov.-Elect Blair, had only this comment to make: "I am indeed happy to hear of the favorable action of the Grand Circuit. I am glad I had a part in getting it restored to the Missouri State Fair." The Governor paid tribute to the committee which appeared before the Stewards.

Later, when contacted by the Associated Press, he said, "This is like being in the big leagues. Now that we've got it back, we've got to keep it." No truer words were ever spoken.

People west of the Mississippi will have a chance to see a preview racing of some 25 horses which are entered in the Hamiltonian. The horses seen here will be the same as in the big race—about the only difference will be some $80,000 in purse money.

UP in Michigan, Rudd Van Dyne did fairly well for himself in Freshmen football according to reports from an old friend and former Sedalian, E. Glenn "Pete" Baccock, now of Cedar Springs, Mich. He sends us a clipping from the Grand Rapids Press of November in which Rudd was mentioned.

Rudd, during the season, suffered a shoulder injury which is espected to have time to heal between now and the 1957 season. If it is in good condition there is every likelyhood he will be on the first squad.

The article in part read: "With two halfbacks Terry Barr and Ed Shannon, graduating, the varsity staff also will be watching a trio of neophyte wing backs in Rudd Van Dyne, Sedalia, Mo., and Brad Meyers, Evanston, Ill., and Fred Julian, former all-state of Detroit."

Rudd, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Van Dyne, 1012 West Broadway, chose Michigan University for his schooling, while his cousin Charles Van Dyne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Van Dyne, Route 4, followed in his Dad's footsteps and went to Missouri.

Stover Christmas Cage Tournament To Have 8 Teams

The Stover Christmas Basketball Tournament will be held Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, Dec. 19-22. Eight teams are entered and trophies will be awarded first, second, third, and consolation. The tournament will be held in the new gymnasium that has just been completed with seating capacity for approximately 1200 people.

Teams entering this year are Versailles, Otterville, Climax Springs, Lowry City, C. C. Hubbard of Sedalia, St. Elizabeth, Sedalia's Smith Cotton "B" team, and Stover, the host school.

Officials for the tournament are Russ Gilmore and George Thompson of Sedalia.

This is a renewal of the annual tournament held at Stover which was interrupted by the fire of 1952.

Drawings for the tournament were made Monday and first round play will have St. Elizabeth playing Sedalia "B" team and Versailles against Lowry City on Wednesday night, December 19. On Thursday night Hubbard of Sedalia will play Climax Springs and Stover will play Otterville to complete 1st round play.

Trophies will be awarded 1st, 2nd, 3rd, and consolation winners at completion of the tournament Saturday night.

Jimmie Dykes, third base coach for Cincinnati, played 22 seasons in the American League.

Prairie Home Bowls Over Otterville 43-33

Otterville was unable to stem a Prairie Home basketball team's drive Friday night in the second half of the game and went down in defeat, 43-33.

The two teams battled to a 12-12 halftime tie. Otterville moved in front in the first quarter, 5-3, while the second period saw the Prairie Home aggregation outscore them 9-7 to knot the contest.

In the third period Prairie Home held Otterville down and topped the scoring 17-8. In the fourth stanza it was nip-and-tuck with Prairie Home scoring one more point, 14-13, for the quarter.

Logan was the top point-maker with 18 tallies for Prairie Home while T. Watring scored 12 for Otterville and teammate E. H. Fowler accounted for six.

The Prairie Home girls displayed power against the Otterville girls and went out to win, 38-17.

KC Cage Team Seeks Games in This Area

"Peck's Bad Boys" basketball team of Kansas City, Kan., is seeking some exhibition games in the Sedalia area.

The team has a record of 26 straight games in the 1955-56 season. It is composed of ex-college stars. The players have the knack of putting on ball handling antics that ranks with the best.

Managers or sponsors interested in scheduling the teams are requested to contact Manager Bob Peck, 785, Manorcrest Drive, Kansas City, Kan.

High School Activity Official to Hold Meeting at Smithton

Irvin A. Keller, executive secretary of the Missouri State High School Activities Association, will be at Smithton School at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 12 to show a film and hold a rules interpretation meeting. Coaches, referees, school officials, fans, and squad members are welcome to attend. Refreshments will be served.

Tigers Settle For 4th Place In Tourney

Smith-Cotton's Tigers, making a desperate bid for at least third place in the Jefferson City invitational cage tournament Friday night, finally were forced to settle for fourth—or almost nothing—when Jeff City Helias team snuffed the Sedalians 47-41.

In the feature game of the evening Hannibal's Pirates bulldogged their way through to a 70-55 trouncing over Moberly for the championship.

The consolation bracket went to Rolla's Bulldogs who downed the Jeff City Jays 53-44.

Individual scoring was held to a minimum in the Helias-Sedalia tilt with Helias' Leslie playing the top role in a 13-point performance. The local Tigers were led by Middleton who accounted for 12, followed by Spraggins with ten and Newman with nine.

Smith-Cotton's five were harassed through most of the game by lanky Kliethermes of Helias and his thievery tactics in snatching rebounds. The Tigers just didn't have the height to compete.

La Monte Cage Team Drops MFA Of Lincoln 71-66

The LaMonte Merchants scored their first basketball win this season Friday night by beating the Lincoln M.F.A. squad 71-66 at Lincoln. LaMonte's record now stands at 1-1.

LaMonte took the opening lead, 18-13 in the first period, but then skidded 16-21 in the second frame to leave the two teams knotted 34-34 at the halfway mark. Lincoln took the offensive during the third quarter, 19-12, but LaMonte's classy ball handlers surged back in the final stanza with a winning 22-13 rally.

Despite LaMonte's win, O. Rank and McCain of Lincoln tied for scoring honors with 15 apiece, followed by Lincoln's Eifert with 13. Burke and Kindle tied for LaMonte's top scoring role with 12 points each.

The LaMonte team has requested any other teams which wish to schedule games with the Merchants please contact Howard Finke at LaMonte.

LaMonte's next basketball meeting is at Smithton next Wednesday.

Good Time Big Money Winner Has Been Sold

Won $328,000 Before Retirement; Sold for $116,00 For Cane Estate

Good Time, one of the top pacers in harness racing, was sold last Friday at the Lexington, Ky., auction for $116,000. Good Time, no stranger to Missouri State Fair race followers, was in the W. H. Cane Stables, Goshen, N.Y., and was sold as part of the estate of the late owner.

The world champion pacer set a record before retirement, earning for its owner $328,000. The price paid for the "Little Giant," as he was known on the Grand Circuit, was considered one of the top prices ever paid for a harness racing horse.

The famous horse is to remain in the stud of the Castleton Farm, in Lexington. The Castleton Farms, Inc., has had a contract for the horse and, when sold at auction under a contract, the stable has the privilege of exercising an option to buy the horse at the price it was sold. It was said the horse was also under contract and would have to be left with the stables for six more years.

However, it was said the Castleton Farms, Inc., expects to exercise the option.

Patrons of the Missouri State Fair will well remember Good Time when he was racing under the colors of the Good Time Stables on the Grand Circuit and driven by Frank Ervin, former Sedalian, who has gained nationwide reputation as a trainer and driver.

The sale was handled by Tattersalls, Inc., Sale Co. of Lexington.

Hughesville Team Defeats Smithton Thursday, 88-65

The Hughesville Merchants rolled to their fourth straight basketball victory Thursday night by romping on an independent Smithton team 88-65, on their home court. It boosted the Merchants' record for the season to 4-0.

Gregory of Hughesville rattled the backboards for 33 points to capture scoring honors for the game, backed by teammate Ringen with 18. Wagenknecht of Smithton was high for his squad with 19.

Americans Cold to Results---. .

Olympic Flame Dies, Ending Most Controversial of Games

By WILL GRIMSLEY

MELBOURNE, Dec. 8 (AP) — The flame died today on the biggest and most controversial of all Olympic games and American athletic officials took a cold, hard look at the results of the two-week competition which saw the long-time unofficial team domination pass from the United States to Soviet Russia.

"We don't consider ourselves the second sports nation of the world because of what happened here," said Kenneth (Tug) Wilson of Chicago, president of the U.S. Olympic Committee "We spread-eagled men's track and field, which after all is the core of these games and we won those sports on which we concentrate.

"We are very proud of the performances of our athletes. But there is a lesson to be learned. It is that we must put greater emphasis on some of the fringe sports such as gymnastics and Greco-Roman wrestling, in which the Russians scored heavily. And there probably should be some re-appraisal of the medal distribution, particularly in gymnastics, where they are given for minor categories."

The Russians collected 11 of their 37 gold medals in men's and women's gymnastics and six in wrestling. They added 29 silver medals and 33 bronze for an overall total of 99 as compared to 74 for the United States. The final gold medal came from Russia's 2-1 triumph over Yugoslavia in today's big soccer match.

The U.S., with a record of 15 championships in men's track and field, out of 24 events, and victories in basketball, rowing and weightlifting, captured 32 gold medals, 25 silver and 17 bronzes, but fell below its showing at Helsinki four years ago when it won 40 firsts.

The Russians were triumphant in both the European and American scoring systems, which differ only in the number of points given for first place—seven by European standards and 10 by American. The other five places are scored on a 5-4-3-2-1 basis.

Soviet athletes scored 722 points to 593 for the U.S. In the American table and 622 to 497 in the European. It is significant that 181 of Russia's points came in gymnastics, a sport which received little attention in America and in which U.S. competitors were far behind the polished Europeans.

"We could not attempt to make any alibis because our team victories in the past have been based on the same scoring system," Wilson said. "But all of us are aware that there are some inequalities in the system of medal distribution in the gym exercises."

Pitt Pushes To 14-7 Win Over Miami

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 8 (AP)—Ralph Jelic and Tom Jenkins, two underrated fullbacks, supplied the spark today which carried Pittsburgh to a 14-7 upset over Miami's previously unbeaten Hurricanes.

Maybe Jelic and Jenkins didn't outshine Miami's All-America fullback Don Bosseler — and then again, maybe they did, at any rate, they had exactly what the Panthers needed when they needed it.

Neither Jelic nor Jenkins scored —they left that to quarterback sneaks by Corney Salvaterra and Tommy Lewis—but both were responsible for putting the ball in touchdown territory.

Jenkins' big sortie through the vaunted Miami defense, rated top in the nation going into the game, with only 3 minutes left in the final period, was good for 43 yards and gave the Gator Bowl-bound Panthers a first down at the three. Three plays later Lewis rammed into the end zone and Miami's sixth-ranked "Canes" had tasted defeat for the first time this season—and it came before millions of television grid fans.

The Panthers, who will carry a 7-2-1 record against Georgia Tech in the Gator Bowl, went 59 yards with the second half kickoff for their first score and drove 63 yards for the winning marker with only 2 minutes, 45 seconds left in the game.

Just a Bottle Hunter

ST. JAMES, Minn. (AP) — Game Warden Phil Ham, piloting his plane over pheasant country, noticed a car stop several times. On each occasion the driver hurried into the ditch and back to the car.

Things looked suspicious. Ham radioed ground wardens and directed their cars into St. James where they halted the mysterious hunter.

The car contained no pheasants —not even a gun.

"I was out hunting up enough beer bottles in the ditches to fill up my case," said the frightened driver.

Sleet and Snow Fall Over State, Make Roads Slick

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Dec. 8 (AP)—Sleet, rain or snow was reported falling on most Missouri highways today filming them with a slick coat of ice that slowed traffic in many parts of the state.

The Missouri Highway patrol, at 3:30 p. m., said the following roads should be travelled with caution:

Route 24 from Kansas City to the Illinois line.

Route 26 from Cameron to Hannibal.

Route 40 from Kansas City to Warrenton.

Route 50 from Kansas City to St. Louis.

Route 54 from the Kansas state line to Louisiana.

LaMonte High Shades Green Ridge 54-52

LaMonte High had to snuff a fourth quarter rally by Green Ridge Friday night to finally eke a 54-52 decision in a PBCAA Conference basketball tilt at Green Ridge.

Not all was lost for Green Ridge, however, for the host volleyball squad whipped LaMonte's girls 25-18. Williams of Green Ridge led the volleyball scoring with eight points, and S. Schenks tallied four to lead LaMonte.

The cage tilt, which opened as a nip-and-tuck affair, saw Green Ridge stage an early 13-10 offensive in the first period, only to be shoved back by LaMonte 17-12 in the second frame. A four-point leader at halftime, LaMonte continued its push in the third quarter, 16-12, and then stemmed a 15-11 Green Ridge rally in the closing period to boast a Conference victory.

Finke of LaMonte topped the point-making department with 19 while teammate Burke netted 14. Edmundson dumped in 15 to top Green Ridge, followed by Bruns with 14.

Green Ridge's next game will be at home Tuesday with Hughesville.

Navy to Recruit Special Group From Sedalia

A special Navy recruit squad, to be called the "Sunshine Special," will be enlisted from the Sedalia recruiting area on Jan. 18. Chief Thomas, recruiter in charge, in making this announcement stated that this squad, along with two other squads from the Moberly and Quincy areas which are to be enlisted on the same date, would form a complete recruit company to be called the "New Era Company No. 2."

The company will undergo nine weeks recruit training as a unit at the Naval Training Center, San Diego, Calif. The men of this company will be granted 14 days leave upon completion of recruit training and prior to their first Navy assignment to service schools, ships and stations.

In addition to this company, the St. Louis Recruiting District will enlist three additional companies during the month of January, it was announced by Lt. Com. L. R. Wright, USN, officer in charge of the district. This concerted recruiting operation is being conducted throughout the year in order to re-enlist Navy veterans in the largest numbers possible due to the valuable training they have already received, and also to enlist competent recruits who can absorb the current highly technical training. This type manpower is now required due to the technical advances made in guided missiles, atomic power, and electronic equipment. Technical training is also the keystone to a constant state of readiness which current world conditions dictate.

The Navy recruiting station is located at the Sedalia post office.

Houston's Bid to Join SW League Is Rejected

DALLAS, Dec. 8—(AP)—University of Houston's bid for membership in the Southwest Conference was turned down today.

The faculty committee, governing body of the conference, also decided that no further expansion would be considered until Texas Tech, the newest member of the conference, was "fully integrated" into the conference.

This will be to at least 1960 because Texas Tech does not start competing for the Southwest Conference football championship until that year.

HOME ON LEAVE — Jack Thomas Smith, 3rd Class, Navy Corps, was home on a 30-day leave visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Smith, Houstonia. He is now stationed at Jacksonville, Fla. He enlisted Oct. 26, 1954.

College Freshman Admits $19,000 Illinois Robbery

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 8—(AP)—An 18-year-old college freshman was arrested here today after officers said he spent too lavishly the loot of what he thought was a perfect crime.

John Robert Wagner of Chicago a student at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, was arrested in a local hotel room, and officers said he readily admitted staging a $19,000 bank robbery near Chicago Aug. 28.

The FBI said federal bank robbery charges were filed in Chicago against Wagner, following his arrest here. He was arraigned before the U. S. commissioner, and held under $25,000 bond.

Police said they went to Wagner's room to question him after receiving reports he "had been spending money like a madman."

They said he had spent all but $4,575 of the $19,000 loot during a two-month spending spree that started at the Massachusetts college.

The husky youth talked frankly of the robbery and spending spree officers said.

Ike Discusses Expense Plans For A-Arms

AUGUSTA, Ga., Dec. 8—(AP)—President Eisenhower today spent an hour and 15 minutes discussing spending plans for development and production of atomic weapons.

The conference with Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, also dealt with planned expenditures for peaceful uses of nuclear power in the fiscal year starting July 1.

Eisenhower and Strauss met at the President's vacation headquarters at the Augusta National Golf Club for their discussion of the AEC budget for the new year.

Strauss did not see reporters and White House press secretary James C. Hagerty declined to shed any light on how much money the President may ask for the AEC in the budget he will submit to Congress next month.

Other developments at Eisenhower's headquarters included:

1. A formal announcement that the expense of the government air-sea lift of 15,000 Hungarian refugees to this country will be met through a special White House fund. Of the 250 million dollars in that fund, 100 million is earmarked for refugee relief throughout the world.

Hagerty said the cost of the air-sea lift is expected to amount to about three million dollars, "Contrary to published figures" fixing the cost higher.

2. The President's Citizen Advisers Committee on Foreign Aid will visit 18 countries in carrying out its study of the administration's Mutual Security Assistance Program. The committee, headed by Benjamin Fairless, former board chairman of the United States Steel Corp., will leave Washington next Wednesday or Thursday, Hagerty announced.

3. The President accepted the resignation of Chester R. Davis as assistant secretary of the Army in charge of financial management, effective Dec. 15. Davis is returning to his duties with the Chicago Title and Trust Co.

Wisconsin has won seven NCAA team boxing championships since the first tournament in 1932.

Syracuse football star Jimmy Brown competed in five varsity sports at Manhasset, N.Y., High School.

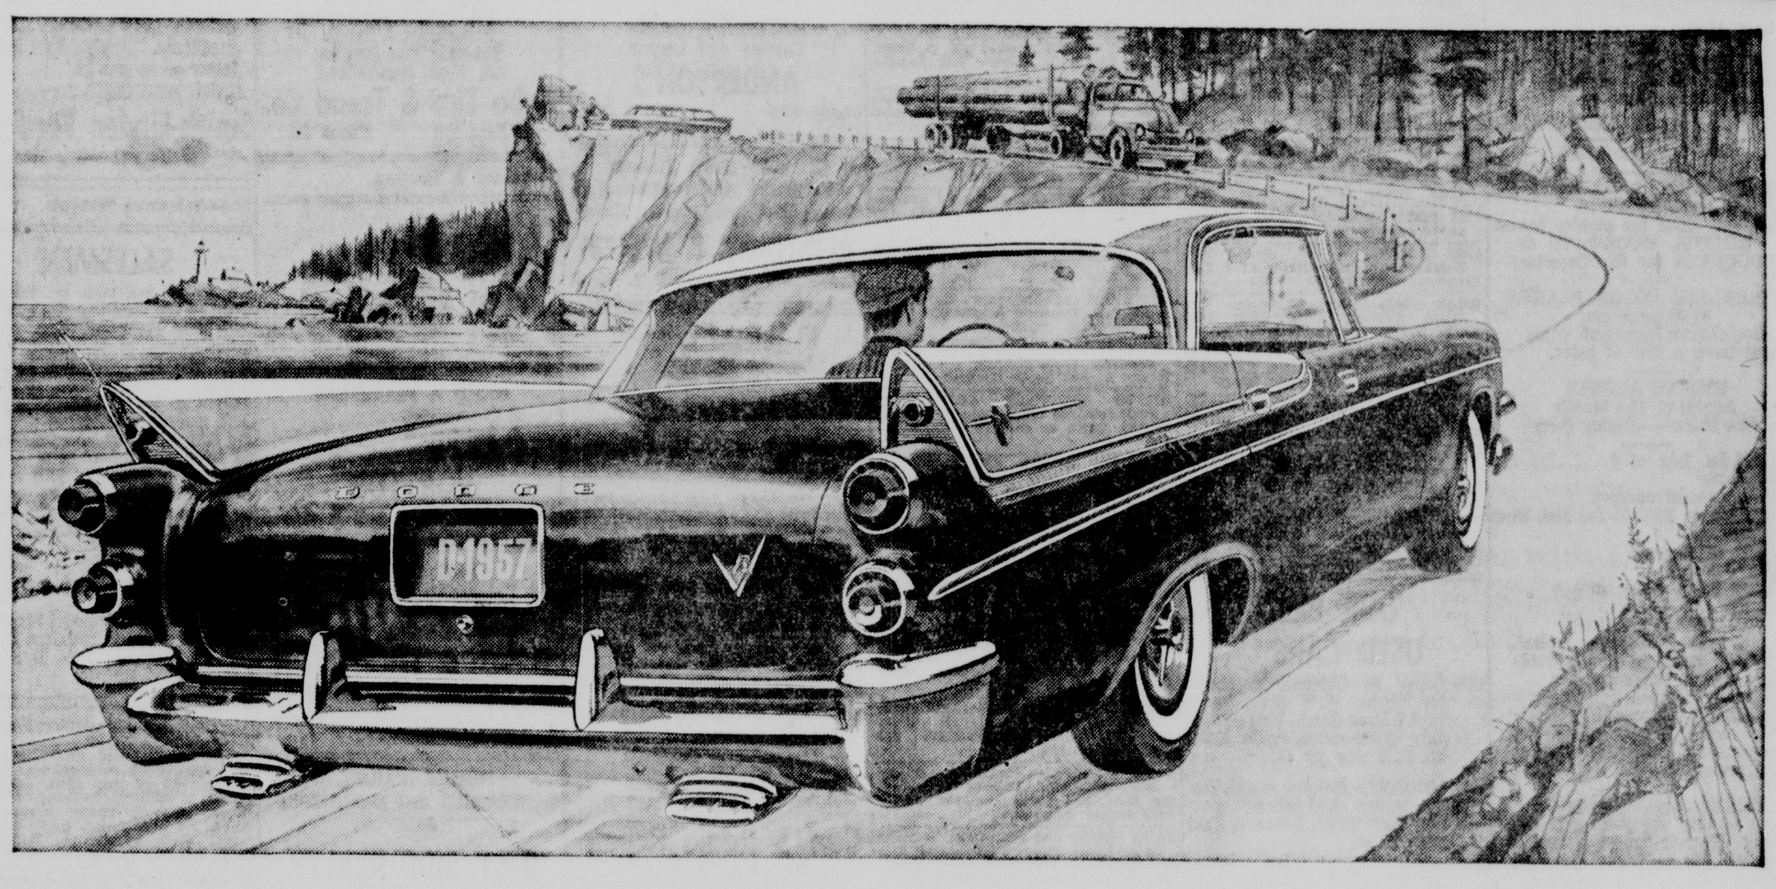

More Time For Bowling

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP) — An 18-team bowling league at the University of Rochester has discovered the easy way to keep up with its statistical chores — team averages and individual handicaps.

The league statistics are fed into the university's giant electronic computer, which grinds out a week's records in one minute. By hand, the job took a full day.

Out of Lock

GRANDFIELD, Okla. (AP) — Emery Hagy pushed his car into Jack Jones' garage complaining the ignition switch wouldn't work.

Jones tried Hagy's key, and sure enough it wouldn't turn. He spent 30 minutes getting out the lock and trying to trace down the trouble.

Then Hagy stuck his hands in his pocket—and sheepishly pulled out a key. It was the key to his car. The one that "wouldn't work" was to his pickup truck.

Sedalian Is Awarded Foundry Scholarship At School of Mines

James E. Fick, 1919 South Quincy, has been awarded a Foundry Educational Foundation scholarship at Missouri School of Mines and Metallurgy.

Fick, a senior majoring in chemical engineering at Missouri Mines has been awarded this scholarship by the school on the basis of academic ability, character and personality, and interest in the foundry industry.

The Foundry Educational Foundation, headquartered in Cleveland, O., maintains an engineering educational program with 16 outstanding engineering colleges throughout the nation. This program involves the development of cast metals laboratory facilities and teaching staffs, and the stimulation of student interest through scholarship assistance. At the present time 180 Foundation scholarships are in effect. During the nine years that the Foundation has been in existence, the foundry industry has invested over a million dollars in this scholarship plan.

Mr. Fick is a member of the American Foundrymen's Society, the Pershing Rifles, Student Council, Alpha Chi Sigma, and the American Institute of Chemicals Engineers.

Rebekah Lodge Makes Plans for Christmas

The Green Ridge Rebekah Lodge held its regular meeting Monday night, Dec. 3, at the hall, with Noble Grand, Nina Gordon, presiding.

During the business meeting the following officers were elected for 1957: Noble Grand, Mrs. Frances Baslee; vice-grand, Mrs. E. H. Boltz; recording secretary, Mrs. Scena Paige; financial secretary, Mrs. Clyde Rehmer and treasurer, Mrs. Henry White.

The members voted to send a large box of home made candy as a Christmas present to the IOOF Home at Liberty, and to remember a lady resident of the IOOF Home with a Christmas gift.

The Green Ridge Rebekahs will again remember the shut-ins of the Green Ridge community with plates of fruit, candy and cookies during the Christmas season.

Mrs. Frances Baslee reported the proceeds from selling home made candy in Sedalia amounted to $44.55 which will be contributed to the Polio fund. Thirty-five pounds of candy was sold on Wednesday, Dec. 5, which will bring the amount well over the goal the goal of fifty dollars which was set to be raised by the members.

The lodge voted to hold a public joint installation of officers with the Green Ridge Odd Fellows in January.

On the next meeting night, Dec. 17, a Christmas party and gift exchange will be enjoyed after the regular lodge session.

Mrs. Floyd Egbert and Mrs. Bennie Clevenger served refreshments to 31 members during the social hour.

Florence Church Holds Fellowship Supper

The St. Johns Evangelical and Reformed Church of Florence held their third fellowship birthday supper Sunday night at the Florence school house with a large crowd attending the basket supper.

Special guests were those having birthdays in September, October, November, and December. There were special tables decorated for each month. The September table was decorated with a small school house, the school children and teacher on the play ground. There were school books and a birthday cake. The October table was decorated with small gourds, flowers, pumpkins, black cats and a birthday cake. The November table was decorated with fruit, miniature turkeys and the birthday cake. The December table was decorated with a small Christmas tree with gifts beneath.

Gifts were given to the oldest lady and the oldest man present. They were received by Mrs. Kate Wagenknecht and Ben Gelken.

After the supper the group sang Christmas songs. A one act play was presented by members of the church. Those taking parts in the play were Mrs. J. E. Bremer, Mrs. Ray Baughman, Mrs. August Brueggemann, Mrs. Arthur Houchen, Mrs. Glen Mertgen, Mrs. Amos Rehmer, and Mrs. Hienz Michalkousky.

Small Fashions Are Duplicate of Adults

By GAILE DUGAS

NEW YORK—(NEA)—The fabrics that mother and big sister are wearing this fall appear in fashions for little girls, too.

Tweeds are important in grown-up fashions. In mixtures of black-and-white, brown-and-white, royal blue-and-black, they appear in collections of nearly all American and Parisian designers. They're for small sister, as well, in coats that are replicas of adult fashions.

Corduroy, appearing in every high-fashion color this fall, comes in prints, stripes and plaids also. It's used for trend designs, for evening wear, for campus styles and for leisure and separates. It's for the kiddies, too.

Cookies, Candies and Other Tidbits, Stored in Freezer, Reduce Holiday Rush

By KAY SHERWOOD
NEA Staff Writer

Make your fancy Christmas goodies now for the family, friends and church or school bazaar while there's time to enjoy the creative effort. Some treats, notably fruitcakes, are properly made well in advance to allow time to ripen. With a home freezer, many other delectable and more perishable tidbits can be made and stored against the day when you'll need them in a hurry.

More fun, to me, than spending the day alone with nuts, fruits and cookie cutters is to invite a friend over to lend a hand and split the results. If you're both on the same committee for the bake sale, you'd be surprised how much easier it is to turn out the required amount of fancy goods with two working instead of one.

It's also possible to gift wrap the containers and store the package in home freezer or refrigerator compartment if you like.

For freezer-tested suggestions, I've recently talked with home economists. Sweet-tooth favorites such as butter, molasses and ginger cookies, brownies, fudge and coconut balls can be made and frozen successfully. Let them cool first and store in packaging materials approved for home freezing. Square, waxed-board containers with the rigid plastic lids are as suitable for these treats as they are for other frozen foods.

Pack the cooled cookies and candies in layers and fill in empty spaces with crumpled waxed paper to prevent breakage. Sugar, molasses and gingerbread cookies can be decorated with glazed sugar frosting, candied cherries, multicolored sprinkles or cinnamon drops, the kitchen testers say. Sandwich cookies with jam or butter cream fillings also freeze well.

In the candy department, I've been urged to try coconut balls filled with fruit, nut fudges, fondant kisses, bon bons in plain or fancy shapes to store in the freezer. Chocolate peanut clusters, made in ring molds, come out shaped like holly wreaths.

Unbaked fruit cakes can be stored in refrigerator or freezer. If you don't have special containers for them, press the mixture firmly into freezer packages of waxed board or rigid plastic and they'll be ready to unmold in easy-to-slice square or round shapes.

Many gift wrappings wilt or droop in the freezer, as I found out last year. This year, however, the professionals have put me on the right track: use aluminum foil and foil gift ribbon. Decorate the surfaces of the foil with colored holiday tape. Names, Christmas tree motifs, wreaths and so on, can be cut from the tape and pressed on the foil.

Another freezer-tested decoration is metallic glitter. Paint the name or motif on the package with rubber cement and sprinkle on the glitter. I haven't much space in my freezer, either, for gift-wrapped packages but it's a pleasure to know we can stock a gift ready for instant delivery without that last-minute hustle to wrap up the present.

A Good Way to Prepare Shrimp

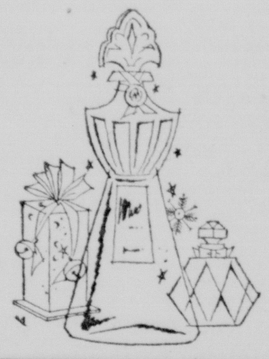

Add a bay leaf, a few whole cloves and whole allspice, celery leaves and thin carrot slices to the water in which you are cooking shrimp. Save the cooking liquid, after you've drained the shrimp; strain it and use as the base for a delicious shrimp bisque.

Canines Now Have Special Weight Diets

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 8 (AP)—Dogs, like people, also get fat.

For tubby dogs there now is a special reducing diet, one in a series of prescription canine diets.

The reducing diet is low in calories to bring down your dog's weight. It contains fair amounts of substances which provide bulk, thus satisfying hunger pangs, but no nourishment that contributes to making body fat.

It helps not only to reduce the overfed, underactive dog, but also to get a hunting dog in trim for the gunning season.

For older dogs there are special diets richer than usual in proteins, which the body can handle with a minimum of waste. Good helath in older age, for both humans and dogs, calls for a well balanced diet that has a good proportion of proteins.

And there are special diets for nursing mother dogs whose bodies face some special demands. Other prescription diets give an extra boost to help puppies grow, or are bland, for dogs recovering from illness.

Veterinarians have long made up their own special diets for animal patients. A more recent development has been the marketing of special canned and dried diets available only through veterinarians, who prescribe them as needed.

Veterinarians say that such afflictions as a poor coat of hair, body contours and lassitude can be warnings that your dog is not getting the proper food he needs for good health.

Various breeds differ somewhat in dietary requirements, but the main difference, according to veterinarians, is in the total calories needed for their particular sizes and activities.

There also are special diets for cats to supply the essential foods they might be missing. But cats, if not confined, usually do far better than dogs in picking the kinds of food their bodies need. Dogs, again like some people, don't seem to be as smart on this score as cats.

Stokley Club Buys Rhythm Band Set

The Stokley Extension Club met Dec. 4.

A collection was taken for the Crippled Children's Center, amounting to $11. Part of the money was used to buy a rhythm band set to be donated in the name of Mrs. E. F. Rissler, former club president. Other articles were donated and more band instruments will be purchased.

Fifteen members answered roll call with "Where I plan to Spend Christmas." Mrs. Walker Sparks and Mrs. Robert Wiskur, LaMonte joined the club.

A clothing leaders meeting will be Jan. 2 with Mrs. Robert Hall.

Traveling With Children Can Be Fun on New Roads

Eating in a restaurant is only one of the exciting new experiences for youngsters traveling with their parents. To enjoy the holiday trip minus physical upsets, Mom and Pop wisely break the long auto journey with a hot and healthy lunch of easily digested foods.

By KAY SHERWOOD
NEA Staff Writer

Planning to pack up the family and join the army of travelers over the Christmas holidays? Taking the youngsters on a trip is no longer the chore it used to be when the late Robert Benchley echoed the sentiments of travel-scarred parents with his observation: "There are only two kinds of traveling; traveling first class and traveling with children. Traveling with children is like traveling third class in Bulgaria."

What no one mentions is that travel, especially the long auto ride, used to be dreaded by children, too. In my childhood preparations for our holiday trip over rough gravel roads to see the relatives always included a copious supply of newspapers against the inevitable moment when one of us would become car sick.

Happily, times have changed and I can look forward to a trip with our youngsters with pleasure. New super highways insure a smooth, speedy ride. New drugs, some fruit-flavored just for youngsters, control motion sickness.

Most children anticipate a trip with enthusiasm. They like the novelty of new experiences and stimulation from different activities. They like to share in the family project and travel does train them to meet new situations with flexibility and self-reliance.

A few sensible precautions are still important. One potential trouble source is food. Plan to provide proper meals with some time for rest and relaxation before and after. You'll have to steel yourself against the pleas to stop for pop, ice cream or candy. Children should eat hot, freshly prepared meals that are light, bland and low in fats.

A word of warning from Dr. I. Newton Kugelmass of the New York City Health Department applies to all of us:

"It is a great mistake to exceed the holiday spirit with new types of food or unaccustomed preparations," he says. "An apparent treat may cause needless difficulty." He frowns particularly on cold eggs, prepared salads, stale sandwiches, milk puddings and mayonnaise dressings.

Food rules are important for children since they are quite susceptible to motion sickness. In addition to upset stomachs, some other common causes of queasy feelings are poor ventilation, pungent odors, fatigue and shrill arguments.

Naturally, you'll want to check with your doctor but a child-sized dose of a drug to prevent motion sickness does help to make the journey a pleasanter one for the moppet who really suffers from the malady.

You don't need to transport a great quantity of toys to keep the kids amused. Two or three of the most cherished possessions, in my experience, are just as satisfactory and much easier to keep track of.

Plan, even in cold weather, to stop for open-air exercise between meals. Rest is also important. If you're one of the millions who transport the family in a station wagon, you can fold down the rear seat and put a mat on top so the younger children can stretch out for a nap. I had such a mat made for our old wagon and it's proved a boon on long journeys.

Elizabeth Titsworth Elected to Position

Miss Elizabeth Titsworth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Titsworth of Green Ridge, has been elected treasurer of the Kansas University Graduate Club. Miss Titsworth is doing study on her Master of Science Degree in Education and Business, which she plans to complete in June of 1957.

Miss Titsworth received her Bachelor of Science degree in Business Administration from Missouri Valley College, Marshall, in June of 1956. At that time she received honors of Summa Cum Laude.

Big Office Buildings Take Spurt

NEW YORK (AP) — The office building boom—brushing aside the question "How can they ever fill all that space?" — is taking a fresh spurt.

In New York chiefly—but also in many other cities across the land—new skyscrapers are rising today and plans for still bigger ones are being announced.

And they are being filled as fast as built. The older buildings — some of them being modernized and air conditioned — are mostly filled too. Vacancy rates in New York are put at 1.25 per cent.

The nation's chair-borne population grows steadily. And there is a continuous trek to New York by giant and medium-sized corporations, setting up either headquarters or branch offices on Manhattan to be near their suppliers or customers or bankers.

Counting in buildings being finished this year, the National Assn. of Building Owners and Managers estimated the nation's total office space at 440 million square feet. And 60 million square feet of that has gone up since the end of World War II.

New York's building spree has added 36 million square feet of office space in the 11 years since the war, the Real Estate Board of New York estimates. Some 110 new structures have room for 290,000 workers. Announced plans for still more tall buildings will bring the total to about 40 million square feet.

This outpaces the other big office building boom, in the 23 years between the two world wars, when 32 million square feet — including the huge Rockefeller Center development — were added to the city's office working space.

Latest skyscraper projects to be announced here include a 60-story building with 1,700,000 square feet of office space, adjoining Rockefeller Center. Two other huge structures in the same neighborhood are in the talking stage. A 46-story building with one million square feet of office room, to be known as Astor Plaza, will soon occupy a square block between Park Avenue and Lexington.

California CWF Hold Clothing Dedication

Thirty-eight members of the CWF of the California Christian Church met on Wednesday night at the church.

The worship service "Peace on Earth" was given by Miss Mathilda Robinson. A film "Peace on Earth" was shown by Mrs. John Terwilliger. Mrs. William R. Allen, service chairman, had a dedication service for used clothing that is being sent by the CWF to Hazel Green Academy in Hazel Green, Ky.

Mrs. B. F. Houser, the new president, was in charge of the program.

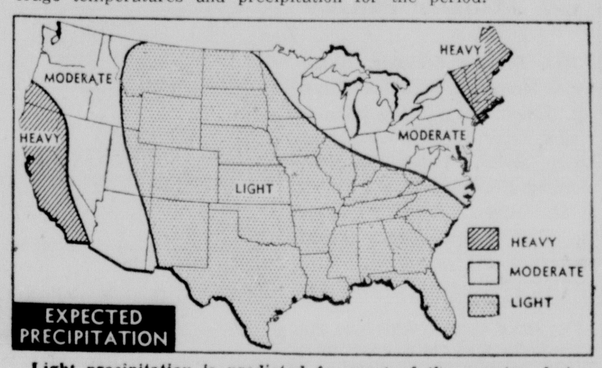

After the meeting, the hostesses, Mrs. A. P. Carr, Mrs. Wesley Bayne, Mrs. John Crane and Mrs. Richard Baldwin served refreshments in the church dining room with Mrs. Richard Baldwin presiding at the tea table.

Be sure to add paper-thin slices of orange or lemon when you are cooking prunes. The citrus gives just-right flavor.

Year-End's Weather---

Maps below give you the U.S. Weather Bureau's long-range forecast from now until January. It is an ESTIMATE of average temperatures and precipitation for the period.

Light precipitation is predicted for most of the country, but New England and California can expect extra snow or rain in December.

There will be cool weather in the eastern third of the nation. Above seasonal temperatures are expected in the far Southwest and in the Great Plains.

No Apple For The Teacher

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — A company which wanted to welcome the annual convention of the Arizona Teachers Assn. left a barrel of apples in the school gymnasium where the meeting was to be held.

But there were no apples for the teachers when they arrived. The students got there first.

Tipton Church Retires 61-Year-Old Organ

After 61 years of service the old pipe organ in St. Andrew's Catholic Church was dismantled last week and replaced by a new church model Hammond electric organ, Nov. 28. The new instrument is the gift of several anonymous donors, members of St. Andrew's parish and was first played at the Holy Hour on the eve of the feast of St. Andrew, patron of the parish. Mrs. Oscar Schmidt is organist and director of the adult mixed choir, and Sister Lucy performs the same office for the children's choir.

Tanglenook Club Plan For Christmas Party

The Tanglenook Neighbors Extension Club met Nov. 27.

Roll call was answered by "What I Want for Christmas." Mrs. Roy Ream, president, conducted the meeting. Mrs. Zimmerman's news letter was read by Mrs. Harvey Ream and Mrs. Ben Townsend.

Plans were made for the Christmas party. Secret pal gifts were given out.

Ten members were present.

The Christmas party will be Dec. 18 at the home of Mrs. John Newland.

Install New Officers

Installation of new officers for the 4-H Council was held on Tuesday night at the Methodist Church in California.

The following officers were installed in a candle light ceremony: president, Mrs. Leonard Ratcliff; vice-president, Mrs. E. R. Bond; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Wesley Allee; and reporter, Mrs. Robert Basinger.

After the business meeting, Christmas carols were sung and a "Useless" gift exchange was held.

Refreshments were served in the church dining room following the meeting.

Ladies Aid Meets

The Walnut Branch Ladies Aid met at the home of Mrs. George Perriguey Dec. 5 with ten members, two men and two visitors present.

The day was spent sewing for the hostess.

New officers were elected for 1957. Gifts were exchanged, secret pals revealed and new pals selected.

Mrs. Paul Hudson reported that the new church, "Prairie View Community Church," will soon be ready.

The next meeting will be Jan. 2 with Mrs. Frank Buffon.

Mrs. Maurice Twenter

Margaret Elizabeth Young Weds Maurice Twenter in Clifton City

Miss Margaret Elizabeth Young, 1719 South Osage, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Young, Clifton City, and Maurice Twenter, son of Mrs. Herbert Twenter and late Mr. Twenter, Pilot Grove, exchanged wedding vows at nine o'clock the morning of December 1 in Clifton City with the Rev. Columban Steffis, O.S.B., Mountain Grove, performing the double ring ceremony. The church was decorated with bouquets of pink gladioli and white chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Earl Paxton, Sedalia, organist, played "On This Day O Beautiful Mother," "Mother Beloved," the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin and Mendelssohn's "Recessional." Miss Carolyn Mosier, Sedalia, sang "Ave Marie" by Schubert, "Oh Lord I Am Not Worthy" and "Mother Beloved."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of chalk white Chantilly lace and nylon net over bridal satin. The fitted bodice of lace was complimented by long sleeves and by a Peter Pan collar trimmed with sequins. The bouffant skirt was tiered with alternating rows of lace and net. A small hat of sequins and pearls held her fingertip illusion veil. The bridal bouquet was a white orchid surrounded by stephanotis and streamers and attached to a white prayer book.

Miss Elain Young, Sedalia, sister of the bride, wearing a ballerina length gown of blue satin and net over taffeta, was maid of honor. A satin bolero was born over the strapless bodice of the gown. She wore a headpiece of pink carnations and carried a colonial bouquet of pink carnations.

Melvin Twenter, Pilot Grove, served his brother as best man.

Simon Young, brother of the bride, Sedalia, and Leo Twenter, Pilot Grove, brother of the bridegroom, ushered.

Miss Joann Young, niece of the bride, wore a pink gown and blue headpiece identical to the maid of honor as she served as flower girl. She carried a basket of pink and white carnations and white chrysanthemums.

The mother of the bride wore a black dress with black accessories and white carnation corsage. The mother of the bridegroom was also attired in black with a white carnation corsage.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents for 100 guests from two to four that afternoon. Bouquets of pink gladiola and white chrysanthemums decorated the house. Mrs. Du Wayne Kramer, St. Mary's, Kan., Mrs. Virgil Kempf, Independence; Mrs. Julius Twenter, Mrs. Lonnie Achers and Misses Anna Marie and Cecilia Stohr, Sedalia, served. Miss Selma Ehlers, Sedalia, was in charge of the guest book.

The couple left after the reception for a two-week wedding trip and will be at home in Pilot Grove after December 15. For traveling, the bride chose a gray and red striped cashmere dress with black accessories and a white orchid corsage.

The bride is a graduate of the Smithton High School, and was employed at Town and Country Shoe Factory.

The bridegroom is a graduate of the Pilot Grove High School, and served two years in Korea with the Air Force.

Out-of-town guests were from Parsons, Kan., St. Mary's, Kan., Kansas City, Independence, Sedalia, Columbia and Pilot Grove.

Dorothy Schuster Becomes Bride Of Walter Miller

Mrs. Dorothy Schuster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Muessig, Tipton, became the bride of Walter Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Miller, Tipton, Saturday morning, November 24, at 9 o'clock at St. Andrew's Catholic Church. The Rev. Father James Steidel performed the ceremony. Mass servers were Jimmy Schuster and Michael Schuster.

The bride chose a dark blue suit with white and black accessories and wore a corsage of red and white carnations.

Mrs. Porter Arnold, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a light blue suit with a corsage of light yellow carnations.

Arnold Miller, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man.

Ushers were Albert Knipp Jr. and John Knipp.

Mrs. Muessing, the bride's mother, wore a blue dress with black accessories and the mother of the groom, Mrs. Miller, wore a gray dress and her accessories were in green color. Both wore corsages of pink carnations.

Dinner was served to the immediate families at the White Eagle Cafe in California with 33 guests present.

The couple will live in Kansas City where the bridegroom is employed in the postal department as a city carrier.

Newlyweds Are Honored Guests At Wedding Fete

A wedding shower was given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Rhoads, Nov. 27, by her aunt, Mrs. Samuel Hieronymus, at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. Ida Hieronymus, Longwood.

Games were played and prizes awarded. After the gifts were opened, refreshments were served. Those present were, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Tevis, of Houstonia; Mrs. W. C. Butterwick, Sedalia, Star Route; Houston Finnell, and Frank Curry, of Longwood; Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Hieronymus, Mrs. Chester Mullins and son, of Sweet Springs; Miss Pauline Anderson, Star Route; Misses Jeannie and Barbara Hieronymus and Emma Brashears, Longwood; Mr. and Mrs. Darwin Bartlett, Marshall route; Mrs. Margaret Stephens and Mrs. Kenneth Rhoads, Marshall Junction, and Miss Alana Gregg, Hughesville.

Others, unable to attend, sent gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. John Means, 1706 South Marvin, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Carolyn Jean, to Preston Rice, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Rice, LaMonte. A spring wedding is planned.

Faye Johnson, Robert E. Olsen Wed in Iowa

Miss Faye Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clif Johnson, of Tipton, was united in marriage to Robert E. Olson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Olson, of Nevada, Ia., on November 17 at 7:30 p.m. at the Nevada Methodist Church in Nevada, Iowa with the Rev. David W. Ash performing the ceremony. The church was deocrated with candelabras and vases of pink roses.

Don Olson, Jr. sang "The Lord's Prayer," accompanied by Mrs. Irene Donson at the organ.

David Olson, Jr., brother of the bridegroom and Bruce Dayton were candle lighters.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of satin and Chantilly lace. It had a high satin gored neckline. The bodice was satin with an overlay of lace. The collar and long pointed sleeves were lace. The skirt was gored satin with diamond lace appliques. The shoulder-length veil was of fine illusion net attached to a sweetheart bonnet edged in pearls. She wore a single strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom, and carried a white lace handkerchief and a bouqet of pink carnations.

Mrs. Richard L. Johnson was matron of honor. She wore a strapless shrimp colored floor-length gown of satin and net. The bodice was satin dotted with rhinestones, with a net stole. The skirt was of gathered net over satin. The headband was of matching net and rhinestones. She carried a bouquet of white carnations.

Don Olson, Jr., brother of the bridegroom, served as best man.

Ushers were Kay Johnson, brother of the bride and Claude W. Post.

Both mothers wore dresses of navy blue and had corsages of white carnations.

After the ceremony a reception was held with Miss Sandra Armstrong in charge of the guest book with Mrs. Don Olson, Jr., Mrs. Snyder, Mrs. Jerry King and Mrs. L. R. Bassitt serving.

The bride is a graduate of North Boone High School at Capron, Ill. The bridegroom attended schools in Nevada, Iowa.

After a wedding trip through Iowa they are at home in Nevada, Iowa.

Bridal Shower Given Honoring Mrs. Brownfield

A bridal shower was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Eby, Green Ridge, in honor of Mrs. Paul Ray Brownfield, the former Mitzi Eby, by Doris McNutt, Carol McCune and Rosalee Alexander.

Pink and green decorations were used with a light green umbrella centering the gift table. Games were played with prizes presented to the honoree. After the games were played, Mrs. Brownfield opened her gifts.

Refreshments were served to Ruth Lemler, Carol McCune, Doris McNutt, Gwendolyn Arnett, Ellen Hoard, Ruthann and Rosalee Alexander, Donna Templeton, Judy Miller, Mrs. McNutt, Mrs. Alexander, Mrs. Lloyd Eby and the honoree.

Others, unable to attend, sent gifts.

Couple Celebrate 50th Anniversary In Blackwater

Mr. and Mrs. Bud Griffith observed their golden wedding anniversary Sunday, November 25, at the dining hall of the Methodist Church in Blackwater. A basket dinner was served at noon to approximately 75 guests.

Bright yellow chrysanthemums, pompons, yellow tapers and golden bells formed the setting.

Mr. and Mrs. Griffith were married Nov. 25, 1906, at the home of her parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Gash, near Ridge Prairie, Saline County, with the late Rev. B. F. Reed reading the marriage vows. The wedding music was played by Miss Mary Bryan, now Mrs. Davis. Witnesses were Clarence Wolford and Will Keith. Relatives and close friends attended the wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Griffith lived in Saline County until 1925 when they moved to Blackwater. He is with the Milton Oil Co.

The couple has a son, Buddy Griffith, Jr., Kansas City, and five daughters, Mrs. Ruby Kammeyer, Mrs. Nora Sue Rinne, Arrow Rock, Mrs. Ella Widel, Mrs. Earlene Davis, Mrs. Peachie Bagby, Blackwater. There are eight grandchildren.

The guest table, with Carol Rinne in charge, was centered with an arrangement of mums. Separate pictures of Mr. and Mrs. Griffith made about the time of their marriage and pictures made recently were displayed here. The long, lace covered table that held the food was centered with a large, decorated wedding cake, flanked with yellow tapers.

Gifts were placed on a yellow covered table that stood beneath wedding bells. This table was centered by a growing yellow mum.

Mrs. Griffith wore a corsage of pompon chrysanthemums, her daughters wore corsages of mums.

The children presented their parents with an eight day chime clock and the grandchildren chose an electric toaster. There were many other gifts.

Attending were Mr. and Mrs. Forest Davis, Milan; Mr. and Mrs. William Gash, Mr. and Mrs. Buddy Griffith Jr. and daughter, Kansas City; Jack Alfrey, Mrs. Ethel Alfrey, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Alfrey and children, Sedalia; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Griffith, Tulsa, Okla.; Mr. and Mrs. James Griffith and son, Shawnee, Okla.; Mr. and Mrs. Ray Lauderback, Walker, Mo.; Mr. and Mrs. Will Keith, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Keith and daughter, Paola, Kan.; Mr. and Mrs. Andy Meyer, Glasgow; Mrs. Hall Williams, Nelson; Mr. and Mrs. Shelton Cunningham and three children, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Wolford and daughter, Marshall; Mr. and Mrs. Leo Lewis, Sedalia; Mrs. Martin Peuster, Marshall; Mr. and Mrs. Artie Alfred Reed and family, Boonville; Mr. and Mrs. Dick Kammeyer, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Rinne and family, Arrow Rock; Mr. and Mrs. Artie Reed, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Widel and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Davis, Mr. and Mrs. William T. Bagby and sons, James Roy Davis, all of Blackwater. Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Gillespie were afternoon guests.

Present who attended the wedding 50 years ago were Mr. and Mrs. Will Keith, Willie Gash, Mrs. Artie Reed, Mrs. Hall Williams, and Mrs. M. R. Gillespie.

Walther League Has Regular Business Meet

The Walter League, St. Paul's Lutheran Church held its monthly business meeting Thursday evening in the church basement.

Meeting was opened by prayer and scripture reading led by Nelda Kaiser and Lucille Eckhoff.

Walter Leaguers and members of the choir are going caroling Friday evening, Dec. 21.

An announcement was made that every member was to contact prospective Leaguers to invite them to the meetings and to get more members.

Everyone was given a part in the New Year's Eve program to be given Monday evening, Dec. 31.

The Walther League decided to help in furnishing the kitchen in the new educational building.

Discussion was held on the possibility of having a Sunday in May for Youth Sunday. The counsellors were asked to look into the matter.

The meeting was closed with repeating the explanation to the Second Article. After the meeting the Walther Leaguer was printed.

Builders Class Holds Christmas Party

The Christmas party for the Builders Class of Calvary Baptist Church was held in the church basement with Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Welch and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Smith as hosts and hostesses. A turkey dinner to which all contributed was served to 18 members and 20 visitors.

The devotional was given by Mrs. H. L. Alley.

After the dinner there was a grab bag gift exchange and the remainder of the evening was spent in games and fellowship.

Mary Zoe Kane, James R. Allee Wed in Wyoming

Miss Mary Zoe Kane, daughter of Mrs. Frank Kane, Gillette, Wyoming, became the bride of James Roy Allee, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Allee, Otterville, at her home with the Rev. Robert M. Phenix, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Gillette, performing the double ring ceremony at 2 o'clock on Friday, November 9, before an altar banked with white, yellow and bronze mums and pomps and white candles.

Mrs. H. G. Baumfalk sang "The Indian Love Call" and "Because," accompanied at the piano by Mrs. V. L. Patterson, who also played the traditional wedding marches.

The bride, given in marriage by O. J. McClelland, wore a princess dress of ivory satin with a Peter Pan jeweled collar. Her veil fell fingertip length from a cap of lace decorated with seed pearls. The bride's arm bouquet was centered with white nylon frieze entwined hearts, surrounded with white carnations and white net leaves, in the heart of each a glitter daisy. The base of the shower bouquet was clustered white gardenias and stephanotis, which when unpinned formed two 'going away' corsages, one formal and the other tailored.

Miss Myra Mae Kane, sister of the bride, served as bridesmaid and she wore a pale blue dress trimmed in gold. Mrs. Richard Carson, cousin of the bride wore a dress of pale pink. They each carried a spray bouquet of yellow and white pom-pom chrysanthemums at the base of which was a single gardenia, removable for a corsage. Their halos were of white nylon net and satin leaves.

The candles were lighted by Frank Kane, brother of the bride

Bernard Laur and Jimmy Thrush were the bridegroom's attendants.

Mrs. Kane chose for her daughters wedding a shapphire blue dress and a corsage of red roses and glitter daisies. Mrs. W. R. Wright, grandmother of the bride, wore a lavendar dress with a corsage of yellow roses.

Miss Kathleen Ann Kane, sister of the bride, was in charge of the guest book.

A three-tiered wedding cake, topped with silver bells, centered the serving table for the reception held immediately after the ceremony. Mrs. Harold Samuels, Mrs. Bob Wright, Mrs. William Robert Wright, Karen Lea and Joy Kane, sisters of the bride, served. Soft background music was played by Mrs. Patterson.

The bride is a graduate of Campbell County high school and has attended the Black Hills Teachers college.

The bridegroom is a graduate of the Otterville High School and is employed on the O'Connor ranch where they will make their home.

Mrs. Allee chose for her going away costume a tweed suit with leather accessories. Mr. and Mrs. Allee left for a trip to Story, Wyo.

Wedding Party Is Given For Newlywed Couple

Your Wardrobe

by Frances Sagaloff at Sage's

Let's take a little time out from our Christmas confusion and think a bit about spring. Right now a few spring dresses are making their appearance and they are just what we need to brighten our wardrobe. Silk prints are here—more beautiful than ever. Not gaudy, but quite feminine, easy to wear, with the figures scaled down to where they aren't tiring. Shaggy-type of fabric from Italy is being shown in solid colors of all shades—both dark and pastel. In the pastel bracket you will see honey, powder blue and violet. The fabric is beautiful in itself and is rarely trimmed, but handsomely styled to show the fabric and cut of the dress. They make wonderful basic garments for the holiday jewelry you will probably receive. Navy dresses in Arnel and faille are coming in and very often trimmed with beautiful lace or other feminine flattery. Chopped jackets, capelets and other extras make frequent appearances and for those who can wear them, they should certainly endulge. Select a spring dress early and enjoy it—keep in tune with the seasons.

President Too Busy to Pose---

Murals of Eisenhower Life Were Painted From Photos

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The artists who painted the huge 1,100 square feet murals for the Eisenhower Museum in Abilene, Kan., never got the President to model for them.

The murals, depicting Eisenhower's life in more than 30 scenes from boyhood to president, are the work of two famous artists, Louise Bouche of New York and Ross Moffett of Provincetown, Mass.

Both had to work from photographs because the press of world events and Eisenhower's recent illnesses prevented him from posing.

"Originally," said Bouche, "I was told the President would pose for me but that never worked out because of the press of business. Later I was suppposed to sit in on a presidential press conference so I could sketch from life but that didn't come to pass either."

The murals cover four walls in the museum lobby. Moffett's show Dwight Eisenhower from childhood to the presidency. Bouche's murals depict scenes from his military career.

The two artists were commissioned, at about $25,000 apiece, by the National Academy of Design to paint the murals, a gift to the museum from the Abbey fund set up by the widow of Edwin Austin Abbey, noted 19th Century mural painter and illustrator.

It was left entirely up to the artists how Eisenhower's life would be portrayed and how the work would be executed. Moffett, best known for his Cape Cod scenes and seascapes, chose Eisenhower's boyhood and postwar career mainly because he himself had grown up on a farm in the Midwest and had a nostalgic feeling for the country.

Moffett was born on a farm near Clearfield, Iowa, but has lived most of his adult life in Provincetown. His painting and murals hang in many prominent public buildings and museums, notably Philadelphia's Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts, New York's Whitney Museum and Washington's Corcoran Gallery.

Although most of his work on the Eisenhower murals was done in his barn-sized studio on the tip of Cape Cod, Moffett said it was like returning to his boyhood again to sketch in fond detail the rolling Kansas countryside and the simple scenes of the President's rural childhood.

Both artists strove for historical accuracy, authenticity and intimate detail. Moffett poured over early family photograph albums opened to him in Kansas two years ago, made copies of dozens of snapshots of Eisenhower at various milestones in his youth and consulted hundreds of other local references.

In depicting Eisenhower the soldier, Bouche had every insignia, uniform and piece of ordinance verified by Military authorities in this country, Canada, France and England.

Before the work even started, his wife read two books on Eisenhower and marked passages for him. Seeking authentic detail, Bouche asked the Canadian consul general in New York City to provide a photograph of a Canadian soldier in full battle dress for a section of the mural dealing with Canada's contribution to the World War II victory.

The consul did better than that. He had a soldier dispatched from Ottawa to pose three days for Bouche."

"Of all the murals I've done," says Bouche, a Democrat who voted for Adlai Stevenson in the last two elections, "this was the most exciting, the most challenging in composition, the most interesting subject.

"It also was the most satisfying for me since I had so little interference from the people involved. For instance, I would have liked my mural in the Department of Interior building better if Secretary Ickes hadn't interfered."

Bouche, a spectacularly tall man — 6-3 — with white-gray hair and a white walrus mustache stained by tobacco, has other works hanging in New York's Metropolitan Museum of Art, the Radio City Music Hall and the Department of Justice Building in Washington, D. C.

Both artists said they had excellent cooperation from Milton Eisenhower, the President's brother who represented the Eisenhower Foundation.

Completion of the project took about two years. The murals were first painted on canvas then cemented to the four walls. Some of the figures, like Bouche's Canadian soldier, are almost life sized; others are in sweeping panorama of many figures and places.

The Moffett scenes include Eisenhower as a baby at his birthplace in Denison, Tex., playing baseball on a quiet street in Abilene, leaving home for West Point, his marriage to Mamie Doud, his installation as president of Columbia University, taking the oath of office as president of the United States, addressing the General Assembly of the United Nations on the peaceful use of atomic energy and at his farm in Gettysburg, Pa., with his grandchildren.

Bouche shows the landing at Normandy, the fighting in Africa, the liberation of Paris, crossing the Rhine and many other war scenes from Eisenhower's SHAEF days.

Moffett did most of his work alone. Bouche had one assistant, artist Cleade Enders, who also posed for many of the figures. Moffett's panels measure 6¼ by 35 feet; Bouche's 12 by 24 feet. The lobby portion of the museum was specially designed to house them.

Smithton Club Has Thanksgiving Program

The Smithton Home Economic Club met at the home of Mrs. Orville Demand Nov. 27 with 29 members and three guests present. Mrs. Demand was assisted by Mrs. Raymond Demand, Mrs. Charles McBride and Mrs. Golder Lujin.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. B. Huntress. Mrs. Brookie Huffine gave a Thanksgiving devotional before the minutes and treasurer's report were read by Mrs. John Calvin.

Mrs. William Lamm, reading chairman, read a letter from Mrs. Zimmerman. Roll call was answered with "What did you do with your Thanksgiving leftovers?"

A collection of $14 was taken for the crippled children's center. Ideas for Christmas were exchanged.

The club collect was repeated before the morning meeting was dismissed for lunch.

The afternoon meeting started with a Thanksgiving story by Mrs. Ben Mankin and Mrs. Nelle Bass. "Count Your Blessings" was sung by the group, accompanied by Mrs. Stanley Kahrs.

A poem by Miss Hazel Lang was read by Mrs. Virgil Quint. A reading was given by Mrs. Lujin.

Cookies will be sent to the air base in March for blood donors.

The clothing project was presented by Mrs. F. Bodenheimer and Mrs. George Myers.

Brotherhood Seen at Work In Aid to Hungary Refugees

IN RED CROSS WAREHOUSE in Vienna, James Ferguson (center) of Ann Arbor, Mich., sorts supplies for Hungarian aid.

By HILDEGARDE HERFURTH
NEA Special Correspondent

VIENNA, Austria —(NEA)— The proof of man's brotherhood is here today, brought in by the hundreds of people who have come from all parts of Europe to offer help to the Hungarian refugees.

Included are Americans from many different walks of life.

They write and come daily to American Red Cross delegates who with representatives of 16 other national Red Cross societies have been directing the world's material aid to the Hungarian people.

John Whittum of Wayne, Pa., a discharged GI who stayed in Europe to study, has offered to drive a truck "or do anything." His skills are needed to transport the millions of dollars worth of supplies flowing into Vienna from some 40 different Red Cross societies.

Marie Caruso, a nurse at New York City Hospital and another nurse, June Neden, from Port Credit, Ontario, were vacationing in Europe when the Hungarian revolution started. They offered to spend their vacation time working in any of the dozens of refugee camps set up in Austria or to go to Hungary itself if needed.

Marie, who lives at the International House in New York, worked double nursing shifts for months to finance her European vacation.

James Ferguson of Ann Arbor, Mich., is a medical student at Glasgow, Scotland, University. He and two other students drove truckloads of supplies from London here for the British Red Cross. They are spending their time transporting and sorting supplies at the warehouse. They want to go to Hungary to help the stricken in that country.

The volunteers are willing to do any type of service. Joan L. Carter, a Fullbright student studying in Copenhagen, Denmark, writes she and four other American female students and a Danish girl want to work during their four-week Christmas vacation.

"We don't care how hard the work is. We are all hale and hearty and we want so much to help," she writes.

One of the busiest Americans here is Mrs. Mariella Wolf, a European-born U.S. citizen, who works as administrative assistant and general Girl Friday in the International Red Cross office. Mrs. Wolf is fluent in English, German and French.

"I am so grateful to be able to help these poor people through the Red Cross," Mrs. Wolf says.

These volunteers work without pay, six or seven days a week, 12 to 18 hours a day.

They are a small part of the world's heart that has gone out to the freedom-seeking Hungarian people.

Chickens Get Eggs

POLK, Neb. (AP) — A three-year-old youngster here broke over 100 eggs by hitting them against the chicken house wall.

One of First Senators---

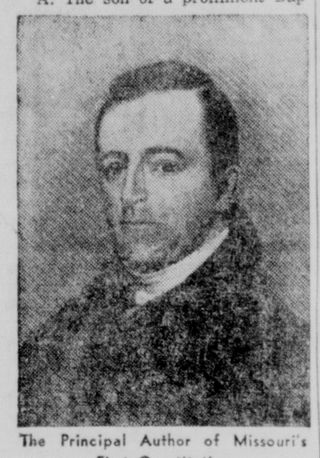

State Constitution Writer Was 'Forgotten Statesman'

By State Historical Society Of Missouri

President of Missouri's first constitutional convention, he was the principal author of the State's first constitution, which bore his name. Who was he?

1. When did he come to Missouri?

A. The son of a prominent Baptist minister, he was born in Greene County, Tennessee, in 1783. He came to what is now Missouri in 1809, and settled in St. Charles, where he practiced law and taught school. After a year of service in the War of 1812, he moved to St. Louis.

The Principal Author of Missouri's First Constitution

2. How did he become a political leader in Missouri?

A. He was appointed attorney general of Missouri Territory in 1813; two years later he became judge of the St. Louis Circuit Court; and in 1818 he was elected speaker of the territorial House of Representatives. He was one of a group of lawyers instrumental in securing the passage of the act which made the English common law the basis for Missouri statutes. A brilliant debater and orator and the most popular man in Missouri, he was elected president of Missouri's first constitutional convention in 1820 and was the principal author of the State's first constitution, called the Barton Constitution.

3. When was he eleced to the United States Senate?

A. He was easily elected by a large majority to the United States Senate in 1820, while the election of Thomas Hart Benton at the same time was by a majority of one vote, and it was partly through his influence that Benton was elected. Considered one of the leading senators in Congress, dinners were tendered him in his own State, in Cincinnati, Louisville, and elsewhere. During his ten years in the Senate, he supported the protective tariff and the building of highways and canals by the Federal government. On the public lands question he and Benton agreed in favoring settlers and "squatters" in preference to speculators, but he opposed Benton's solution to the problem.

4. What was the basis of his quarrel with Benton?

A. Their enmity arose out of the Clay-Jackson feud, in which he differed with Benton by supporting the Clay group. The Missouri vote of John Scott for Adams in the 1825 House of Representatives presidential election aroused bitter personal feelings between them. In a Senate speech in 1826, he accused Benton of misrepresenting the attitude of Missourians toward the government concerning the sale of lead mines and salt deposits in the State. Later, he attacked Benton's bill for graduating the price of public lands. In 1830 he delivered a four-hour Senate speech, unsurpassed for sarcasm and personal denunciation of Benton, in regard to the Foote Resolutions which proposed to withdraw public lands from sale. His opposition to Jackson caused his defeat for re-election to the Senate in 1830 by Benton, a leader in the Jackson group, and by the Jackson-controlled Missouri legislature.

5. What did he do after he left the Senate?

A. He served in the State Senate in 1834-1835. During most of his public life he was an intemperate drinker. He died insane in a cabin near Boonville in 1837 and was buried in the old city cemetery there.

6. How was he honored in Missouri?

A. His body was removed to Walnut Grove Cemetery in Boonville in 1852, and a new monument was erected at his grave by the State in 1856. His first monument was moved to Columbia and unveiled on the University of Missouri campus in 1899.

7. What was his name?

A. David Barton.

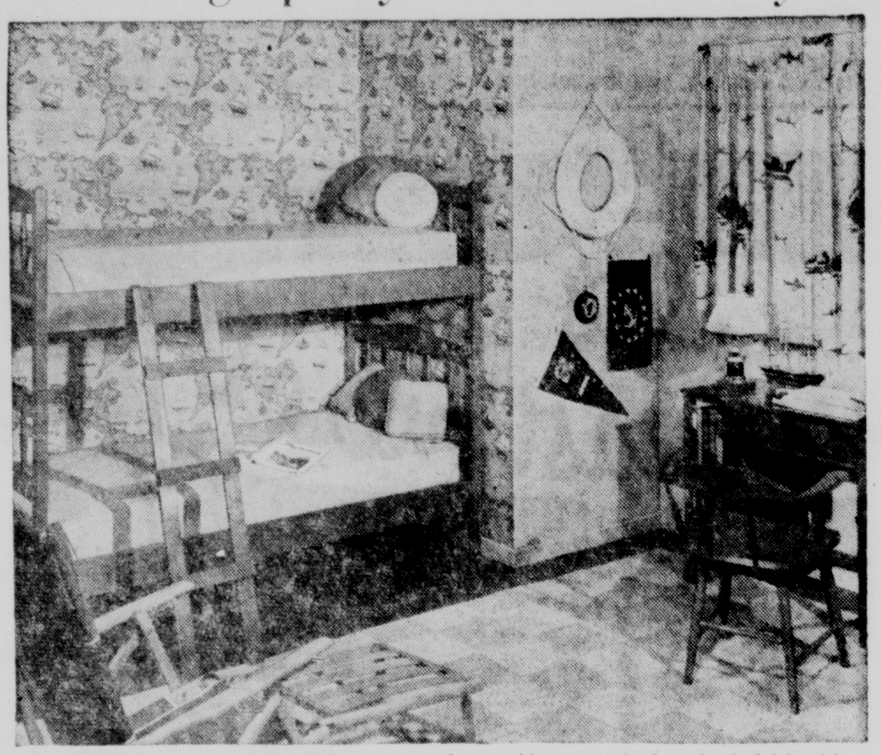

Mickey for President

ROCKFORD, Ill. (AP)—Voters are funny people.

Baseball's Mickey Mantle and actress Kim Novak each received a vote for president and vice president, respectively, on a write-in ballot during the presidential election in the 13th precinct in the Ninth Ward.

Joe Smith of Republican National Convention fame received a presidential vote in the eighth precinct of the Tenth Ward.

Nautical Theme Offers Inexpensive Means Of Dressing-Up Boys Room in Own Style

Nautical theme of a room planned for an active boy combines neat, sturdy and colorful furnishings that are easy for Mom to keep spic and span.

Nautical theme of a room plann ed for an active boy combines neat, sturdy and colorful furnishings that are easy for Mom to keep s pic and span.

By KAY SHERWOOD
NEA Staff Writer

Few autumn decorating plans are entertained with as much enthusiasm as fixing up a youngster's room.

His delight in "special effects" is contagious. There's not likely to be critical comment on your taste or color choice and there is a wealth of wonderful merchandise to choose from.

Without sacrificing anything to special maintenance or fussy care, it's easy to put together a gay and inviting room.

With the boom in boating capturing the imaginations of small, would-be sailors as well as their parents, I was especially interested in a bedroom as spic and span as a captain's cabin and as easy to keep clean as soap and water can make it. Simple, sturdy, basic furniture will last for years. The trappings with a nautical theme are bright and inexpensive and take a minimum of upkeep.

Bunk beds complete with ladder are shoved into an alcove papered with plastic-coated wallpaper. This, printed with sailing ships and maps, is bound to spark some imaginary voyages but pencil marks and other evidences of charting the seas can be scrubbed off. I have learned from experience that it's a smart idea to have wall surfaces next to children's beds washable because this area usually gets more than its share of wear and soil.

The bunks could be ranged side by side as twin beds, a wise move for very young children. Neat and square-cornered bedspreads are wrinkle-resistant ribbed cotton and zippered pillow coverings are washable corduroy.

A desk, which matches the styling of the beds, has a plastic top—another boon to long and tough wear. The companion captain's chair and a lamp with fresnel lens base and a light plastic shade might possibly encourage the captain to buckle down to homework.

A canvas-covered deck chair for visitors is inexpensive and lightweight. There's no need to worry about spots on the upholstery, canvas can take almost endless washing. This is a good time to buy "outdoor" furniture at substantial savings during the summer-end sales.

Curtains are in the same spirit. Heavy fibreglas printed with bold ships doesn't actually match the wallpaper but like so many patterns in today's papers and fabrics it carries a similar theme and "feeling" without being a carbon copy.

The fabric is home-sewn into tailored pinch-pleated curtains with the help of the special pinch-pleating tape and pins. When washday arrives, curtains are swished thru suds, rinsed and line-dried with no ironing.

Because this room is planned for an active boy, the floor covering takes into account the boisterous games and projects which will be played on its surface. Over the resilient tile flooring, a low-cost natural-colored sisal rug is used. It will help cushion the shocks "on deck" and protect the tile from gouges and dents.

4-H Round-Up with

OWEN FOX

Pettis County Assoc. Agent

According to the Pettis County 4-H ruling, all members who were in 4-H Club work last year should be enrolled in 4-H Club work by Jan. 1. Boys and girls who have never been in 4-H Club work have until April 1 to enroll, but of course they should try to enroll before January along with the other 4-H members to get off on a good start. The new members enrolling in 4-H after Jan. 1 must enroll in one of the projects already existing in the club. There is an exception in the case when members transfer from another club or another county.

To this date, 28 4-H Clubs have reorganized in Pettis County. The 4-H Clubs are to be reorganized by Jan. 1.

New 4-H Project to Develop

A new 4-H project is in the first stages of development. This project is the 4-H Automotive project. There are to be three units: Unit A — Introduction to the project; Unit B — Basic Service Maintenance and Operation; and Unit C — Efficient Operation.

It is proposed to have three counties in 30 states pilot the first unit of this project in 1957. Missouri is invited to be one of the 30 states. It is unknown at this time whether Pettis County will be one of the three pilot counties in Missouri.

In order that a pilot County best serve the purpose the following limitations are being used: (1) Members must be 15 years of age and up. (2) Not more than three clubs be involved in a county and not less than five members enrolled in a club. The maximum enrollment for which literature can be provided is 25 to a county.

The pilot work will start with Unit A in 1957; Unit B will be ready for 1958; Unit C for 1959. Unit A will be ready for wide spread use in 1958.

This is a project for grown up boys and girls, one designed to meet the interest and needs of older teen agers.

We would like to hear from any 4-H Club in Pettis County right away that is interested in this pilot work in case Pettis County is selected as one of the pilot counties.

Regular Care Is Needed to Keep Beauty

Getting back on the beauty track when you've problems of dandruff or skin eruptions takes time. It means especially the patience to tackle your particular problem faithfully. Best plan is to check with your doctor. Then, with his approval, you may be able to take advantage of a new series of medicated products that are available without a prescription. Shampoo (left) is meant to have drying effect on oily or dandruffy scalp. Special skin soap (center) aims at drying out oily skin and softening tissue around eruptions. Medicated cream (right) goes on over eruptions. It's meant to prevent further infection and to aid healing process. It should be used once a day, preferably at bedtime, in order to do its work effectively.

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

No woman with unsightly dandruff feels beautiful. And no woman with acne either feels or looks her best. Both problems can cause self-consciousness; both bar the way to beauty.

If the particular problems are more serious than an occasional outburst of pimples or a sometimes dry and flaky scalp, the usual beauty products won't be of much help. Before you can use your regular cosmetics again or know that your hair is shining and lovely, you must spend time and energy on beauty homework.

To help you to regain clear skin and a healthy scalp, there are several new medicated products. These include a medicated shampoo for the treatment of dandruff and an oily scalp, a medicated soap and medicated cream for aid in clearing up acne, pimples and oily skin.

If your scalp or skin problem is a really serious one, you should, by all means, see your doctor first. But otherwise, plan to use these medicated products. As a matter of fact, since the shampoo works best when used twice a week, you'd better count on setting aside two nights each week for regular beauty care.

The medicated shampoo is designed to restore the natural acid balance of the scalp, its makers say.

The medicated soap should be used twice a day to keep pores cleansed. It will, the manufacturer maintains, normalize excessively oily skin and aid in softening and removing the hardened layers of tissue.

To complete the trio, the medicated cream is recommended by the makers for more intensive skin therapy. You'll get best results by using it along with the medicated soap. Before you apply the cream, wash the skin gently and dry it. Then use just enough cream to cover the eruptions. If used just once a day (preferably at bedtime) it stops the spread of infection and has a drying effect on oily skin. The base is vanishing cream and so it's easily removed in warm water.

The cream won't interfere with the use of very light make-up, if your doctor approves of make-up for you at all. It's best to check with him, of course.

How fast your particular problem clears up depends both on its severity and your determined adherence to a regular beauty schedule.

California WSCS Has Program on Children

Thirty members of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the California Methodist church met at the church Monday evening. The quiet hour was held at 7:30 with 11 present.

Mrs. Don Moore led the devotion for the general meeting at 8 o'clock. Mrs. Roger Connelly presented the program "For All Children," assisted by Rev. Connelly. The program was presented as a radio station program through station WSCS announced by Rev. Connelly.

The business meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. Berl York. Reports were given by the circle chairmen and officers. The treasurer reported that $290 was made from the annual turkey dinner and bazaar.

After the business meeting, all assembled in the church dining room for the social hour. The hostesses, Mrs. Ray Ehlert, Mrs. Neil Newton, Mrs. J. P. Roedel and Mrs. Harold Dickson, served from a beautifully decorated Christmas table.

Ever cut large oranges in half and serve, like grapefruit, for breakfast. To be eaten with a teaspoon! Be sure to cut the fruit away from the dividing membranes.

Lincoln Couple Has All Children Home

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Kelb, Lincoln, had all of their children, grandchildren and great - grand children at their home Thanksgiving Day. A turkey dinner was served at noon.

The dinner also honored the 51st wedding anniversary of the Kelbs, who were married Nov. 22, 1905.

Those present were, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Kelb and daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Walker, Mike and Pam; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Kelb, Terry and Ricky; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Kelb, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Fischer and daughter, Springfield; Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Sweeney, Kenney, Larry, Herbert Kelb, Royce and Gery Burlington, Ia.; Mr. and Mrs. Bob Boring, St. Louis; Mr. and Mrs. Theo Fischer, Mr. and Mrs. Roy McCubbin and Douglas; Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Rife and Monte, Lincoln. One grandson and his wife Mr. and Mrs. Kelb of Chicago, were unable to come.

Private Roads For Antelope

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP) — Most states' traffic woes center around too many trucks and cars, but Wyoming faced a serious traffic problem with migrating antelope.

It was simply this:

The natural migration paths to food and water for southern Wyoming's vast antelope herds frequently cross U. S. 30.

The highway department could not get federal aid funds unless the highway is adequately fenced — and the state game and fish department maintained the antelope herd, vital to the state's recreational and tourist economy, would be wiped out if the migration paths were blocked.

The solution:

When U. S. 30 is improved to four lanes under the interstate highway program, underpasses will be constructed every two miles along nearly 300 miles of road — just to let the antelope cross.

Little Seals Whip TB Germ...

There's an old saying that emotions interfere with the ability to think. But surely there can be no block of the mental processes if we allow our emotions to get stirred up once in a while by those agencies which contribute to the relief of suffering.

Not alone has man's inhumanity toward man caused endless distress, but disease and physical handicaps are forever dogging his steps.

There are numerous agencies which contribute to the comfort of those less fortunate and provide means for the continual scientific battle against disease.

At Christmas time many may think there is a limit to giving if only confined to the family. But some portion should be laid aside for the type of giving which serves to help the activities of such organizations as the Tuberculosis Society.

Have you noticed the little boy and girl on Page 1 every day symbolizing the forward march in the fight against tuberculosis. These tots—and they could be joined by adults, too—urge the buying of Christmas seals which are sold annually to finance the TB program.

The Pettis County Tuberculosis Society has been an active organization for many years supporting anti-tuberculosis projects locally and nationally. Because of the activity of these societies the public is better informed of the dangers of TB germs, what to do to combat them. And scientific research has done marvels lessening the annual casualties from this disease.

Christmas Seal stickers have saved many lives because TB can be prevented, treated and cured.

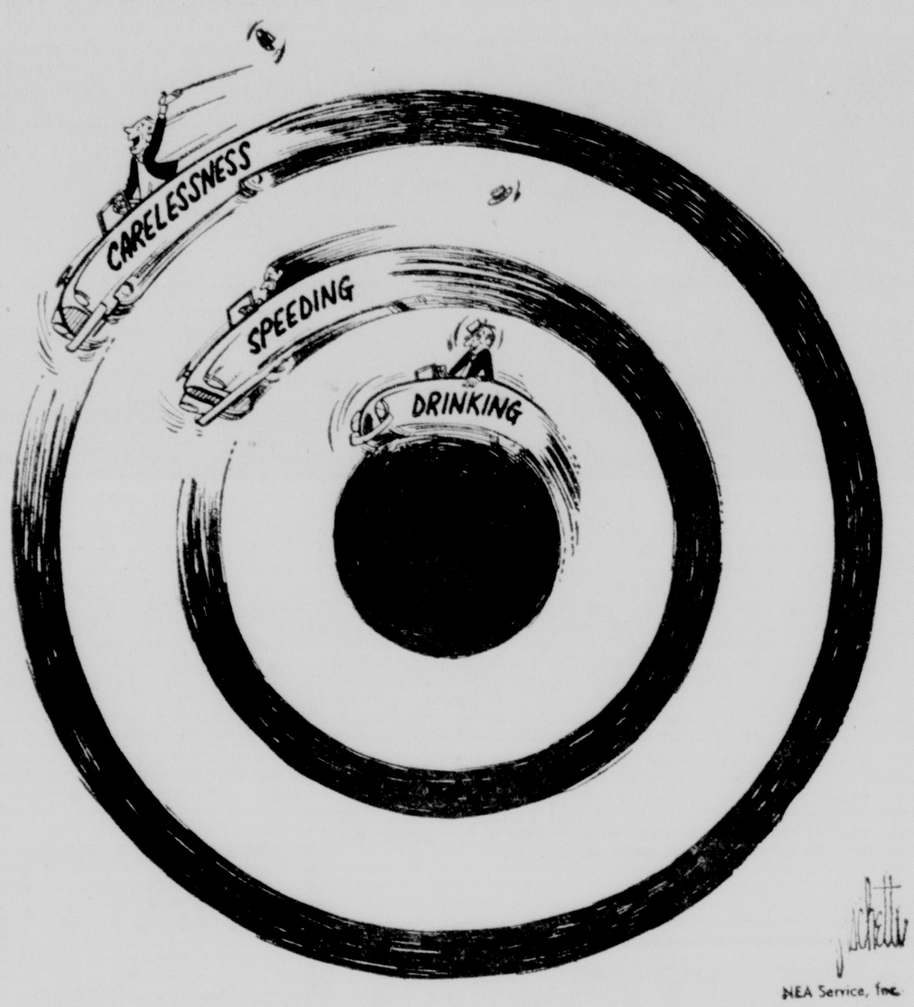

Nevertheless it is still an insidious, contagious disease which can infect others and cause the death of many.

Christmas Seal sales have helped to establish tuberculosis clinics, sanatoria and health education centers. It has educated the public to early diagnosis and given hope to thousands who thought they were doomed.

But the battle is not won. People still get tuberculosis when they are overfatigued, undernourished and worried which makes them a habitat for those tubercle bacilli.

So funds from the Christmas Seal sale will continue to aid in the fight against tuberculosis. Buy them and use them and you will be helping in the fight.

Washington Merry-Go-Round—

Raise Doubts About Dumping Allies

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON. — The new administration trend toward lining up with the Afro-Asian axis and letting Western Allies, if necessary, go down the drain, has caused serious debate not only in inner administration circles but in diplomatic circles.

Opposition inside Eisenhower's official family has come from Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey and Gen. Al Gruenther, now head of the Red Cross, two of Ike's closest advisers.

Gruenther, as military leader of NATO, has always been a stanch supporter of Western Europe, has differed drastically, though privately, with John Foster Dulles over erratic moves by the Secretary of State which weakened the Atlantic Alliance.

Secretary Humphrey has also interposed some quiet but firm advice that to upset the economy of England and France would mean unemployment in the United States.

There have also been some unpleasant memories of what brought the Hoover depression in 1931—namely, the collapse of European economy, first in the credit anstalt in Vienna, then in the Capitals of Western Europe, until it swept across the Atlantic to send stocks crashing in Wall Street.

No one in administration circles wants to risk any repeat performance. That's one reason why there will be no argument about waiving the $70,000,000 interest on Britain's postwar loan.

Kefauver Energy

Regardless of the outcome of the recent election, both Republicans and Democrats probably agree that the hardest campaigner of either ticket was Sen. Estes Kefauver. Though Nixon also campaigned tirelessly, he did not have to face advance primary elections. Kefauver, on the other hand, began campaigning last January, and kept going through the snows of Minnesota and the heat of California until the very end. He probably walked more city blocks, shook more hands than any candidate in history.

When he took his titian-haired wife Nancy and their four children for a holiday in Georgia, therefore, most people expected him to relax. Mrs. Kefauver and the children, however, knew better.

"How are we going to keep daddy busy?" the children asked their mother. "He won't be able to sit still on an island."

Young David solved the problem. He got his father up every morning at 5 to go hunting. They were vacationing on the island owned by Dick Reynolds of Reynolds Aluminum, off the coast of Georgia. It abounds in game, so the two Kefauver males shot wild turkeys while the rest of the family slept. Once they caught two raccoons, put one of them, a baby, in the Senator's coat by tying the sleeves together. Finally they let it go.

The restless Senator got back to Washington this week, immediately flew back to Tennessee, started another round of speeches.

Good Neighbors Worry

Latin-American diplomats, accustomed to being the tail of the North American kite and sometimes a bit bitter about it, are scrutinizing the administration's lean toward the Afro-Asian axis with concern.

Africa and Asia have been the top competitors of South America for years. They have been the chief disrupters of the good-neighbor policy, already badly tarnished. So if the United States now lines up solidly with Asia and Africa, Latin-American diplomats see the good-neighbor policy pretty much coming to an end.

They point out that John Foster Dulles, Vice President Nixon, and UN Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge seem to forget in advising an American-Afro-Asian alliance what happened after Pearl Harbor. After Dec. 7, 1941, the American public walked because it had no rubber. It saved cans and toothpaste tubes because it had no tin. It frantically started Cochina and Sisal plantations in Central America because it had no quinine or hemp.

Never was the economic debacle of the United States so great, Latin-American diplomats recall, all because the United States had turned to Asia and Africa for the cheap tropical products raised by the cheap labor of an imperialist colonial system.

They also point out that distances between Africa and Asia are just as long today as they were in 1941-45. In fact, the route is even more difficult, as indicated by the closing of the Suez Canal and the huge Russian submarine fleet.

Some diplomats are even disagreeable enough to ask whether administration leaders have forgotten why Russia is building such h huge submarine fleet and why Bulganin and Khrushchev took such pains to visit the middle East personally and invite every Asiatic-African leader of any importance to Moscow.

If you look down the list of commodities which Latin America sells to the U.S.A. you can readily understand why the diplomats are concerned. Chief competitor of Latin-American coffee is African and Asiatic coffee. Cocoa, the lifeblood of Ecuador, now gets stiff competition from Africa. On the price of Cocoa frequently depends revolution in Ecuador. Bolivian presidents come and go, depending on the price of tin. Brazil's manganese has to compete with Indian manganese.

That's why the new Dulles-Nixon-Lodge plan of lining up with Asia and Africa is not going to win us many friends among our so-called "Good," but sometimes forgotten "Neighbors."

Cement Shortage

The United States faces the prospect of a cement shortage next year as a result of the huge highway construction program, according to a survey of the House Small business committee.

The highway program will take 20,500,000 barrels of cement in '57 and will increase to 36,500,000 by 1960.

By 1960, the Small Business Committee warns, the cement "demand estimates will indicate shortages of between 24 and 51 million barrels."

The Small Business Committee blasts the office of Defense mobilization for not encouraging construction of more cement plants. The ODM, it reports, approved 33 applications for new cement plants, but denied 51. The Small Business Committee also criticized the big cement producers for discouraging expansion.

Guest Editorial—

COLUMBUS (Ohio) DISPATCH: Safest Day To Drive. We don't know the safest day for going driving in Central Ohio, but out in Missouri it's Tuesday.

A survey of driving habits in the vicinity of Kansas City disclosed that if you want a safe Sunday drive get off the highways and head for the little-traveled roads and byways.

It also suggested that it would be safe to take that Sunday drive early in the afternoon. And by all means stay off the traffic-heavy state highways.

Traffic experts out there also advised that if you want to strengthen the odds that you and your family will get back home without bruises and abrasions, take that Sunday drive on Tuesday.

Statistics state by state will show that this advice might well apply to Ohio. Recent accident records tend to prove that what's true for one state is applicable to another.

Nehru's Poor Eyesight

Prime Minister Nehru of India was quick to deplore the movement of British and French forces against Egypt. This was to be expected from a lifelong foe of European colonialism.

But where was Nehru's protest when Russian troops were shooting down Hungarians in the streets of Budapest?

It has long been obvious to all realists in world affairs that Russia's control over the satellite countries represented a new and especially vicious brand of colonialism.

Out of his hate for the European variety, Nehru has been able to convince himself that the Russian rule of Eastern Europe was some sort of "friendly association" of like-minded peoples. Russian guns gave the lie to that notion. But Nehru seemed too stunned to respond.

No one can fairly complain if Nehru wants to be neutral. But we may justly protest that he uses his neutral position badly. He wastes whatever moral authority he might have by employing it unevenly. That is India's and the world's loss.

Order Now Out of Chaos---

Dominican Worry Is What May Come After Trujillo

By Esther Van Wagoner Tufty
Of Our Washington Bureau

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, DOMINICAN REPUBLIC — A fair-minded minded American just has to admit that Trujillo has brought order and progress out of chaos in the Dominican Republic, even if he is a dictator. Maybe back in 1930 only a dictator could have stopped the bloody revolutions.

Even short time visitors here blink with surprise at the beauty of modern buildings of dramatic design, new hotels of Miami Beach splendor, good roads, clean streets, and at the people who don't look oppressed living in a police state set up by a man some call a benevolent despot.

Happy, wild - cheering people greet him everywhere he goes. Any reporter who has watched crowd reactions to a political leader would recognize the spontaneity of the Dominican people's response to their Generalissimo. They adolize him, perhaps too much.

Maybe these are some of the reasons. The budget is balanced. The foreign trade balance is favorable. No national debt exists. Social security is complete. Revolutions are no more since Trujillo came to power in 1930. He has not asked, nor received, any U.S. handouts and what he has borrowed he has paid back in full.

The United States is grateful for the generalissimo's firm anti-Communist attitude. At least 98 per cent of the time, the Dominican Republic votes with the United States in the United Nations. Like the Duchess in Alice in Wonderland, he has an "off with their heads" policy toward Communists.

But still Americans wish this all could have been accomplished in more of a democratic U.S.A. pattern overlooking the traditional American policy of letting other countries run their affairs as they choose.

Trujillo takes care of his people, even those so down on their luck they seek a pawn shop.

A talk with Juan Santoni, an administration general, told a little about how the Government itself operates a pawn shop to protect the hard-pressed person. The interest rate is two per cent, half of the commercial charge. If the interest is not paid, the article is put up for auction and the money received does not go to the government but back to the customer minus the unpaid interest.

Santoni said: "We will lend money on anything except a sewing machine or a bicycle, for those are considered necessities."

The pawn shop is also called a boon to the business man who wants a small loan in a hurry without paying loan shark prices.

Another example of Trujillo "taking care of his own," as a young married woman put it, is the chance to own a home. Anyone who can get together $500 for a down payment can own a house built to his liking. These are pretty pink, blue and white $4,000 to $6,000 houses much more individual than many subdivisions in the States.

Trujillo has made this not a "manna" country. The fabulous hotel El Embajador, with a sweeping ocean view and sweeping tourist-prices in the season, was built in eight months!

Trujillo is called an egomaniac. Most leaders in any country are. So secure is his control, one fears more what will follow after his death than what exists today.

Many a golfer shoots a birdie, but not as literally as 12-year-old Rick Pickard of Baldwinsville, N.Y. Young Rickie, playing his first golf game, did the first two holes in routine fashion. At the third hole, he teed off, hit a whizzer down the fairway, hit a bird in flight and killed it.

Looking Backward...

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

J. W. Lemon, general superintendent at the Missouri Pacific shops, was in Pueblo, Colo., for a visit with his mother.

1931

Raymond Slaton and Leo Mynatt left for New Orleans, La., from where they contemplated a trip to the Panama Canal to visit Ross Cunningham and other friends in that part of the world.

1931

Peter T. O'Brien, state commander of the American Legion, left for Warrensburg and Independence to attend meetings of the Legion posts in those cities.

1931

Charles L. Hanley, cashier at the Third National Bank, was appointed by members of the Twelve Mile Road District as treasurer.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Furtherance of better lighting in the business district through establishing what was termed a "white way" was meeting with encouragement, E. J. Adamson of the Chamber of Commerce reported.

1916

A. E. Poteet, former Sedalian, representing the Missouri and Kansas Telephone Co., with Kansas City headquarters, was here on company business and visiting relatives and friends.

1916

The Shriners concert and ball at Liberty Park Convention Hall was one of the outstanding social events of the season. It was attended by 210 couples. A high class musical program was presented in addition to the dance music.

1916

The Pettis County Bureau of Agriculture passed resolutions voicing opposition to any contemplated embargo on exportation of farm products.

1916

Walter Jones, Warrensburg extensive buyer of mules, was here on business and to view offerings with intent to purchase.

Ruth Millett Says—

Wife's Attitude Builds Respect For Her Husband

Do your friends regard the man you married as head of his house or just another henpecked husband? How they see him depends on how you treat him.

If you want him accepted as head of his own house, watch your own attitude toward him.

Don't blame him when things go wrong. The wife who says, "I tried to tell you, George, but you wouldn't listem to me and now look at the mess you've gotten us into" makes her husband look like a worm.

Make a real effort to do the things that are important to him. If he sets great store by always being on time, don't make him late. And mention now and then that the reason the two of you are always on time is because George insists on it.

Don't go around telling your friends how you outsmarted George—or how you manage him. You may have to manage him now and then (most wives do) but keep it to yourself. You don't really want others thinking of your husband as a man who can be led around by the nose, do you?

Ask his opinion now and then, in front of others. And listen with respectful attention to what he has to say. You'll be surprised at how that encourages others to listen to him with respect for his opinions.

Don't discuss your husband's faults with others. He may have plenty, but it's a wife's job to cover them up, not expose them.

Don't go around talking poor. The wife who is always talking about what she would like to have but can't afford on what George makes is actually saying, "My husband isn't a very good provider."

A wife's attitude toward her husband has a lot to do with the way others regard him. After all, she is supposed to know him better than anyone else in the world.

The Mature Parent—

Child's Manners Begin As Form of Self-Protection

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Sam's Aunt Jo isn't his real aunt. He gives her this title because she's his mother's best friend. He looks forward to her visits, not just because she always brings him a present, but because he likes her very much.

The last time she visited, he didn't wait to be given the present. When Aunt Jo, still wearing her coat and hat, kissed him and told him how he'd grown, he asked eagerly, "What did you bring me? The horn for my tricycle?"

Sam's mother realized that this question expressed trust in Aunt Jo as well as interest in her gift. So instead of rebuking it, she just said gently, "Better wait and find out."

Later, however, she told him why he must not ask visitors for presents.

She said, "Aunt Jo doesn't mind your asking her for a present because she knows how much you want her here. But all the grown-ups who visit us are not so sure you like them. So if you ask them for presents, they think, 'That boy wants my present more than he wants me.' Their feelings are hurt. The next thing, they decide that you're rude. As you don't want that, it's best not to ask visitors for presents again."

With little boys and girls, it's sensible to present good manners as obligation to themselves rather than to others.

We adults are supposed to possess good manners out of consideration for the other fellow's feelings. Little boys and girls are too young to have developed this consideration. We therefore have no right to demand it of them.

As we must still demand good manners to a little boy or girl without also teaching them to falsify their natural and paramount interest in themselves? Is a courteous child to be had only at the cost of turning him into an emotional liar?

I think not. I think that the answer is explaining good manners to children as self-protective. We are on truthful ground when we warn Sam that he arouses resentment in guests by demanding presents from them. We are being realistic when we tell Babsy to get up and surrender her chair to Grandma to avoid criticism by Grandma, her aunts and uncles.

By thus making self-protection their motive for good manners in the place of "consideration for others," we preserve their right to honest interest in themselves.

If it is preserved with honesty, it thrives and grows until it spills over—and becomes honest interest in others, too.

Vitamins Will Not Stop Hair From Turning Gray

By Edwin P. Jordan, M. D.

Vanity is not supposed to be one of our most attractive qualities, but attractive or not, it is here to stay.

Q—Is there a vitamin which keeps the hair from becoming gray?—Mrs. A.

A — Unfortunately not. There was a good deal of excitement several years ago when there were some reports of a vitamin which prevented graying of the hair in foxes. This same vitamin apparently has no effect at all on human hair. I am beginning to like more and more the idea that a person is as old as he feels rather than as old as he looks.

Q—Would you kindly explain the meaning of coronary insufficiency as a cause of death?—Mrs. G. B.

A. The coronary arteries are the blood vessels which supply the heart muscle with blood. Blood is necessary for any muscle, including heart muscle. If the coronary arteries cannot deliver enough blood to the heart muscle, either because of thickening, narrowing, spasm or clot, they can be said to be "insufficient." If the blood supply is reduced enough the heart muscle fails and death results.

Q—For several months I have had a cracking and snapping in my right jaw when I chew and yawn. There is no pain. Could this be serious?—Mrs. M. B.

A — A snapping sound, often without any sensation at all, is quite common in the jaws. This is th result of one or two situations: a mechanical disturbance of the fibrous cartilage, or recurrent dislocation of the joint of the jaw with irregularity of the joint surfaces. Early cases are often treated with heat and massage over a period of several weeks, combined with soft food and the avoidance of unnecessary motion of the jaw in talking. Sometimes more complete rest is indicated and in occasional cases operation becomes necessary.

Q—I have read that people can turn yellow by eating too many carrots. I should like to know more about it.—M. D.

A—This is a possibility. Carrots contain a pigment known as carotene, which may produce a condition of the body known as carotenemia. This is a yellowish skin pigmentation somewhat resembling jaundice. It disappears rather rapidly if foods containing carotene are discontinued.

Bad Hitch

GATESVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Two inmates fled the State School reformatory for Boys Campus and were trying to flag a ride 15 miles west of town.

The obliging motorist who gave them a lift was the school superhad started on a business trip. He detoured long enough to take the boys back to the institution.

Christmas Excitement

We all let loose this time of year
In body, heart and mind
Because the Christmas season's here
And we are gay and kind.
The shops are full of pretty gifts,
We don't know what to buy,
Each Christmas carol always lifts
Our earthly spirits high.
We buy our cards by the score,
We're sure we have enough,
But always we must buy some more,
Addressing them gets rough;
And there are notes that we must write
To someone far away,
We scribble 'til so late at night
We're tired throughout the day.
The town is bright with silver foil
With lights and spruce and flowers,
We just forget our daily toil
As if the world was ours —
For everybody that we meet
Has packages galore,
With arms full they're on the street
Or milling through a store;
Just what they want they rarely know
And often lose their list,
The stores have so much now to show
And nothing must be missed.
You'd think we all were millionaires
The way we seem to spend
And everyone we see now shares
Our fun — each is a friend;
Our packages just grow and grow
Nobody cares — it's strange -
That every place we seem to go
Our bills turn into change.
At home we look the gifts all o'er
And feel we've done right well,
We count up just how many more,
It's always hard to tell;
We wrap each gift in paper bright,
Each is a piece of art,
With bows and seals — to our delight —
There's Christmas in our heart —
We have a million things to do,
At least it always seems,
There was a time when Santa knew —
And Christmas was just dreams,
But, still, today we get things done
Though nearly lose our reason,
But when do people have more fun
Than at the Christmas season?

THE ANIMALS' CHRISTMAS — He Can't Be Bothered — BY WALT SCOTT

Preview of Spring and Summer Fashions

By GAILE DUGAS
NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK —(NEA)— Pointing the way to spring and summer fashions, the resort collections give us a fair idea of what we'll be wearing when warmer weather rolls around again.

The empire line, well-liked for several seasons, continues. But in the resort fashions, the effect is short-waisted rather than the very high Empire gathered just under the bustline.

The bloused top goes on into resort fashions and takes precedence over the pleated back. It's used for both daytime sheaths and late-day dresses, and sometimes appears in combination with a panel effect.

Skirt lengths have not changed drastically despite Dior. Some designers have shown hemlines an inch longer; many have not. The longer lengths are confined to after five, dinner dress and evening wear, and longer lengths at this time of day are not news making. The hemline for after-five wear has always varied somewhat from designer to designer for many seasons now.

After five, the hemline may be anywhere from 10 inches from the floor to the anklebone, or it may be irregular. That is, it may be 12 inches at the front and floor length in back. The irregular hemlines, of course, are confined to evening dresses. They are not seen for cocktail wear.

Happy man breaks laxative drug habit

If constipation due to lack of bulk troubles you, read how All-Bran helped Mr. C. E. Groff, of Springfield, O. "For 25 years I tried every new drug laxative. Today I'm a happy man and really regular, thanks to Kellogg's All-Bran." Unlike laxative drugs (that contain no bulk) All-Bran supplies the natural laxative bulk you need daily for regularity. Kellogg's—the original, ready-to-eat bran cereal has helped millions regain regularity. Try All-Bran for 10 days. Must satisfy in every way or return empty carton and get twice what you paid.

Red Cross Volunteers Donate 714 Hours Service in November

November was an unusually busy month in the chapter with members of service groups serving 714 hours. Some 186 volunteers gave service at Bothwell Hospital and Whiteman Air Force Base Hospital.

Over 600 cookies, which were served during the visit of the mobile unit to WAFB Nov. 29, were baked by the ladies of the following extension clubs: Striped College, Bothwell, South Abell, Dresden and Maplewood.

Schools are again urged to bring in their Junior Red Cross enrollment and gift boxes as they can be sent in as soon as possible.

Nice for an appetizer: drained Brisling sardines sprinkled with lemon juice and grated Parmesan cheese and broiled. Serve on toast.

Iraq's Aged Strong Man Is Weakening

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Iraq's aged strong man is weakening under mounting pressure.

Nuri Said, 68-year-old premier of the nation which is an important key to the future of the whole Middle East, appears today to have his back to the wall.

Like a man preparing for an impending storm, Nuri has arrested and confined a number of opposition leaders. He has kept all secondary schools and colleges closed since the outbreak of fighting in Egypt to prevent student rioting.

He has clamped down a rigid martial law, transforming Iraq into what the literate population considers a total and often harsh police state.

He has imposed the strictest of military and civilian censorship on the local press and on foreign correspondents.

This writer has just returned from Baghdad.

He has talked to dozens of Iraqis, all the way from government leaders to Arab nationalist extremists. He has talked to diplomats, journalists, businessmen and members of Iraq's small class of professional people.

The conclusion is inescapable.

At least 90 per cent of the literate population of Iraq—perhaps more—oppose Nuri.

Seasoned observers of the Middle East say this:

It may not be tomorrow. It may not even be next month. But it is inevitable that Nuri will fall.

When that comes, just anything can happen — because only the strength of Iraq's strong man has kept the country from hurtling toward chaos.

The Iraqi army is on the alert —against Iraqis. It is obviously prepared to move into any trouble spot at a moment's notice.

Iraqi Foreign Minister Burhan Eddin Bashayan told this correspondent a few days ago he considers the crisis in Iraq passed with the decision of Britain and France to withdraw from Egypt.

But even the foreign minister admitted that it would be weeks before the schools would be reopened. And other observers in Baghdad express the belief that Iraq's crisis is only beginning.

The crisis could be a reflection of rising public pressure on the Egyptian events and the vague Arab dream of a united empire under a hero leader. This has been fanned by all sorts of agents — Syrian, Egyptian, Communist and home-grown nationalist extremists. All oppose Nuri's determination to keep Iraq in the Baghdad Pact, the only Arab member of that pro-Western, anti-Soviet alliance.

Good topping for an open sandwich: grated cheddar cheese mixed with a little mayonnaise, diced canned pimiento and chopped walnuts. Serve as is or broil.

The '57 Pontiac is America's Number (1) Road Car!

Months ago, Pontiac set its '57 sights on producing an engineering classic—the greatest road car in automotive history! How well did they succeed? One answer is pictured here, the all-new '57 Pontiac itself, a car so advanced in concept that other new cars merely emphasize its outstanding design, its brilliant array of first-time features! The other answer is the public's response to this road-ruling beauty. From every quarter of the nation has come wave after wave of confirming praise! Praise for Pontiac's styling—its crisp, colorful lines and flowing contours that accent beauty built in, not hung on! Praise for new Level-Line Ride, the advanced suspension system that cradles you in cloud-soft comfort. Praise for Pontiac's ease of handling! Praise for the brisk and eager response of its all-new Strato-Streak V-8 engine! And underlying this tremendous voice of approval is the confidence felt in a car which has undergone the greatest road test in history . . . Pontiac's grueling 100,000-Mile Marathon Run! Yes, this year it's Pontiac all the way! Come in and see it! Come take the wheel of America's No. 1 Road Car!

SIX-DAY GRASS—In Dallas, Tex., Leo Mistak shows a flat of a new quick-growing grass developed by Department of Agriculture researchers to take the place of hay destroyed during Texas' prolonged drought. This grass reached the height shown here in six days. It is much cheaper than conventional hay grass, selling for about $12.50 per ton, baled, as against $40 for regular hay.

TV Christmas Scenes Erode True Spirit

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—The turkey had scarcely been removed from the Thanksgiving table when television trotted out its Christmas commercials.

And, the television people might ask, why not? Newspapers and magazines are urging shoppers to hurry, hurry, hurry and get it over with early. In cities and towns across the country merchants have run up the tinsel and green. It's all part of a plot to start the Christmas season in late August.

Personally, I can't get very excited — either pro or con — about rushing the season. Except when it comes to television. Then it brings out the Scrooge in me .

Am I unfair to television on this matter? Probably. Why should I be mildly interested in early Christmas advertising in newspapers and magazines, yet annoyed when television does the same thing?

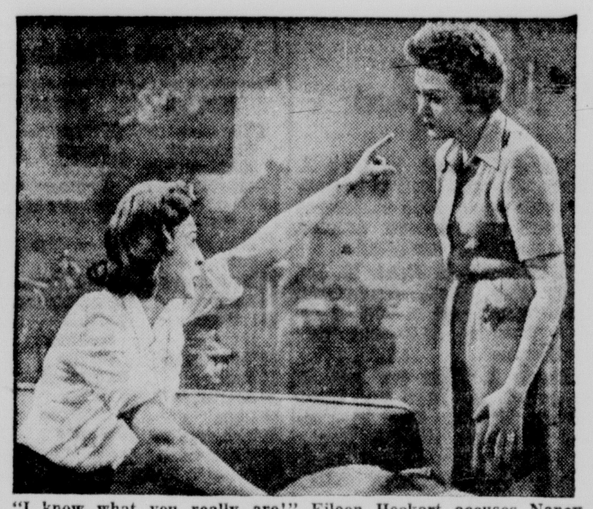

The answer is that there's an immediacy to television. If you're watching a program, you're trapped by its commercial. There on the living room home screen is a Christmas on Christmas morning and out parade Daddy and Mummy and Junior and Betsy, all wearing bathrobes, all with hair neatly brushed and faces scrubbed. "Oooh!" cries Betsy. "A whatchamacallit! I've always wanted a whatchamacallit!"

After this and similar Christmas morning scenes have been repeated 30 or 40 times in the living room, you begin to feel that there's little point to celebrating your own family Christmas in this same living room. It would be repetitious. Furthermore, your own tree couldn't possibly be as big or gaudy as the tree of the commercial and none of your family would bother to comb his hair or scrub his face — or maybe even pull on a bathrobe.

The perpetual enactment of Christmas scenes, the phoney blatting of Christmas good will for commercial purposes, when repeated so often before the actual event, erodes its true spirit as surely as rain melts snow.

Jack Palance tells his commanding officer Eddie Albert that if he is not given support during his attack, he will come back and personally take revenge. "ATTACK" starts today at the Fox theatre.

"I know what you really are!" Eileen Heckart accuses Nancy Kelly of a shame too great to hide in a tense scene from the Warner Bros.' filmization of "The Bad Seed," now showing at the Uptown Theatre.

Mrs. Mary Schleier 80, Celebrates Birthday

Mrs. Mary Schleier, Lincoln, celebrated her 80th birthday anniversary Nov. 18, at her home with a dinner. Those present were: three daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Rambow and Ralph, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Steffens, Ionia; Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Keseman, and Ester Schleier of the home. Afternoon visitors were: Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Kemper and family and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Rambow and son. Mrs. Kemper, Mrs. Rambow and Mrs. Harold Steffens are granddaughters of Mrs. Schleier.

Another Pound Sterling Crisis—

Britain Again Looks to US To Help Cut Economic Knot

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Britain once more is looking to Uncle Sam to help her out of another financial mess.

Crisis for the pound sterling, which a large part of the world uses to transact business, have come along since the war with fair regularity — 1946, 1949, 1952, 1955. The present one looks like a dilly.

Uncle Sam would suffer too if the pound sterling were weakened too much. And U.S. foreign policy is based on alliance with England and Western European nations. Besides, England points out it could put up securities for the loans it seeks.

Here is what Britain asks:

1. Forgiveness of an 81-million-dollar interest payment this month on the U.S. loan of 1946 which staved off disaster for the sterling area at the end of the war.

2. A possible new loan, but based on British-owned dollar securities as collateral.

3. Help in getting the dollars needed to finance the shipment of Western Hemisphere oil to England to replace oil resources of the Middle East cut off by the blocking of the Suez Canal and by pipeline sabotage.

The latest onslaught on the pound sterling started when Nasser seized the Suez Canal. International confidence in the pound began to waver and the Bank of England had to step in to help hold it at the official rate of $2.80 in terms of the American dollar.

British reserves of gold and dollars began to shrink rapidly. Then British and French troops landed in Egypt and the rout was on. During November the reserves dropped by 279 million dollars, slipping below two billion dollars to the lowest level since December 1952.

It's going to be a rough winter in England at the best, even with the aid which Uncle Sam is likely to give her. Oil shortages mean more than just the parking of the family car in the garage. They threaten a drop in factory output. This could mean unemployment at home and a decline in exportable goods, further weakening the position of the pound in relation to the dollar.

The weakness would affect a large part of the world outside the Iron Curtain. The dollar area covers most of the Western Hemisphere. The sterling area includes the British Commonwealth nations, except Canada. Among them are India, Pakistan, South Africa, Australia, New Zealand. One fourth of the world's population is in the sterling bloc. And Americans trade with all of them.

Already, however, there is talk in England of imposing strict quotas on the importation there of American goods. The government will need what dollars it can lay its hands on — by trade or gift or loan — to pay for the oil and other raw materials its factories require.

But American bankers point out that while the crisis in the pound sterling is real enough and the winter's outlook bleak, Britain's financial position is far from desperate yet.

In addition to the official reserves of nearly two billion dollars worth of dollar securities owned by the British government, And it probably has left some of the 60 million dollars worth of short-term U.S. government securities it was known to hold until recently.

Britain is already talking with the International Monetary Fund in Washington for up to a half billion advance — part in credit and part in withdrawal of its quota in the fund.

And if Uncle Sam forgives the interest payment due this month, Britain will have around 1½ billion dollars to help tide her over.

Wyatt Earp Ranks as Top TV 'Cowpoke'

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Highest riding Western star of TV these days is straight-shooting, smooth-talking Wyatt Earp, otherwise known as Hugh O'Brian.

The ratings show that the Earp epic has been shooting down its opposition ("The Brothers," "Noah's Ark") on Tuesday nights and racking up the largest audience for that evening. It is reckoned to be the highest rated of the cowpoke sagas and ranks with Disneyland and Lawrence Welk as one of ABC's three top shows.

Naturally this is highly gratifying to O'Brian, a hep, handsome ex-Marine who was born in Rochester, N.Y., and grew up out West—in Chicago. When I caught up with him, he had finished his 37 Earp films for this season and was costarring with Marilyn Erskine in a Ford Theater film.

Why has Earp been so successful?

"Partly because it's a show the whole family can watch," said O'Brian, who wore makeup scars for his role as a prizefighter. "We don't insult the intelligence of adults. In fact, a breakdown of our audience shows that it is divided almost equally among men, women and children. Strangely enough, the women lead slightly.

"Also, we have been favored by our time. Last year we started out opposite Phil Silvers and he beat us by a few points. Then Silvers moved up a half-hour and that favored us. A lot of people preferred to move to another half-hour show rather than come in on the middle of an hour show, such as NBC had."

His only regret: that the lateness of the show (8:30 here, 7:30 in hte East) eliminates many potential viewers under 8 years.

Donald Hofheins Will Take Part in Concert

Donald Hofheins of 1007 West Tenth, will take part in a formal concert which is being presented by the Drury College Concert Band at 8:15 p.m., Thursday, Dec. 6, on the Drury Campus.

Don, a junior at Drury this year plays the clarinet in this year's band which is composed of 44 members. He will be featured as a clarinet soloist on the program.

A formal concert is presented once each year by the Drury Bandsmen who are under the direction of Professor A. A. Rockwell. The group also participates at all "home" basketball games and gives a series of outdoor concerts each spring.

Don is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hofheins.

Bears Dislike Chickens

BLOOMSBURG, Pa. (AP) — Bears of this north central Pennsylvania region must have lost their taste for meat, reports district game protector M. E. Hagenbuch.

Hagenbuch said a bear broke the window of a chicken house, crawled inside and ate all of the feed mash in the poultry feeders. Not a chicken was touched.

Twin Careers

HUDSONVILLE, Mich. (AP)—The parallel careers of twin physicians have diverged slightly now that the two have joined the armed forces. Dr. Robert D. Visscher is in the Navy. His twin, Dr. Harrison C. Visscher, is in the Army.

Both were noted athletes and scholars in high school and college; they attended medical school together and each married his college sweetheart. They each have one child. And both entered private practice as associates of other physicians prior to going into service.

Give A Sedalia Savings & Loan Savings Account—
PRESENT . . . with a future
You give more than money when you give an insured Sedalia Savings & Loan Association savings account. You give someone a head start on the savings habit . . . on getting many other worthwhile things in the future.
And, as over seventeen million Americans know, saving in an Insured Savings and Loan Association means important advantages.
Excellent returns from your money is one advantage. Efficent, forward-looking service from men who know how to make your dollars work harder for you is another.
And, of course, your money is safe because in Insured Associations your savings are protected by sound management and substantial reserves. They are insured up to $10,000 by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation—an agency of the U.S. Government.
These are the reasons why Americans are putting more of their savings account dollars into Insured Savings and Loan Associations than anywhere else! And, with over $38 billion of assets, these Insured Associations are a great force in encouraging thrift and home ownership.
You can invest in the future with as little as $1 to $5. Plan now to give someone in your family (or yourself) this "present with a future." Why not start with a part of your Christmas bonus . . . watch it grow . . . more quickly than you'd think.

Sad Days For Clowns

HILLSDALE, Mich. (AP) — Sad-eyed circus clown Hal (Happy) Kellems wishes his audience would quit throwing things at him.

"I can't understand," said Happy. "It's getting so we hate to go on."

Kellems said children used to laugh and applaud when the clowns put on their acts. "But now," he said, "kids, and some grownups, think it's funny to throw peanut shells or shoot iron staples at us."

N. F. O. MEETING

The N.F.O. Will Hold Its County Meeting At The

PETTIS COUNTY CIRCUIT COURT ROOM

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 11, 8 P.M.

OREN LEE STALEY, National President, will be the principal speaker

With us, too, will be Ed Caldwell, Director. Mr. Staley and Mr. Caldwell will give us first hand information about N.F.O., what it means to the farmer, and its plans for the future.

The following are the resolutions which were adopted at the National Convention held in St. Joseph on November 12, 13, and 14. About 800 farm members attended from 13 states.

RESOLUTIONS

National Farmers Organization

Adopted at National Convention, November, 1956

1. We hereby petition our government for 100 percent of original parity or cost of production plus a reasonable percent of profit for all farm products.

2. We resolve that the National Farmers Organization shall petition the Federal Government to provide a crop insurance program to cover ALL crops that this shall be done at a reasonable fee, and that the reimbursement should be cost of production plus a reasonable adjustment.

3. We resolve that the National Farmers Organization shall petition the Federal Government to prohibit all imports in competition to any surplus farm commodity.

4. We resolve that the National Farmers Organization shall petition the Federal Government to support all livestock and poultry plus poultry and dairy products at 100 percent of the original parity and that if the price of any of these commodities drops below 100 percent of the original parity, then a subsidy shall be made directly to the farmer. We will accept any reasonable controls.

5. In the event of farm surpluses we hereby state our willingness to accept reasonable controls based on good land use instead of crop history.

6. Recognizing that there is no substitute for price, adequate emergency farm credit must be made available immediately, at the lowest possible interest rate, until farmers receive a fair share of the national income.

7. The practice of monopolistic market manipulations which are circumventing the operations of free markets and enriching the few to the ends of destroying the producer must be stopped. We request immediate investigation by Congress and the Federal Government.

8. The expenditures of vast sums of public money in the reclamation of desert lands for agricultural purposes should be stopped until such time as increases in demand for food justifies increased production.

9. We resolve that present farm legislation be amended and future legislation be so worded as to be mandatory instead of at the discretion of the Secretary of Agriculture.

10. Resolved that the National Farmers Organization shall cooperate with any farm group, labor organization, or any other group or groups to help the farmer fight for a fair share of the national income.

11. Resolved that the farm program be administered by farmer elected County ASC Committees, including the right to hire, direct and discharge any county personnel without the influence or pressure of political leaders of any political party, either at the county or state level.

And provided further that safeguards should be established to prevent the arbitrary discharge of any farmer elected committee, be it state, county or local.

12. Resolved that we endorse a food stamp plan for needy people and endorse the enlargement of the present school lunch and milk program.

13. Resolved that the National Farmers Organization request Congress to ask each of the following farm organizations to appoint an agriculture advisory committee composed of equal numbers of representatives from each farm organization. These organizations shall be the National Farmers Organization, the National Grange, the National Farmers Union and the American Farm Bureau Federation.

14. The National Farmers Organization resolves that wheat allotments be placed on a bushel basis.

15. Because electricity has meant so much to rural America, be it resolved that the National Farmers Organizatiton will support the present REA program and its expansion to the fullest extent.

16. We, the members of the NFO resolve that our policy shall be the cost of production, plus a reasonable profit for all farm products at the local market and hereby are willing to council and work with any other group or organization who stand for the same policy and uphold the Constitution of the United States.

17. We are a non-partisan, non-political organization.

18. We do not approve of any type of violence.

This will be a real "grass roots" agricultural meeting for all Pettis County farmers. We also invite all businessmen of Sedalia and Pettis County to attend.

We would like a representation from every township in this county, as plans will be made for our membership drive.

This meeting is for you, so plan now to attend.

OLEN E. DOWNS, President.

'Little Hoover' Plan To Get New Attention

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Missouri Public Expenditure Survey wants the 1957 Legislature to give renewed attention to recommendations of the state's "Little Hoover" Commission.

The 1955 Legislature ignored most of the 112 recommendations to improve the state government's operations. If that happens again, the survey said, Missouri may lose its best chance for governmental progress since the 1945 Constitution was adopted.

The survey is a taxpayers' organization which acts as a watchdog on government spending. It said adoption of the "Little Hoover" Commission's ideas could save hundreds of thousands of dollars.

The survey urged the new Legislature to set up a special joint committee early in the session to sponsor "Little Hoover" bills, escpailly for changes in budgeting procedure and fiscal operations.

Ghost of Black Market Stalks Paris in Shortage

LIGHT-HEARTED VIEW of French gasoline shortage is taken by these jokers filling an antique vase from a gas pump.

By ROSETTE HARGROVE
NEA Staff Correspondent

PARIS —(NEA)— The ghost of the Black Market stalks the streets of Paris these days. While the children gaze starry-eyed at the glittering window displays, wondering what Pere Noel will bring them, their mothers are thinking about their reserves on kitchen shelves.

Despite the reassurances of Prime Minister Guy Mollet, who declared there was no likelihood of food shortages, a wave of panic has swept over French housewives.

Terrified at the prospect of reliving the hungry days of 1940-1946, they have laid in stocks of sugar, rice, flour, canned goods, oil and coffee, as well as soap. In chain grocery stores as well as smaller local shops women, like feverish ants, last week flitted from counter to counter, filling their shopping baskets.

History has a habit of repeating itself. Once again, retailers are treating their clients condescendingly. At a small local store where I asked for a bottle of oil and a kilo of sugar, the answer was: "We reserve our supplies for customers who buy everything here"—wih great emphasis on "everything."

Parisians are also renewing their contacts with country cousins as sources of supply of dairy foods.

It is useless to try to explain to these distraught hoarders that if and when a global war did happen, their world would probably disintegrate—and their hoards with it.

Neither can they understand that hoarding is not playing the game.

After food, the most important item is clothing. At one department store I was told that there had been many women who had bough two extra winter coats. Another declared they had sold their entire supply of men's and women's woolen underwear, because of restricted heating.

If women cannot understand that hoarding is unpatriotic, many husbands have certainly not given the example. Their assault on gasoline pumps has been like a minor gold rush. Here the black market already has reared its ugly head with automobilists wheedling and promising substantial tips to attendants in exchange for a full tank.

The recent "gas-less" weekend (pumps closed from Saturday noon to Monday morning) cleared from 30 to 40 per cent of the traffic from the streets of Paris and the national highways.

Gasoline hoarders have been warned that insurance companies will not cover the fire hazard they represent. People are reported to have stowed the precious "juice" away in barrels, demijohns and every possible kind of receptacle in kitchens, cellars and attics. The American jerry-can—which could be picked up for under 50 cents at the Flea Market until a couple of months ago — is now worth around four dollars and difficult to come by.

What the French consumer may feel eventually is more than just the pinch on oil. Imports of tin, rubber, manganese, jute and cotton face a slowdown if they are detoured around the Cape, too. Seventy-five per cent of the rubber used by France, for instance, normally comes via the Canal.

Meanwhile Parisians are renewing their acquaintance with the Metro, which at peak hours is now almost as crowded as the New York subway.

Another consequence of the blocking of the Suez Canal are the heating restrictions. People living in modern houses or apartment buildings already have had their gas-oil supplies cut by 30 per cent and face a shivering winter. Hospitals and public buildings are also cutting dowr on heating.

The Government insists that this is only a matter of a few months, but the recent cold wave has slowed down private entertaining until hostesses get themselves organized. Even people lucky enough to have old-fashioned open fireplaces in their homes have to wait for deliveries of coal which apparently is also in short supply, although through no fault of Nasser.

This promises to be a semi-austerity Christmas for the French. With automobile traffic restricted, and de luxe trains off the railroad schedules, proprietors of hotels in mountain resorts as well as on the Riviera are considering whether it is worth their while to open at all.

Red Regime Makes Overtures to Roman Catholic Church

VIENNA (AP) — Continuing its campaign to gain popular support by anti-Stalinist measures, the Polish Communist regime of Premier Wladyslaw Gomulka is making major overtures to the Roman Catholic Church.

The Warsaw radio said the government is promising Poland's millions of Roman Catholics that their children can have religious teaching in the public schools. This has been the church's top demand in any agreement to normalize church-state relations.

Catholics abroad also have received a report that about 1,000 priests were freed recently in Silesia, a section of western Poland that was German before World War II. Reports to the Catholic press center in Rome said most of the priests, who were imprisoned in 1953, will stay in the country and resume their normal activity.

New York's 'Mad Bomber' Causes Police Nightmare

NEW YORK (AP)—After 16 years, New York's "mad bomber" is still giving police a nightmare.

It is as strange a case as ever was recorded here.

The "mad bomber" is the fellow who, since 1940, has been planting homemade but highly dangerous time bombs in some of Manhattan's best known public places.

A number have gone off. Eight people have been injured. Others barely escaped being hurt. Hundreds of officers have tried to track down the man responsible.

His crude bombs, powder-filled pieces of pipe three to five inches long, are potentially explosive enough to kill anybody near. Often they have been planted in the midst of large crowds. Yet nobody has been badly hurt. Luck?

The bomber's favorite targets are the two big railway stations, Grand Central Terminal and Pennsylvania Station, and three well-known Manhattan theaters—the famed Radio City Music Hall, the Paramount and the Roxy. Last week another home - made explosive, bearing all the earmarks of the bomber's handiwork went off in Brooklyn's Paramount theater during a performance of "War and Peace," injuring four.

Authorities, are loathe to discuss the case, and with good reason.

For one thing, they feel that the man they want is spurred on by the stir he creates.

They know also that they're dealing with a mighty cagey customer who isn't necessarily the "madman" some accounts indicate. What, then, is he?

"He is a fellow with a problem," said one police official close to the case. "What it is, the Lord only knows.

"But these things help him in some way, fulfill some kind of a need for him."

On Nov. 18, 1940, the first bomb went off in a phone booth of the Consolidated Edison Co. headquarters building.

Since then, there have been 27 known examples of the same man's handiwork.

In several cases the explosive instruments were found intact, possibly through failure of their mechanisms. Needless to say, they have been studied endlessly by experts.

The explosive powder is of a general type that offers no helpful clue. Nor does the pipe in which it is put.

The device for timing the blast is in every case the same type of cheap wrist watch, sold at countless stores. Often the bomb is wrapped in an old sock.

Perhaps the most extraordinary thing was that the bomber halted his activity after several bomb plantings in 1940 and 1941, and didn't start up again until 1951. Since then he seemingly has grown more active—reaching a peak of six in 1955.

Whiteman AFB Gets Building For Maintenance

Good news for aircraft mechanics, periodic maintenance type, loomed on the Whiteman Air Force Base skyline this week.

This stark steel framework being constructed north of the jumbo hangar on this Strategic Air Command installation will soon be transformed into an ultra-modern B-47 nose dock, according to information from Air Installations this week.

The dock, which will envelop all but the tail section of a B-47, assigned to the 340th Bomb Wing, is being built so that there will be sufficient maintenance facilities under one roof to allow maintenance personnel to perform periodic inspections without leaving the building.

The new dock, being built at a cost of $562,000, is scheduled to be completed sometime in March of 1957. It will add approximately 28,270 square feet of work space to Whiteman's present maintenance facilities.

Physically, the building will present a somewhat different apeparance than other flight line buildings in that it will be constructed with walls and a roof covered with corrugated sheet metal and will be lighted in such a manner as to simplate daylight for personnel assigned to a night shift.

Of interest to the drivers of Coleman tugs is the fact that the tug can be driven through the hangar in such a way as to facilitate the moving of aircraft in and out of the building. This means no more ducking under another airplane to get to the one to be moved.

Enrollment in All US Schools Hit Record Peak This October

WASHINGTON (AP) — Enrollment in the nation's schools, from kindergarten to college, hit a record 39,353,000 this fall.

The Census Bureau, making the announcement today, said this was an increase of 4,903,000 since the fall of 1953 and a gain of 1,927,000 over last year.

The totals include enrollment in public, private and church schools and colleges. The count covered persons 5 to 34 years old and was made for October in the comparable years.

More than 99 per cent of all children 7 to 13 years old were enrolled in school in October. That percentage has been holding almost steady for the last few years.
